ELKS ARE FETED AT BIG PROGRAM

Washington's Birthday Occasio Of Celebration by Members, Ladies of Local Lodge.

Saturday, Washington's birthday was a gala day for Heppner Elks lodge No 358, for a dance was held in the evening and Elks and their adies were entertained at programs during the afternoon.

More than 300 were in attendance at the dance in the evening, a num-ber of the lodgemen and their ladies coming from points as far distant as Condon, Monument and Pendleton. The dance was the lodge's an nual formal. A colorful scene was created by the variety of formal gowns worn by the women taking part in the dance. The hall was decorated with a canopy of multicolored streamers and Chinese lan-terns overhead. Purple and white streamers, dropped from a pergola-like setting that surrounded the dance floor added to the beauty of the decorative motif. The letters BPOE in purple and white and an elk head appearing in the center of a clock and located at the east end of the hall completed the decorative Favors in the form of balloons, fans and noise-makers were dis-tributed during the progress of the dance. Music for the occasion was provided by Pat's Six Aces of The Dalles. A lunch was served continlously during the dance.

During the afternoon wives and ladies of the Elks were entertained at a bridge party held at the Ma-sonic temple. Eight tables of bridge were in play. Prizes for high scores went to Mrs. Gay M. Anderson and Mrs. W. H. Cleveland. Refreshments of salad, sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee were served the guests. Hostesses for the event were wives of officers of the lodge. Those serving in this capacity were Mrs. Earl Gordon, Mrs. LaVerne Van Marter, Mrs. Paul Gemmell, Mrs. Garnet Barratt, Mrs. Dean T. Goodman, Mrs. David Wilson and Mrs.

Members of the lodge were amus ed during the afternoon at open house at the club rooms. Boxing matches were staged and other forms of entertainment provided. A bounteous lunch was provided for the hungry lodgemen.

Boxing Bouts Staged

The main event battle between Peck McClaskie of The Dailes, 165 pounds and Sailor Jimmie Ryan of Pendleton, 165 pounds, was a short-winded affair, on a card at the Fair pavilion Saturday night promoted by Russell Wright for the Heppner Boxing commission. It ended in the econd round when Fred Hoskins of Rhsa creek, referee, made a deci-sion of "no fight." McClaskie was on the aggressive in the sparring of the first round. Ryan took one on the chin in the second and was down for eight counts. After re-suming the fight he fell to the floor unhit, and rolled under the ropes. He had evidently hurt his knee in the previous fall, and could not support his weight on it. After this fall, Hoskins made the decision that ended the fight.
