EDWARD F. BAILEY ADDRESSES LIONS

Candidate for Governor Upholds Income Tax. River Shipping.

LEADERSHIP NEEDED

Boy Scout Work and Heppner-Spray Road Recognized in Committee Appointments.

Edward F. Bailey, democratic nominee for governor and president of the Junction City Lions club, was a guest of Heppner Lions at their meeting Monday. He stopped here for a short time on his return home from the state American Legion convention at Baker. In his club talk Mr. Bailey made no reference to campaign issues, confining himself to a short discourse on matters pertaining to state government. This was his only public appearance while in the city, though he expects to return later when he hopes to meet a larger number of Likening the state government to a business, Mr. Bailey declared three factors to enter into its successful conduct, namely: finance, or sufficient money with which to conduct the business; ability to sell products at a profit, and coordination and cooperation of the different departments and people within the business to eliminate friction.

Cheaper Transportation Need

The present system of state fin ancing causes the burden to fall too heavily upon one class of property, real and personal, he said. This needs to be remedied if the state is to progress. A fundamental principle of our system of government requires that the people shall be taxed according to their ability to Following this course, Mr. Bailey advocatetd an income tax, properly applied, as the best means yet suggested for shifting the load and giving the greatest relief to those who now carry too much of the burden.

Touching the second factor, he declared cheaper transportation needed to facilitate the marketing of Oregon products at a profit. De-velopment of Oregon's waterways, the Columbia and Wilamette rivers, he asserted, would help bring this about.

More cooperation is needed on the part of people all over the state to do away with petty jealousy be-tween cities and individual sections. More of the attitude prevalent within the service clubs is needed. Here men get together to work for the towns, doing that which is pest for the towns and ignoring personal the town and ignoring personal the town and ignoring personal that the town are the town and ignored personal that the town are the town and ignored personal that the town are the town and the town are the town are the town and the town are the town are the town and the town are this about a leadership big enough to rise above any single party or faction must be had.

Oregon's problems are economic in character, not political, Mr. Bail ey said in conclusion. It is a mistake for one party to oppose solutions for these problems just beon its merit-not made a party is-

Lightning Plays Havoc With City Street Lights

Lightning frolicked about Hepper in a ticklish manner on Tuesday afternoon when the electrical storm passed over the city, and Paul Marble, manager of the local office of the Pacific Power and Light company, reports that as a result all of the street lights of Heppner were put out of commission-every ne of them being "blown out."

The electrical current was attrac ed to that part of the system to which the street lights are attached, and one transformer, only, was put out. This the repair crew soon replaced with a new one, but it required all day Wednesday to get new globes on the street arches. The wind also blew down two of the high power line polls and Mr. Marble estimates the damage at $250. The crew is now busy strengthen-ing the line by "stubbing" the polls, and this difficulty will not happen again at least for a long time to come, he says.

Oil Discovery Arouses Grant County People

(Grant County Journal)

Oil was reported discovered on the property of the Oliver Bros. in Bear valley last Thursday afternoon by well drillers who were boring for artesian water. Indications of oil were discovered from the 540 foot level of the well. According to Herman Oliver, the driller passed through a strata of white sand and then noticed oil signs on his tools. He sent down a bail and found on the water a heavy surface of what he believed to be crude petroleum oil.

Oliver was immediately notifled of the discovery and with Ralph Curl he went to his place in Bear valley. Mr. Curl, who has had considerable experience in the oil fields of Wyoming, agreed that indications of oil seemed to be quite evident and advised Oliver to send for an expert from Salt Lake City. Mr. Oliver said that he was going to take plenty of time to investigate the possibilities

The discovery has caused a great deal of excitement in Grant and Harney counties and already promoters and speculators have made their appearance and are trying to get leases on Bear valley property.

SIXTEEN TEACHERS MAKE UP FACULTY

Instruction Staff Complete With Many Changes In Personnel.

MORE PUPILS COMING

Children to be Transported From Sand Hollow and Willow Creek: Book Exchange Instituted.

Sixteen teachers will conduct the destinies of the Heppner schools for the year 1930-31, their personnel being complete, and they are expected to all be in the city by the end of the week, announces W. R. Poulson, superintendent. Plans are being made for enrollment of the largest number of pupils in the history of the school. Enrollment will be augmented by at least two additional districts transporting pupils to Heppner, making a total of at least three out-side districts taking advantage of the facilities offered by the local schools. Lena. district No. 2, will continue to transport its pupils here while Willow Creek, district No. 34, and Sand Hollow, district No. 41, are the newcomers. Balm Fork, district No. 42, may also bring pupils here, though definite arrange-ments have not been made.

New Feature Added.

Another new feature instituted at the school this year will be a book exchange, Mr. Poulson announced this week. Each year pu-pils bring used books to school with the desire of selling them, while many inquiries are also made as to the obtaining of these. Heretofore no centralized agency has been employed, and the used books have afforded more or less of a problem. This year Miss Florence French, high school student, will be in charge of an exchange where such books may be disposed of and acquired. The school will set all prices on books either bought or sold, but the exchange will not be conducted at a profit. Mr. Poulson says there is no desire whatever compete with the book stores who handle new books.

In connection with the book question, Mr. Poulson says there will be few if any changes this year in the textbooks required by the state course of study.

Teaching Line-up Given.

In the lineup of teachers for the grades, but three changes in the personnel are noted.
