

BOARDMAN

If the costumes shown at the Hard Times dance were any evidence of economic conditions, then Republican prosperity was indeed a fantasy for there were tags and tatters of all colors and descriptions. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. B. S. Lewis, gowned in a creation of burlesque, and Z. J. Gillespie, the epitome of poverty from the newspaper collar and rope "galluses" to the much patched overalls. The dance was given by the Home Economics club, and music was furnished by the local orchestra composed of Mrs. Lowell Spangie, Messrs. Packard, Orla Brown and Nate Macomber. Supper was served at midnight. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cramer created a sensation by stepping out in fantastic costume and the former delighted the audience by his jiggling. Age rests lightly on this estimable couple who appear no older than they did 10 and 12 years ago, although Mr. Cramer has reached his allotted three score years and ten. Lee Holboke made a trip to Heppner Friday.

Miss Nellie Dillon came home from Portland for the week end. She is a student at the Behnke-Walker Business college where she is taking a secretarial course. The Meads spent the week end at The Dalles.

Opplie Waggoner was a visitor on the project Sunday. He has been at Condon for several years. Election for director for this irrigation district will be held November 11. Leslie Packard is the present incumbent. Ed Saunders and D. W. Miller have been mentioned as other candidates.

Elmer Westerfelt stopped off Monday for a few hours en route to Portland from Twin Falls, Idaho. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Nottingham and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Harmon of HOWDY FOLKS—The man who invented work, sure invented a lot of it. At least that's how it seems when we start making up this ad.

However there is one part that comes easy and that is the part where we shout the praises of our washing and greasing department.

"Where Quality and Service Meet"

Portland were week-end guests of Mrs. Lottie Attebury at the Price ranch.

This was a week of many festivities. One of the most enjoyable parties was that given by Rachel and Delbert Johnson with four tables of "Bug." At the close of an exciting game it was found that Carol Kennedy and Katharine Brown held the high scores and Mrs. Kennedy and Ray Barlow low. Present were the Misses Brown, McMahon, Shellenberger, Mildred Messenger, Doris Healey, Hattie Schultz, Mrs. Kennedy, the hostess, and Messrs. Barlow, Klitz, Hector and Carl Wicklander, L. Brown, and Stanley Falk, friend of Delbert's and a cousin of Miss Alice Falk, popular teacher here for four years.

Frank Kunze and Edward Skoubro were hosts at a birthday party on Saturday afternoon. Twenty boys and girls were present and had a merry time with outdoor games, as it was a gorgeous Indian summer day. Afterwards the group had a fine feast by the light of Jack-o-Lanterns.

Pete Slevin, sheep man on the west end, got tangled up with a fractious ram recently, much to the discomfort of Mr. Slevin. He received a badly bruised leg which has been quite painful.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Havens who had a cabin at the Oasis service station during the hunting season, left for Portland when the season closed. The Havens are from New York. They are old friends of the Falers and come up annually for the pheasant season.

Milton Shane and family of Willow creek were guests Sunday at the home of Mrs. Marie Shane.

The Johnsons were Pendleton visitors Tuesday. The Hadleys were also in Pendleton that day. On Saturday the Marchants and Miss Shellenberger and Miss McMahon and Mrs. Titus shopped in Pendleton.

Remember the date, November 7, when Dr. Daniel V. Poling will be here in the evening to show us how to do community singing. We have the voices here but when group singing has been attempted we always have various tempos, with part of the audience several measures ahead and the others vainly trying to catch up. Dr. Poling will also teach some community games.

Sid Reynolds and wife stopped Saturday for a short time at the Macomber home on their way to Walls, Walla where they went to attend funeral services of Mrs. Reynolds's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Barlow were hosts Wednesday evening at a delightful Hallowe'en party. The house was appropriately decorated. After a game of "500" with honors going to the Hereims and Fortiers, several games were played and later lunch was served. Place cards, favors and fortunes were all carried out in the orange and black color scheme. The guest list included the Fortiers, Kennedys, Coats, Meads, Macomers, Hereims, Dillaboughs, Ray Browns, Ray Barlow, Rachel Johnson and the hosts.

Mrs. J. A. Marlow and son Roy of Pendleton were Sunday guests at the Ransier home. The Ransiers have had a number of improvements made at their home. New floors have been laid and they have purchased new furnishings throughout.

