C. J. D. Bauman, sheriff, returned to Heppner by auto Friday night after several days in Portland. He was called by the federal court to be present for the indictment by the grand jury of Wilford K. McPaul, alias deLong, whom he arrested a short time ago at Arlington on a charge of passing counterfeit currency. Equipment alleged to have been used at Eugene by McPaul in making the bills was on exhibit. McPaul was indicted on nine counts for violation of the federal penal code. Mr. Bauman also represented Heppner Masonic lodge at the grand lodge session in Portland, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. On his return to Heppner he was accompanied by Miss Beulah Stallard, niece of Miss Edith Stallard, who will visit with her aunt during the summer.

Alfred Caldera of Hardman, hit in the head when a load of lumber he was hauling from the mountains above Hardman, shifted. He was unconscious for two hours last Thursday, being brought to Heppner where the gash at the base of his skull was closed with several stitches. Following treatment he returned to his home.

Frank Anderson and Billy Thomson received injuries when they were thrown from a horse they were riding on the Anderson ranch at Eight Mile Thursday. Four stitches were required to close a gash in Frank's right ear. His face was also badly scraped. Billy's injuries consisted of bruises.

Mrs. Eph Eskelson returned Wednesday from Portland where she has been visiting her daughter, Miss Gladys Bengt, who underwent an operation at St. Vincent's hospital. Mrs. Eskelson reports that her daughter is doing fine, being able to leave the hospital Wednesday.

Mrs. Clara Taylor of Culdesac and Mary Dorothy Ward, Patricia Ward and James Ward returned to their home Sunday after a visit of several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Barton. The children are nieces and nephew of the Bartons, and Mrs. Taylor is their aunt.

Clair Cox left Heppner Thursday night for Seabeck, Wash., where he will represent Oregon State college at the Young Men's Christian association summer camp. He was joined in Portland Friday by friends who are motoring to Seabeck, located on Puget sound.

T. J. Mahoney of Portland, who has been in Heppner visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Mahoney, left Friday for Spokane, Wash., where he will visit with his nephew, Terah, who formerly was employed here in the First National bank.

Dr. A. B. Gray, Heppner chess enthusiast, is interested in starting a chess club in the community. He seeks the competition of the more experienced players and offers to instruct beginners.

Pete Evans was in Pendleton Thursday looking after business interests.

Dr. Gilbert S. Lambert Now Endorses Sargon

DR. GILBERT S. LAMBERT

"For over two years I suffered with chronic stomach trouble and constipation that I was unable to correct with ordinary medicines. My appetite failed, I couldn't sleep and I was losing weight rapidly. I had frequent bilary attacks when my complexion became yellow as if I had jaundice.

"The Sargon treatment appealed to me because of its scientific background. Three bottles taken with Sargon Soft Mass Pills overcame my troubles, and I am in better physical tone than in years."—Dr. Gilbert S. Lambert, well known retired physician of San Francisco.

Patterson & Son, druggists, local agents.—(Adv.)

Mrs. Verna Dallas of Grants Pass has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Crawford for more than a week. Mrs. Dallas is Mrs. Crawford's cousin.

Facts and Figures on Dairy Industry Given

(Hoard's Dairyman.) Here are some facts that may upset the fancies of some of those who talk and write without sound knowledge:

- 1. Butter production in 1929 was 15 1/2 million pounds in excess of 1928, but was 4 million pounds less than in 1927.
- 2. Cheese production in 1929 was 59 million pounds less than in 1928 and 30 million pounds less than in 1927.
- 3. The decreased cheese production in 1929 was equivalent to 28 million pounds of butter—more than the increased butter production.
- 4. Total milk used in manufacture of butter, cheese, and condensed milk was only one-tenth of one per cent greater in 1929 than in 1928 and two-tenths of one per cent greater than in 1927.
- 5. The number of milk cows on January 1, 1929, was four thousand less than in 1928, and was the lowest number on record for the past seven years with the exception of 1927.
- 6. Butter prices in 1927 and 1928 were the highest on record except in the post-war inflation years of 1919 and 1920, yet butter production in 1927 was 4 million pounds higher than in 1929 and is the highest ever recorded.

The facts do not indicate a basis for the general outcry of overexpansion of the dairy industry and consequent over-production. The next explanation most commonly voiced is oleomargarine. Again, what are the facts?

- 7. Oleomargarine consumption in 1929 was 331 million pounds, an increase of 37 million pounds over 1928. This seemingly accounts for the greater part of the butter surplus, but disregards the demand of an annual increase in population of something over 1 1/3 million people.
- 8. Per capita consumption of oleomargarine was 2.74 pounds in 1929, an increase of 0.28 pound over 1928. Despite this increase, per capita consumption of oleomargarine is nearly one-third less than in 1918.

