

OREGON SHARES FOREST RECEIPTS

Return Said Larger Than Would Come From Taxation; Enduring Improvement Is Policy.

Over a million, six hundred thousand dollars have been divided between Oregon and twenty-seven other states and two territories, as their share of the national forest receipts for the fiscal year 1930, according to announcement just issued by the regional forester, Portland.

This amount represents 25 per cent of the total net receipts from the sale of timber, grazing of livestock, summer-home permits and similar uses of the national forests. Checks have been mailed from the treasury department to the individual states. California heads the list with $407,877.02. Oregon is second, receiving $191,772.64, and Washington third, with $166,441.10. The total for all of the twenty-eight states and two territories amounts to $1,677,559.30.

Net receipts of the national forests last year increased in the aggregate nearly half a million dollars over the preceding fiscal year. The 25 per cent return to the states is allotted in proportion to the amount of receipts realized from national forests within each state. As provided by federal statute, the funds are turned over to the counties containing national forest lands, to be used for schools and roads. The state's share of national forest receipts represents a federal payment in lieu of taxes. While it is true that the national forests do not pay taxes in the manner of privately owned property, the contributions from this 25 per cent fund, plus road and trail expenditures which are a direct benefit to the state and counties, amount to more in Oregon than would be the case if the national forests paid taxes like other similar property, according to the regional forester. In fact, it is stated that 42 per cent of the national forest land in Oregon is worthless for taxation purposes.

Besides the 25 per cent fund, an additional 10 per cent of forest receipts is set aside to be used for forest roads. The 10 per cent fund this year will provide $71,823.72 for building roads and trails within national forest boundaries, supplementing the regular appropriation made by congress for this purpose. As the national forests are administered on a permanent yield basis, their revenues are expected to increase in the future as development of the resources continues, says the forest service.

The states bear no portion of the expense of protecting, administering and developing the national forests. This year the federal government is spending $12,500,000 for national forest roads and trails. Fire protection and other improvements which will maintain and increase the productivity of the forests require other large amounts. By the practice of sustained yield type of forestry, the forest service is endeavoring to make permanent the industries of the national forest regions.

More Work of Ranger Told; Busy In Winter

By F. F. WEHMEYER, District Ranger. In our annual inventory, every article must be accounted for and its location catalogued. I have several thousand dollars worth of property charged to me and have the privilege of paying for any of it that cannot be properly accounted for. Tools are overhauled and placed in condition; maps are made for various activities. Summary reports covering each individual activity for the past season must be submitted. All accounts are carefully checked and they have to balance, for if any one thinks so small an item as a 1-cent mistake can be covered, they haven't ever dealt with Uncle Sam.

There is a large volume of general correspondence as is necessary in any form of business. One has to submit a daily diary giving the entire history of that day's pursuits and at the end of the month there is a monthly summary in which all the work is classified according to symbol that a proper accounting of all time may be had.

Fire plans and coming improvement plans are outlined and after being carefully checked, analyzed, parts changed or rejected, they are adopted. No detail is too small to be overlooked. We work on the basis that a chain is only as strong as its weakest link. Each short term man's efficiency is weighed on the performance of his past work, and if short in fulfillment is dropped to make room for new blood. Men for short term jobs are becoming more carefully selected each year for the efficiency of the entire organization hinges largely on each individual.

There are a multitude of minor details in both office and field work done during the winter that space in an article like this forbids enumerating.

The average guard or ranger is compelled to furnish a car, two horses, and numerous other items of equipment at their own expense and are only partially reimbursed for their use. So no one needs to be exactly envious of the wages they draw.

A ranger is allowed fifteen days last week was the bridge party given at the M. E. Cotter home on Saturday night at which Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Cotter, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bergiven and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Beckner were hosts. Nine tables of bridge were at play. High honors were won by Mrs. Roy Lieualen and C. W. McNamer and consolation went to Mrs. George E. Tucker. Thirty-nine guests were present.

The Ione baseball ground is being leveled and graveled and gotten in shape for baseball practice which will start soon.

Friday night while Francis Ely and Claud Brashers were driving near the Earnest Heliker ranch the lights on their car suddenly failed and the boys drove over a steep bank. Mr. Brashers escaped with only slight injuries. Some alarm was felt over Mr. Ely's condition and he was taken to a Heppner physician for examination. He has not yet returned to school, but is reported to be getting along nicely. The car was wrecked.

The W. P. Mahoney sheep were moved Monday from the feeding grounds near Ione to Morgan where they will lamb.

Ione High School Alumni News

The class of 1924 was the largest class in the history of the school, numbering fifteen. J. Clifton Tucker was serving his second year as principal. Carl Linn has been employed the greater part of the time since his graduation in the lumber mill at Vernonia and is located there at the present time. He married Miss Alice Head of the class of '25. Mrs. Linn is a successful teacher in the schools of our state. This year she is teaching at Siletz, Oregon. Carl Ray lives in Hood River. For several years he and his father owned and operated a truck line. Just recently Mr. Ray has taken up the study of aviation and early this year he made his first solo flight. Over a year ago he married a charming Hood River girl. Ray Barnett makes his home in Ione. He married Esther Logan. They are the parents of three lovely children, Jimmy, Mary and David. Carlton Swanson took a short course at O. S. C. following his high school work. He makes his home with his parents in Ione. Elvin Ely is an enterprising farmer of the Morgan district, being located on his father's ranch. His wife was formerly Miss Myrtle Chandler of Cecil. Mr. and Mrs. Ely are the proud parents of a daughter, Nolan Page graduated as a civil engineer from O. S. C. in '28. He then entered the University of Iowa where he spent a year and a half in study. He taught for a while in the University of Wisconsin and is now back at the U. of I. doing hydraulic research work. He has a leave of absence from his work, and this week plans on going to Fort Logan, Colorado, for two weeks training at a military camp. Last June he married Miss Lois Gray, an instructor in French in the U. of I. Mrs. Page formerly made her home in Eugene. Helen Balsiger entered the University of Washington in the fall following her graduation from high school and from this institution she graduated with honors. She took a course in music and is a successful teacher, specializing in work with beginners. She is the wife of Allan Learned, also a U. of W. graduate. For some time Mr. and Mrs. Learned made their home in Seattle, but at present are located at Darrington, Washington, where Mr. Learned is a teacher in the high school.

The BEST Gray Hair Remedy is Home Made To half pint of water add one ounce bayrum, small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.
