THE TURN OF THE YEAR

(Autocaster Service)

WHAT will 1931 bring?

The year just ended will go down in history as one of the hard years, economically speaking. Everybody in the United States has felt the pinch, not of poverty but of "hard times." Business has been slack, money hard to collect, credits have been curtailed, spending has been less, more people have been out of work, than at any time since the last great depression, which lasted through the year 1921. Yet there was little actual suffering in 1930, and the great majority of people continued to drive their automobiles, to enjoy themselves in much the same way as they were in the habit of doing. Most of us didn't buy as many new clothes, but nearly all of us had just as much of the same sort of things to eat. According to those who study those things, more of us went to the movies in 1930 than in 1929. And when the calls came for help for the unemployed, we gave more money, in hard cash, for charitable purposes, than we had given in any year since the war, when everybody was "giving till it hurt."

In short, "hard times" as we have experienced them in 1930, would have seemed like very good times indeed to the great majority of Americans, if we had not had six years of such riotous prosperity just before as to distort our sense of values.

Nobody can foretell the future, but we doubt very much whether 1931 will come any closer to the old-fashioned sort of "hard times" with great masses of people everywhere reduced to beggary and starvation. All of the signs visible today point the other way. We know that in many lines business is getting better; we are told that it is improving in almost every direction. The principal thing the matter with our economic situation today is the habit of thinking in terms of hard times, which may take the better part of 1931 to overcome.

In the long run, however, one thing is certain. The United States of America will go ahead toward better and brighter times than we have ever known. To believe otherwise is to believe that the human race is going backward, and that is definitely not true.

GROW LESS—GET MORE

(Autocaster Service)

THAT is the title of a little pamphlet which has just been put out for free distribution by the Federal Farm Board. It is worth every farmer's while to read it.

If any proof were needed that the less of any crop were produced, the more actual money the growers would get, it is furnished in the figures which the Farm Board cites. Every farmer realizes that when potatoes are scarce in the market he gets a higher price per bushel. What many do not realize is that the price per bushel is so much higher, in time of scant supply, that he actually makes more money on his small crop than when he grows a large one.

The potato figures are the ones the Farm Board uses. In 1928 the United States had the largest potato crop on record—443 million bushels. The average farm price for potatoes that year was 66 cents a bushel, and the total received by the farmers was 185 million dollars. In 1929 the potato crop was small—only 321 million bushels. As a result, the average price was a full dollar higher than in the year of the big crop, or $1.66 a bushel. The farmers received 337 million dollars for less work and less expense than when they got only five-eighths as much.

Of course, crop reduction won't work to increase farm prices unless all, or most of the farmers in a given district, growing the same commodity, agree to cut down their acreage. One of the results of the cooperative system which the Farm Board is charged by law to inaugurate, is a wider exchange of information among farmers, and a better mutual understanding, so that it should be easier in the future than it has been in the past, for farmers to agree to reduce their acreage in wheat, corn, cotton, potatoes or the other staple crops, to the advantage of all.

Fewer acres under cultivation, larger yields per acre, are the only secrets of real farm prosperity.

WORRIES

(A Worthwhile Editorial Selected by the National Editorial Association)

IN THE official bulletin of the American Educational Association, I read an essay on "Worries," which was very interesting and true. "Worry is not a feeling of downheartedness at actual obstacles and difficulties," it read. "It is not fear of danger. It is fear of the unknown. It is not the danger we face that sends cold shivers galloping up and down our spines. It is the danger we cannot see. And this danger that we imagine lurks right around the corner may have no other existence than that which we give it in our imaginations."

"I am an old man," said a philosopher, "and I have had many troubles, but most of them never happened."

And so it is with all of us. Our trouble is that we persist in forming judgment before we have the facts upon which we form it. We are afraid something unpleasant or unfortunate may happen, and immediately we begin to take it for granted that something unpleasant or unfortunate is bound to happen. And so we give way to worry.

Such state of mind tells two things. It tells first that one lacks a sense of humor, and second, that one lacks common sense enough to suspend judgment until whatever is really going to happen has a chance to show itself.

Worry is a term that describes more than our reflections to material influences. It applies to personal affairs, also. For example, we often say of a person who does not quite fit our ideas, that we are worried about what he may do next. Possibly this worry, as we call it, does not arise out of anything he has ever done. It is simply that we do not understand what is going on in his mind, and what his intentions may be. Ten to one he is using better judgment and effort than we give him credit for and what he does will not harm us—may even be of benefit. But we do not understand, and, therefore, we worry about it.