Another of the many pleasant parties given during Hallowe'en week was that at the Rands home on Tuesday evening. There were three tables of "500" with honors going to the Meads and Densons. Other guests were Marschats, Browns, and Dillaboughs. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

On Thursday evening the younger set had a fine time at a Hallowe'en party at the Wicklander home when they gathered as a farewell for Lena and Dave Rose who leave shortly for Irrigon to make their home. Games were played and dancing was enjoyed, followed by a lunch.

The Haydens assisted in caring for Tom's camp during the week end while the Hendricks attended the stock show in Portland.

Only a few attended the meeting at the school last Tuesday, when two speakers were sent here by the grange to explain the various measures voted on this week. It was not due to a lack of interest but a great many men were working the baler or the road, and many of the farmers were busy getting things ready for turkey picking.

Politics has been the chief source of conversation of late and some strange things have happened, as for example Jack Gorham, a dyed-in-the-wool democrat, supporting Julius Meier. A number of other similar party defections have been noted. The Heppner candidates were abroad of late and campaigning in this end of the county. Geo. N. Peck, candidate for commissioner, and F. W. Turner, candidate for assessor, were here on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Turner of Condon stopped for a visit at the Wilson home. They had been to Sparta, Ore., and were on their way home. Mrs. Henry Graves of Sparta accompanied them and spent a few days, visiting at the Ward Graves and Wilson homes.

A posthumous Carnegie medal was awarded to Miss Eva Stange of Longview, who lost her life a year ago in the Columbia at Alderdale when attempting to save the son of I. R. Robison of Ione, when they were swimming in the river.

Ves and Ben Attebury had a narrow escape Thursday evening as they were returning from Condon. A car driven by A. K. Jakobsen, auto salesman of Portland, struck the Ford in the rear, wrecking it, and turning the other car over. The driver was decidedly under the influence of liquor so the fact that he was pinned under the car harmed him only to the extent of breaking his hand. When the Atteburys went back to Arlington to get the officers, Mr. Jakobsen and wife hurried on in their badly wrecked car and were apprehended near Hermiton and taken to jail at Pendleton. The trial was held Friday at Arlington and the defendant appealed the case. This is another example of what we may expect daily if the ban on booze is eliminated entirely. There is undoubtedly the laws but with a government controlled station in every town and thousands of "weak willed sisters" now wouldn't it be chaos and the highways more hazardous than at present. We are all indeed thankful that the Attebury brothers were not hurt.

A clever Panhandler pulled a new line on H. E. Waite, the local station agent, that so amused him he gave the hobo a quarter. "Will you feed an old engineer that went out on strike at La Grande in 1894?" Whether he had been on strike since that time he did not say. McKinley Huntington, field man for the Oregon Turkey Growers association, gave a demonstration Tuesday afternoon at the school gymnasium, of killing and picking turkeys. Many persons have made a fine first grade bird a second by improper sticking.

Chas. Barlow and family of Heppner spent Sunday here at the home of his parents.

The second meeting of the recently organized "Helomala" Bridge club was held at the home of Mrs. Royal Rands. High honors were won by Mrs. Ray Brown.

Mrs. Leo Root spent Wednesday at the Marvin Root home at Hermiton. Melvola Root is still quite ill following an operation for ulcers of the stomach. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Macomber of Condon were down Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Graves and Mr. and Mrs. John Graves were Sunday guests at the Ward Graves home. Mrs. Henry Graves accompanied the Shelby Graves family home for a few days visit.

Joe: "How were your grades last quarter?" College: "Jules Verne." Joe: "How's that?" College: "Twenty thousand leagues under the C." "What was your last occupation?" "An umbrella mender in the mid-west this summer."

More Milk

An extra inch of milk in the pail means extra dollars to you, over and above your feed bill.

Nearly every cow owner gets that increase with Cow Chow and Bulky-Las.

It costs about a dollar a month more to feed Checkerboard Chows, but that difference is more than made up in the first week. The rest of the month you get your extra milk for nothing. Feed out of the Checkerboard bag and you will get more milk.

Worth Thinking About

There are many ways to be thrifty besides merely saving the pennies, although we'll admit they are worth saving. Here are a few of them:

Save the moments—they are worth something to you if used properly. Be careful of your health—it may save you money for doctor's bills. Store wisdom away in your mind—where it will be valuable to you. In fact, keep sound mentally and physically. We can safeguard your funds—the rest is up to you.
