THE "LOWER" HOUSE.

MOST observers of public affairs will agree with Mr. Coolidge in his recent statement that in the congress which adjourned the other day the house of representatives proved itself the saner and more sportsmanlike of the two houses and went far toward regaining its former prestige.

Certainly the performance of the United States senate is nothing for the nation to be proud of. Instead of being the sedate, deliberate body which it was intended to be and was for many years, the senate has become the forum for the wildest and most irresponsible demagoguery. This is a condition which cannot be entirely blamed, perhaps, upon the so-called "populist" election of senators...

It was the house of representatives which was responsible for practically all of the constructive legislation which the 71st congress has enacted thus far. While senators of both parties were posing for individual effect and taking every possible opportunity to give the president a slap in the face, the house of representatives went about the public business in a business like way and stood firmly against the wildest and most impractical proposals of the senate.

The attempt to assert the authority and dominance of the senate and to reduce the presidency to the status of an office-boy has had some curious manifestations, but has aroused the laughter and derision of the public more than its sympathies. The rejection of the president's first nominee for associate justice of the supreme court, Judge Davis, was much more an attempt to "put the president in his place" than because of any real objection to Judge Davis.

No wonder that President Hoover said, when informed of the birth of his latest granddaughter, "I'm glad she doesn't have to be confirmed by the senate."

The senate controls all important patronage, under the constitutional clause requiring its "advice and consent" to major presidential appointments. But in the last few weeks of the session it became apparent, even to senators, that the country was resentful of the senate's antics. The president wisely refrained from trying to crack the whip over them. Apparently he thought that if he gave the senate enough rope it would hang itself; and that is what has happened, so far as the respect of the people is concerned.

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School Lesson for July 27. DEBORAH—A LEADER IN A NATIONAL EMERGENCY. Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D. Early mistakes can cause many calamities in later years. It was just this way in the history of the Israelites during their conquest of the Promised Land. When Joshua was commissioned to cross the Jordan and possess the land he was told to drive out all the natives, who were gross in their idolatries. All too soon the Hebrews were content with the limited area they had allotted to the various tribes, whereas the promise was that they would be victors wherever their feet would tread as they went forward in conquest. Because they stopped short of the command of God almost continuous results resulted. Soon the various peoples that were permitted to remain in the land sought to intermarry and then to interest the Jehovahites in taking up the forms of licentious worship which were indigenous. These made a strong appeal to the flesh and this made them attractive. Further, tribute was levied for the sake of non-attack, or marauding took place after the crops had been garnered. Only when the new inhabitants were all but re-enslaved did they remember from whence God had delivered them in freeing them from the burden they had to bear in the land of Egypt. Then, though late, they would turn to the Lord and cry out for His divine help. God's way was to raise up some deliverer who is called a judge. There are at least a dozen of these Judges, beginning with Othniel and reaching to the time of Samson and Samual. Though there were many good men in Israel, this time God will act through Deborah. She was a woman worthy in her own home. Soon her influence extended to the community and the people sought her advice as she held a kind of court under the conveniently located palm tree. Being attentive to the voice of God she understood that through her leadership Israel would be delivered from the oppression of Jabin, who often terrorized the colonists by his display of those one thousand chariots of iron. A good leader assigns work to others and Barak was commissioned to assemble ten thousand from the tribes of Israel at Mount Tabor. When the enemy came forward for attack a God-sent storm broke in their midst and the one thousand chariots of iron at once became a great liability and the dead were piled up in utmost confusion at the crossing of the swollen Kishon river. It remained for another woman to destroy the enemy's general, Jael drove a tent pin through the temples of Sisera while he slept after a hearty meal. Thus Israel was again freed from the oppression of a neighboring people. This is designated as the Quarterly Temperance lesson and a significant application comes from the habits of the Israelites during this period of the Judges. They seemed to forget that the facts of the past must be taught each new generation. The children in every age are the men and women of each tomorrow. These growing youth should have been instructed in the commands of God and further reminded that disobedience would bring oppression from the surrounding peoples. Experience is too costly when each age learns matters anew. There has been unbelievable progress in freeing the nation from the curse of the organized liquor traffic. Today the law that relates to the Eighteenth Amendment is being sixty per cent enforced. Prohibition is about the liveliest news in the daily press. One of the greatest needs today is that there shall be more teaching to youth that alcohol is a poison and its use as a beverage is detrimental to life, society and morals.

HAPPY DAYS.

