hardly be noticeable, but there should be, and probably is, a great difference between 1931 and 1930. By 1931, when the Weather Bureau has been functioning for 100 years, there may be a very interesting set of facts available to indicate that our great-grandchildren may grow oranges in Michigan and go swimming in Lake Superior in January.

not wilfully tolerated, but the home is where character is moulded and when children enter school their habits have already been formed and no school can undo what the home has done and still upholds.

It is the practice of a number of the Hardman citizens to criticize the school. It is these same persons who make it impossible for any teacher to be a community worker.

THE WEATHER (Autocaster Service) ONE subject on which everybody is always ready to talk is the weather. We don't like the weather, and never did, but as Mark Twain once remarked, it is one of those things everybody complains about but nobody does anything about.

The commonest comment on winter weather, at least in northerly climates, is that we don't seem to have the cold winters we used to have. Until lately the weather sharps have dismissed this comment as an example of the fallibility of human memories. We remember the occasional deep snow of boyhood, they say, but forget the mild, open winters. Now, however, a careful study of the temperatures for every day in the year at 200 points in the United States, has convinced the Weather Bureau that the winters—and the summers, too—are actually getting warmer. The record for the past ten years shows this to be true.

From 1920 on there have been only two winters which were not definitely milder than what was regarded as normal. Spring has come earlier every year but 1925 and 1929, also, and has not been so chilly for so long.

Ten years is too short a period to lead to any general conclusions, but the weather bureau records go back sixty years, and the past ten have been milder than the preceding fifty. That is an indication of a trend which may not continue; but behind the weather bureau's observations are records of terrific winters in America and Europe, far worse than any which the recent records show, while the record of geology proves clearly that it was not so many thousand years ago, as time goes, when the year-round ice-cap covered the whole North American continent down to Ohio and New Jersey.

The ice Age has not yet completely vanished. Before it came there was a time when plants which we now regard as tropical grew in northern Greenland; their fossil remains have been found there under the ice. The ice formed at the poles and crept southward at the rate of, perhaps, a mile a year. It has been receding at a rate not quite so fast for twenty thousand years. Every year the northerly limit of vegetation gets a few yards nearer the North Pole. And every year, if this theory be true, the average annual temperature ought to be higher by a fraction of a degree. The difference between this year and last will provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need, desire or hope of the human race, and because I refuse to donate to all and go out and beg, borrow and steal money to give away, I am cursed, discussed, boycotted, talked to, talked about, lied to, lied about, held up, held down, and robbed, until I am nearly ruined, so the only reason I am clinging to life is to see what the hell is coming next!"

Sunday School Lesson International Sunday School Lesson for April 5. JESUS TEACHES HUMILITY. Luke 14:7-14; 18:15-17. REV. SAMUEL D. PRICE, D. D. Practical every day items are taught throughout the Bible. In this lesson it becomes a book on social etiquette. Some man thought to get credit for himself by inviting Jesus to a feast, since He at that time was the new headliner in that part of the world. Jesus is always studying us, even as He observed the scramble for the seats of distinction around that table. The people of the Far East follow literally what Jesus advised as fitting. An invited guest will not take the seat of honor which he knows will be assigned to him but takes the place nearest the door.

Further admonition was given when any host was urged to be a real philanthropist in sending out his invitations and not a mere social climber who wants a return invitation. There are multitudes of worthy poor who are hungry; these should be asked to come to the table of bounty. Constantly the Bible is presenting a choice social standard that mankind will be blessed in following. Children are given their chance only where the principles of the Gospel are in practice. Contrast child life in any land where the Sunday School is but little known with that in which the Bible School is making its greatest advance. When mothers brought their little ones to the Kindly Man that He might give them His blessing even the disciple barred the way until the command was uttered "Suffer little children to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of God." Christianity aims to stop the exploiting of children that their best interest may be safeguarded, for the boys and girls of today become the men and women of tomorrow. The alternative Easter Lesson is based on 1 Corinthians 15:1-8; 50-58.

HARDMAN SCHOOL UPHELD. To the Editor: In view of the fact that some citizens have taken it upon himself to criticize the Hardman school, I wish to state that he was either misinformed, or wished to mislead the public.

The first criticism seems to be that the teachers were devoting insufficient time to the school. Having been a resident of Hardman for many years, I am in a position to state that it is not the practice of the community to visit the school, with the exception perhaps of one or two parties—and I am sure that this past year has been no exception. So it would be impossible for anyone to state directly that inadequate time was devoted. This school has been under the same administration for the past three years and I wish to call attention to the fact that there have been no failures in the state Eighth Grade examinations. All the pupils have passed with a very high average. Were these accusations true, such an excellent record could not have been made.

The second grievance was that of obscene language. Such a thing is sufficient time to the school.
