SANDWICHES

Everybody likes sandwiches. They are easy to eat. Easy to serve. And they may be made sufficiently long beforehand to be out of the way when the party begins.

One woman has achieved quite a reputation for originality by always serving hot bacon and cheese sandwiches to her evening guests. They taste good, these substantial and toothsome concoctions, and they just satisfy the midnight appetite whetted by several hours of bridge.

All well and good for the well-servanted household. But for the most of us one of the sandwich's chief claims to favor is the practical one that it may be made ahead of time and put out of the way until wanted.

It is far easier to make presentable sandwiches if you have your implements in good condition. You must have a well-sharpened knife to cut the bread. You must have a good bread board to cut it on. You must have the fillings all made and each one must be provided with a separate butter spreader for spreading. You must have a silver knife for spreading the butter, which must be neither too soft nor too hard, but just right.

To begin with the butter, flavored butters are an addition to any sandwich-maker's stock in trade. Add finely minced parsley, for instance, to some of the butter. The juice will give the butter a light greenish tinge, and the parsley leaves will spot it with a darker tone, which in itself is attractive to look at. This butter is used in addition to some other filling. For instance, parsley butter might be used for sandwiches filled with thinly sliced chicken.

There are other ways of flavoring butter. Onion juice is sometimes used. It is delicious—onion-butter—with a sliced cucumber sandwich. Sardine butter is made by mixing pounded sardines with butter. But these oddly flavored butters must be carefully used, lest they seem to the sandwich eater like bad butter. The discriminating and sophisticated appetite is far more likely to find them interesting than is the more natural appetite which shies away from strange tastes.

Remember that you can gain interesting and easy variety if you make your sandwiches of several kinds of bread. Home-made white bread, nut bread and whole-wheat bread, for instance, all filled with the same filling, would seem to be three kinds of sandwich.

In Layers

The sandwich made up of several layers is always picturesque. For instance, start with a slice of white bread and butter, with a filling of chopped pimiento spread on it. Next cut a piece of Boston brown bread, thin, and spread with cream cheese. Then a slice of whole wheat bread, with lettuce and mayonnaise on it, another slice of whole wheat bread, cream cheese and Boston brown bread, pimiento and white bread. The bread must be cut very thin for these layer sandwiches. They should then be trimmed and cut into diamonds or strips or some other easily managed form.

Roll sandwiches, too, are decorative and delicious. To make them, use fresh and rather tough bread, and simply roll each sandwich and tie it until it keeps its shape. Or else tie it with a tiny band of wash ribbon, and leave that on until it is eaten.

WITH FARMERS ABOUT THE STATE

Roseburg—Farmers in Douglas county are planting an increased acreage of purple vetch and Austrian winter field peas this fall, according to J. C. Leady, county agent.

Prineville—An example of the wisdom of having soil tested before treating it for acidity was found in Crook county recently when a number of farmers came very nearly purchasing quantities of lime to apply on land that they believed sour or acid. County Agent W. B. Tucker tested samples of the land and found that they showed an alkaline reaction.

Hillsboro—More than 200 acres of potatoes, grown by some 50 Washington county farmers, have passed the second field inspection for certification, reports W. F. Cyrus, county agent. "Most of these are of the Burbank variety, although there are a few Netted Gems.

Lakeview—The Lake and Klamath county courts, the U. S. Indian service and the Oregon State college extension service are all cooperating in a big movement to rid Lake and Klamath counties of the grasshopper menace during 1931.

Dallas—Three years' experience with commercial fertilizers on prune orchards in Polk county indicate that more attention should be given to use of cover crops and maintenance of tree health through proper pruning, cultivating and treating for root borers before resorting to commercial fertilizers believes J. R. Beck, county agent.

SISTER DIES AT SALEM.

Mrs. Blanche Drake Henkel, 31, sister of Ray and Cleo Drake of this county, died in Salem, Wednesday, October 1, following an operation for gopher the day previous. The operation was performed at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, and though she rallied, it was only for a time and she passed away at 11 o'clock Wednesday night. Mrs. Henkel had visited at the homes of her brothers here this summer, and on this and many previous visits made many friends in the county. A graduate of Willamette university, she had taught for several years, and this year was engaged with the Grants Pass schools, when distress from her malady necessitated an operation. While at Willamette Mrs. Henkel was closely associated in her school work with Lee and Mary Notson (Mrs. Vernon Sackett), son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Notson of this city, and was counted a warm friend of the family. Funeral services were held at Salem at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with interment in Cityview cemetery. Attending were surviving members of the family, Edward Drake of Walla Walla, Wash., Leo Drake of Hood River, Ray Drake of Heppner and Cleo Drake of Ione, all brothers of Mrs. Henkel.

A new deal for today's dollar!

NASH Announces 3 new EIGHTS and a new SIX

NEVER was such motor car quality offered at prices so sensationally low. The literally startling difference becomes at once apparent when you contrast the prices of the new and finer Nash series, with prices of corresponding models a year ago.

Its low non-productive overhead, its elimination of borrowed capital, and remarkably foresighted manufacturing alone enable Nash to offer so much for so little. The unique example in value-giving thus provided the industry was planned last November. At that time, C. W. Nash and the strong group of executives surrounding him, clearly foresaw present conditions. They at once began to design cars affording value so great, so unmistakable, as to overcome all buying reluctance.

The result is instantly apparent. Even casual inspection of the four new Nash cars establishes the fact that nothing even remotely approaching them in downright dollar value has ever been available in their respective price fields.

SENSATIONALLY PRICED!

STUDY THESE SENSATIONAL PRICES!

Compare what is probably the most remarkable achievement of Nash in greater value-giving—the New Six—with the Single Six it succeeds. The new Six offers a multitude of superiorities—at prices which range from $160 to $140 below the prices of the Single Six.

Body Style	The New Six W. B. 1140*	Last Year's Six W. B. 1140*	Price Difference
Sedan (4-door)	$845	$1005-	—$160
Coupe	$795	$940-	—$145
Coupe (rumble seat)	$825	$980-	—$155
Sedan (2-door)	$795	$935-	—$140

Compare the New Eight-70 with its two additional cylinders, its longer wheelbase, its larger, more luxurious body, with the six-cylinder car it replaces. Then consider the remarkable fact that there is actually a basic price differential in favor of the New Eight!

Body Style	The New Eight-70 W. B. 1160*	Last Year's Six W. B. 1140*	Price Difference
Sedan (4-door)	$995	$1005-	—$10
Coupe	$945	$940-	+ $5
Coupe (rumble seat)	$975	$980-	—$5
Special Sedan (4-door)	$955

Compare the New Twin-Ignition Eight-80 Series with the 6-cylinder car it replaces. The Eight-80 is larger, longer. Design, appointments, upholstery are finer—prices are radically lower.

Body Style	The New Twin-Ignition Eight-80 W. B. 121*	Last Year's Twin-Ignition Eight W. B. 118*	Price Difference
Sedan (4-door)	$1295	$1415-	—$120
Coupe	$1245	$1345-	—$100
Coupe (rumble seat)	$1285	$1395-	—$110
Town Sedan (4-door)	$1375

Compare the New Twin-Ignition Eight-90 Series, now with a 115 H. P. Engine, with the last year's 100 H. P. Eight. Body appointments are finer, upholstery more luxurious, and prices are far lower!

Body Style	The New Twin-Ignition Eight-90 W. B. 124*-133*	Last Year's Twin-Ignition Eight W. B. 124*-133*	Price Difference
Sedan (4-door)	$1565	$1795-	—$230