THIS is the season of the year when the small boy gets the most out of life. Adolescent juveniles of today may go in for golf and tennis, for motor-ing parties in more or less modest costumes, but the small boy who hasn't yet any "teen" in his age gets his summer fun in just about the way we did, and our fathers and grandfathers before us. At least, if he doesn't, he's missing something of real value in his life and education. It is one thing for a boy to go to a carefully supervised summer camp or to study scientific wood-craft under the tutelage of a scout-master. It is quite another thing for him to roam around the woods and pastures barefooted, accumulating an immense amount of lore about the habits of mud-turtles and garter-snakes. Game laws mean nothing in his young life. He can get more of a thrill fishing for bull-heads and sunfish in the old mill-pond than your fancy sportsman with his split bamboo rod and hand-tied flies ever experiences. And when it comes to bathing, all the beaches in the world can't compare with the old swimmin' hole, where you never had to bother with a bathing suit, where girls were strictly banned, and where you didn't need a spring board to dive from. No man has ever truly lived who has not experienced the sensation of a "belly-dog" that pretty nearly knocked the wind out of him! We do not learn about the world we live in through eyes and ears alone. We learn through our hands and our feet, the feel of sun and wind and rain on our bare bodies, the squish of mud between our toes, the heft of a hickory limb compared with a willow branch. Only such intimate contacts with nature can establish a background against which life can be viewed in later years in its true perspective. Do boys still whistle whistles out of young yew shoots? You hammer the bark gently with the handle of your Barlow knife—only it's your Boy Scout knife in these days—and the bark peels off in a perfect cylinder which only needs to have the wood whittled to the proper shape and reinserted, to make a whistle to which any good dog will respond. We had almost forgotten the dog. He is needed to make the picture complete. A boy, a dog, a jackknife, in the country in the summer—that is the combination which provides the only perfect happiness most of us ever had or will have.

TROEDSONS RETURNING. The J. A. Troedson family who have been spending a year in the east write that they are starting homeward for Morgan this week. Most of their time has been spent in Pennsylvania, with Guys Mills as their address. From there they wrote on the 15th: "Farmers are busy cutting their hay. The crops are good here this year. Had a big rain Sunday. Rains are needed here every two weeks. We are all O. K. Will see you soon."

Bro. Nasell and Bro. Johnson, traveling missionaries who are leaving for East India in a short time, held services at the community church Sunday morning and evening. Bro. Johnson gave an interesting address in the morning and the two furnished special music, both vocal and instrumental which was enjoyed by everyone. A large crowd from Stanfield was present in the evening and Bro. Nasell talked to a crowded house.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards of Lexington and Mrs. Hoskins of Mr. Edwards' mother, were visiting in this vicinity Sunday at the church. Miss Snow McCoy, who spent the Fourth in Portland, returned Wednesday accompanied by her cousin, Miss Ruth Bonell, who will visit with relatives for some time.

Wednesday evening a singing group of young people, a hilarious group of young people, whom after consuming all the ice cream and candy they cared for, proceeded to escort the bride and bridegroom each to a different car (rather against their will), and treated them to an auto ride up and down the highway until a late hour. On Thursday evening a party of friends and neighbors accompanied by the band and bringing several freezers of ice cream and many cakes, again serenaded the bride and bridegroom and before going home presented them with a small purse in behalf of the Sunday school of which Mr. Warner is superintendent.

The entire neighborhood unite in wishing them a long, happy and prosperous life in the midst of Earl Isom, Dorothy Isom and Shirley Frederickson spent Saturday night and Sunday in Walla Walla visiting friends. Miss Dorothy will spend the coming week with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Atchinson of Walla Walla.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR. By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

"Lowered Resistance"

I seriously doubt if anybody ever contracts disease when what we call "bodily resistance" is normal. Many of us come in contact with disease germs every day; but because our bodies are functioning normally the infectious germs are unable to find lodging. The human digestive tract is singularly built to withstand infections. We swallow probably millions of germs, perhaps, in water, milk, raw fruits and other carriers of simple bacteria; these are for the most part promptly destroyed by healthy digestive juices. It is so with domestic animals; they drink and eat much that is impure, yet healthy digestive fluids protect them from disease. The time, however, when disease producers hop in and make themselves at home is when we are, in general parlance, "run-down," from one cause or another. Overwork is a certain invitation to the entrance of disease germs. This means overloading the stomach for protracted periods, wearing down the muscular system by heavy toil, and tearing down the nervous system by constant grind in these strenuous days. Anything that taxes the system beyond its endurance invites disease, which rarely appears otherwise, so that, when we get sick, we had better cast about for just how we forsook the law of right living. "Lowered bodily resistance" then is a factor in almost all diseased conditions. The physician sets in to "clean house" and to restore health by systematic rest for the overworked organs. Unless he can enforce suitable rest, he will have a slow recovery. It never pays to go to work too soon after any illness. Overwork—overwork! It is foolish. A man may tax his bodily resistance in dissipation—it is overwork just the same, though not in gainful employment. He may habitually lose sleep until his nerves become tired out; disease sets in, and he wonders why. Overdoing may be in pleasurable pursuits entirely. If you are overdoing—quit it before it's too late.
