

Local Happenings

Geroge White of Lexington was looking after business here on Tuesday. He reports that his threshing is pretty well finished and the crop turned out much better than he anticipated. George began with 5000 sacks, feeling that there might be several hundred to turn back. These were filled, however, and he had to get a few hundred more. The grain is making something better than 20 bushels to the acre and is of excellent quality.

Mrs. Chas. Curtis of Marshfield is a guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Smead, this week. Mrs. Curtis came up from Portland the end of the week with Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Nickerson, who spent several days the past week in the city. She was with her sister, Mrs. Lena White, for some time while the latter has been receiving treatment at the hands of a specialist for eye trouble.

Leonard A. Gragg, young man from Silverton, working as sack sewer on the Albert Nelson harvester crew, came to town on Monday with a badly infected hand, acquired while carrying on his work. The injury seemed slight at first, but when he was kept walking the floor all of Sunday night by the pain, he thought it time to have the offending member looked after by a physician.

Paul Marble, manager of the local office of Pacific Power & Light company, returned home Sunday with his family from two weeks vacationing at various points along the coast of Oregon and Washington. At Seattle Mr. Marble enjoyed a visit with a brother who resides there, and the beach points were not so bad, the weather conditions being just a little too cold for comfort.

Roy Glasscock and wife of Mt. Vernon, Oregon, were week-end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Smead, remaining until Monday evening, when they went on to Hood River for a visit at the home of a daughter residing at Mount Hood.
