SOME FARM RELIEF.

THE best bit of farm relief news reaching Heppner in a long time comes from Arthur M. Geary, attorney for the farm interests in the recent grain rate fight before the Interstate Commerce commission. He announces interstate grain rates from Heppner have been reduced cents, effective October first.

Thus is the farmer compensated, while taking a third reduction in price for his wheat, for part of his marketing expense, as the rate re-duction also amounts to about onethird. Last year the average price ers shipping from Heppner paid a claims to be 156 years old.

WE ARE STILL RURAL.

ple of the United States live in "urban" rather than "rural" commun-ities. The census of 1920 showed 51.4 percent of urban population as against 48.6 percent rural. The cen- hees, Grand Sachem of Tammany sus of 1930 will undoubtedly show a Hall in New York, however. If that classification were adopted. about 36,500,000 of the people of the United States would be in the urban group, and the remaining 70 percent would still be rural folk. would be drawing the line somewhat closer to the top than proba-bly is justified, but there is something in what the Times says about Los Angeles, with more than a mil-lion and a quarter population; it is astonishingly metropolitan in some respects but "on most of the issues on which the American people vote, small town."

There is a difference between 'small town" and "rural." Mere lives does not necessarily affect one's point of view. It has been sald that there are more "small town-minded" people in New York community, and that is probably true. Certain it is that the dominant point of view of the people of America is opposed to the point of view which we think of in connection with the big cities. Probably the Times is right in saying that the "effective" urban population of the nation is not more than a quarter of the total.
