QUENCHING OUR THIRST.

ARTESIAN water! As if in answer to a prayer came the news to town Tuesday evening that water was welling from the ground in ever increasing quantities at the hole being sunk for the city at the forks of Willow creek.

No more welcome news was ever broadcast since the days of the town-crier, than this. Though the quality of the water is yet to be determined, and the fact established that the well itself will supply the city's needs, the news is none the less good news.

Several persons have been heard to suggest that the occasion is one which the city should fittingly celebrate. It is, indeed, a time for thanks giving.

KEEP THE FENCES UP.

IN a broad sense everyone in the United States is of alien descent. Even the Indians are of a stock which modern scientists believe came from Asia by way of Bering Straits.

Their children, born in America, speedily absorb the American outlook on life. This may take two generations in the more congested foreign-language districts of the larger cities, but it is a safe generalization that the third generation of American-born are as good Americans as anybody.

It is increasingly difficult, however, to Americanize the alien speedily. When the proportion of the old stock to the new was much larger than it is now, it was easier. It was easier, too, because the preponderance of immigration in the first half-century of our national life was of those who spoke the same tongue and so were not under the double handicap of having to learn at the same time a new language and new set of ideals and social standards.

Except for a few short-sighted interests that would like to open the gates and let in a flood of cheap labor, there is no substantial opposition noticeable anywhere today to the restriction of immigration on the basis of national quotas.

the basis of national quotas. It is only fair to those who are already here, which includes all of us, not to let the country be swamped by more newcomers in a given time than can be welded in a reasonable period into the mass which makes up the American people.

There is such a thing, however, as being too tolerant of the alien who comes here, not with the desire to become a good American but with the purpose of overthrowing American institutions and Europeanizing the country.

We have developed a method of insuring life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness to our citizens which works better toward that end than the system in vogue anywhere in the world so far. We must demand of every new immigrant that he subscribe to and become a part of that system.

WE ARE accustomed to think of war only in terms of the loss of life and of property while the conflict is still raging. But there are other costs which continue for generations after the fighting is over. One of these is the cost of caring for the injured and disabled veterans and their dependents.

Another post-war item which runs on for years is the interest on the public debt created by war, the repayment of the principal of the money borrowed for war purposes.

The present cost of running the United States, counting Federal expenditures alone, is $3,976,141,651 a year. These are the figures for the fiscal year which ends on June 30 this year. More than two-thirds of this stupendous total is covered by the three post-war items of war cost enumerated above.

That is what the last war is still costing us a year, nearly twelve years after it was finished! Only a small proportion of these annual charges are on account of previous wars.

The American people should understand that current expenditures on strictly military activities of the Army and Navy constitute the largest military budget of any nation in the world today, and at a time when there is less real danger of extensive disturbance to peace than at any time in more than half a century.

Is it any wonder that other nations, viewing these tremendous expenditures for war in time of peace, laugh up their sleeves at us when we brag that we are a peace-loving people? It costs each man, woman and child in the United States about $31.66 a year to pay for running the national government. That is an average of about $168 a year per family.

Mind Over Matter

One of the most potent causes of disease in the digestive tract is mental unrest. The average medical practitioner, I believe, will agree with me when I assert that nervous conditions are more frequently the cause of constipation, liver-dyspepsia and sour stomachs—far oftener than "germs."

Alonso Edmundson returned to Heppner Friday afternoon, after receiving medical attention in Portland. He reports that his lower jaw is beginning to knit for the first time since his accident in November.

GIVING UP ALL FOR THE KINGDOM OF GOD. Matthew 19:16-26.

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D.D.

Jesus has left Galilee, where most of his work was accomplished. He is passing through Perea on His way to Jerusalem where He will keep the Jewish Passover and then become at once the victim on the cross. At this distant time no positive answer can be given for the reason He chose to pass through the region called beyond the Jordan. By doing this He avoided going through Samaria, for those there would not go up to Jerusalem to worship.

Begin your study with the first verse of chapter 19. It seems that no matter where He went the Pharisees were right there, like slugs, to heckle Him when He talked to the people. This time the question of divorce was raised. Jesus gave the answer that makes for safety in building up the institution called the home, and this is basic in the social fabric. Today at least one out of six marriages ends in the divorce courts. The Master Teacher declared that those who enter into the marriage bond should do it with the idea that neither would ever seek dissolution. If there are children, in every case they are great sufferers and they are not the responsible ones.

Along the way a sort of smart Aleck, as he might be called today, asks what he can do to gain eternal life. This scene is pictured by Hofmann in his well-known "Christ and the Rich Young Ruler." All remember how the young fellow does not even look at Jesus as He makes reply, but shows a face of ultra indifference. As Jew to Jew, Jesus called attention to the commandments. Then the fellow sought to avoid the issue by asking: "Which one?" In reply those that deal with relationship to society are named. It was taken for granted that he believed in Jehovah. Then the self-satisfied chap said "All these have I kept from my youth up." Just one direct command showed his failure in "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." When told to sell all and give to the poor, the inquirer turned his back on the Master Teacher. For show and form he had tossed many a coin to some importunate beggar but to sell all that he had and become a good steward in expending it for humanity, that was simply unthinkable.

What Jesus said about the rich man finding it harder to be saved than for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle, does not have the same application today. Many rich people are consecrating their great wealth for the good of humanity. The Associated Press said that $2,330,000,000 was thus placed in 1928, and that there were no less than 500 $1,000,000,000 benefactions.

The young man wanted to know what he could DO to receive eternal life. He had the wrong idea at the start. It is not by doing but by being that the title was the minimum proportion. Then came gifts of thank and free-will offerings. All of us are stewards of whatever we possess. Some may have very little money to give, but they do have time and talents that can be devoted to God and humanity.