Sometimes we worry about our work. We are afraid that the plant may close down or go on half time, or that our job is going to be handed to someone else, or that someone else is going to get a certain promotion. So we allow ourselves to be so perturbed in mind that it seriously interferes with getting things done, and helps to bring on the very trouble we fear.

Worry is never helpful in forming judgment according to facts. It does not assist in bringing about the best that can happen. Worry jumps at conclusions, passes judgment in advance of events, and does its damage before reason has a chance to come to the rescue.

To persist in worrying is to deal a death blow to health and vitality. Doctors are very frank in their declaration that worry poisons the whole human machine. It not only plays havoc with the nerves, but serves in turn to interfere with the natural working of all bodily functions. The great tragedy of worry is that it is so futile as a force in combating the unknown. Events do not yield to worry. They can only be met by thoughtful preparations. The person who wastes no energy in worry has more strength to meet the problems of each successive day.

Some people find it easier to worry and fret about others' success than to prepare for their own good, and about the possible ill fortune of tomorrow than to get busy and make sure that tomorrow will bring good fortune instead of ill. But worry is never easy on its victim. It is a feeling to fight off and put out of mind.

Anticipation of misfortune invites it. Action averts it. The person who worries is simply suffering from what has not happened. The logical course is to wait for events to happen and meanwhile work to help make things come out right.

The way to master a situation is not by sitting down and making the worst of it. It is by standing up and making the best of it.—James H. Anderson, Editor Kansas City Labor News.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

International Sunday School Lesson for January 4

JOHN THE BAPTIST

Luke 1:68-79

REV. SAMUEL D. PRICE, D. D.

During the coming six months the lessons will be on the life of Christ and the Scripture will be from Luke's Gospel. From July to December we will study about the Early Church as recorded in Acts and the Epistles.

John the Baptist was six months older than Jesus. Announcement of his coming was made to aged Zacharias, the priest, when he was offering the incense in the Holy Place in the temple at Jerusalem. That privilege was determined by lot and many priests never had that distinction, for there were so many of them. The 90-year-old man could not believe what the angel Gabriel said and was made speechless as a sign until after the baby was born. When Zacharias came forth to pronounce the benediction on the people who had been waiting in the court his lips moved but no sound was heard. They "perceived that he had seen a vision in the Temple." That should be the objective each time we go to worship in God's house. After the announcement came to the Virgin Mary she went to visit her relative Elizabeth, for she had been told that she too, though advanced in age, would bear a son. The unborn Jesus gave signs of life when Mary came in and it was just then that Mary uttered the Magnificat in thanksgiving.

When they came to circumcise the baby John all would call him after the father—Zacharias. Elizabeth said he should be called John, and when the father was asked they handed him a writing tablet but his speech came back just then and he said "John." The nature and work of John were described in the Benedictus, a song that Zacharias gave at the time and in the prophecy of Gabriel when the birth was announced.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

SEASONABLE ADVICE.

This morning a man came to my office—my first patient for the day. He was quite hoarse, and immediately walked to the radiator to warm himself, briskly rubbing his blue fingers together to increase circulation—he was half-chilled.

Being a very active, spare-built man of 60, he abhorred wraps; he disliked "bundling up." So, he had been dashing out into the cold, off and on, to get to work, and he was now, without taking time to put on his coat, was still sticking to summer underwear, and had on low shoes. At this very hour his ankles were almost bloodless, and it would have taken a full half-hour for the warm room to restore his surface circulation to normal, if indeed it could have been brought about in that time.

Of course he had a laryngitis with congested lungs, due to careless exposure of his body to cold air. The surface-blood had been driven in by a skin which resented the very uncomfortable atmosphere. Such things are first-rate causes of the dread disease, pneumonia! The treatment—get the blood back to the surface and KEEP IT THERE. Hot drinks; hot lemonade especially; rest in bed in a room that is comfortable; to induce a sweat is not a bad rule, and can be done by the family. The pathologist may blame the teeth and tonsils in a man of this age, but it is dangerous to expose the body of one past middle age, to protracted cold, whatever foci of infection may or may not be present. The man or woman at that time of life, who wears summer shoes and stockings in winter, and does not keep up a good surface circulation, is flirting with serious consequences.

Fashion, among its other crimes, puts far around the neck and strips the lower extremities as nearly as possible! Nobody on earth can convince me that such a silly thing conforms to the law of right living—and I think as much of "fresh air" as any one.