ED CHINN, Prop.

to 1929. What is the record as to consumption of butter? 9. Butter consumption in 1929 amounted to 2,047 million pounds, a decrease of 25 million pounds from 1928 and 41 million pounds from 1927, both these latter being years of high priced butter. 10. Not only did total butter consumption decrease despite an increase of over a million consumers, but the per capita consumption of 16.9 pounds in 1929 was 0.44 pound less than in 1928 and 0.72 pound less than in 1927. 11. Butter consumption started to decline in May and June when prices were relatively high and when unemployment apparently started to make itself felt in the buying power of the consumer. 12. If the per capita consumption of 17.62 pounds of butter in 1927 had been carried into 1929, the demand would have been for 43 million pounds more than we actually produced. 13. There was a net export of butter in 1929 as compared with a net import during the previous six years. Therefore imports are not a factor. Feeding of clover or other hay that has been affected with powdery mildew has shown no ill effects on stock at the Oregon Experiment station, and the fungus appears to be in no way poisonous. Yields on acreages affected with this disease are below normal, however, and the seed pods do not fill out. Dusting with sulfur while the growth is short is recommended for its control. A rubber plate scraper scrapes the dish better than a knife or fork and saves fatigue because it is noiseless.

A COLUMN OF FUN AND FACTS (Edited by Dean T. Goodman from his private sanctum down at the Heppner Garage.) June 19, 1930.

HOWDY FOLKS—This is the time of the year when you drive twenty miles to that lovely picnic place you found last year and discover that it is littered with tin cans, paper plates and old pickle jars.

Picnic parties afford everyone an opportunity to get out of the city or our humor or both.

And one of the surest ways to keep in good humor is to be free of tire troubles. If you have been using GOODYEAR tires you are already in the trouble free class. If not, come in and let us show you why more people choose GOODYEAR TIRES than any other kind.

Spanning the Pacific Ocean in a dirigible will soon be a reality. The Pacific Zeppelin Transport Co. expects to be in operation in 1931 and has already petitioned the government to make helium gas available to private interests. Helium gas is now a government monopoly.

Abe: "Papa I saved ten cents today. I ran all the way to school behind a street car."
Abc: "Why didn't you run behind a taxicab and save a dollar?"

"I want some winter underwear."
"How long?"
"How long? I don't want to rent 'em; I want to buy 'em."

This is the time of year when the June bridegroom wishes he had saved some of the rice that was thrown at him, so that he could cut down the grocery bill by having rice pudding for dessert.

And let us say once more that if all June bridegrooms would use GOODYEAR TIRES the savings would be great enough that money problems would be no more.

Walter Moore was learning to drive his new car the other day and when passing a telephone man climbing a pole he turned to Charlie Smith who was acting as instructor, and said, "Look at that guy. He thinks I never drove a car before." (Ed. Note—Charlie told us this for a fact.)

A patron asked Henry Schwarz of the Central Market how much the chickens were.
"A dollar and a half," said Henry.
"Did you raise them yourself?"
"Yes," said Henry. "They were a dollar and a quarter yesterday."

Charlie Cox says that what the farmer wants at his door is more opportunity and fewer wolves.

And we want you to come in and inspect our greasing and washing equipment. We claim we can give you the best grease or wash job in town. Make us prove it.

Speaking of vacations reminds us of the girl who went to Venice, but only stayed an hour, because she said the place was flooded.

We know a girl who claims that her face is her fortune, and who got awful sore when some one intimated that she was on the verge of bankruptcy.

And so ad finem.

Noble Grand, Edith Miller; Vice Grand, Merle Carmichael; secretary, Eva Lane; treasurer, Cora Warner. After the two meetings were over the two groups met together and a supper of sandwiches, coffee, pickles, fruit salad and jelly roll was served.

Mrs. Ed Burchell will entertain the ladies of the Three-Link Social club at her home next Tuesday evening.

A P. T. A. benefit dance sponsored by the Odd Fellows lodge of Lexington will be given in the Leach Memorial hall Friday, June 20.

"Marooned in Crater Lake," in which a boy, left by accident at an inaccessible point on the lake shore, finally signals the lodge by means of a kite constructed with the aid of postage stamps, the stories take the reader through many adventures and to many absorbing places. Miss Helen Wells is visiting Mrs. Laura Scott of Lexington this week. Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Miller of Salem are in Lexington visiting their sons and looking over crop prospects on their wheat ranch east of Lexington.

Oregon Writer Tells Of State's Wonders

University of Oregon, Eugene, June 18.—Carrying delightful and entertaining glimpses of Oregon into all parts of the United States, "Marooned in Crater Lake," a volume of short stories written by Alfred Powers, dean of the extension division of the University of Oregon, is already proving a marked success, according to reports of the publishers, the Metropolitan Press. Orders for the book, which contains six highly interesting tales of this state, are now coming in from all parts of the United States, especially from libraries, some of which are ordering several copies. SCORES OF NEW HOMES

The poles installed by our company in one year, if converted into lumber would add more than one hundred fine new homes to this city.

The concrete and steel, brick and tile would add many more.

Of course each home would be adequately wired for every electrical need—but the copper wire we install in a year would also roof these houses, furnish rust-proof plumbing and drains and copper nails.

The porcelain and glass from insulators would be more than sufficient to supply the finest of porcelain fixtures, and to glaze all windows with finest glass.

This indicates our contribution to the progress of the territory, and our faith in the future of all the communities we serve.
