COUNTY NURSE DISMISSED.

THE action of the county court this week, dismissing the county health nurse, effective July first, is calling forth a lot of discussion, pro and con. Last fall, when the preparation of the budget was being considered, and sometime prior to that, there was agitation that this office be discontinued, but when the final action was taken by the budget committee, the necessary sum to perpetuate the work for another year went in, and $2400 provided for the maintenance of the county health nurse work. The nurse was retained, and it was generally considered a closed incident, at least for the present year; so the court action came as a surprise to a very large number of taxpayers the county over.

The court seems to have been prompted to take this action at this time solely from the standpoint of economy, as they have been entirely satisfied, so they say, with the work done by Miss Stallard, whom they recognize as very efficient, and a tireless worker. They believe that she has accomplished much good in maintaining the general health conditions of the various urban and rural communities, and their action has not been for personal considerations whatever. The demand, these times, comes stronger and stronger all the while for every possible economy, whether it be in private or public affairs, and the court seems now to be headed in the direction of cutting at every possible angle. For this they are to be commended, yet we regret very much that it has been found necessary to apply the axe to the office of county health nurse has proven are a very valuable asset, and their health is entitled to have the greatest consideration at all times. We do not hesitate to say that the office of county health nurse has proven its value far beyond what it has cost the taxpayers to maintain it in the marked improvement in general and special health conditions.

H. V. SWIFT PASSES.

THE untimely passing of Arthur V. Swift, native son of Baker county, brings a loss to the entire commonwealth, while being in the nature of a severe tragedy to the people of his home community. He had become prominent in the state over, especially among the farming communities, as for years he was interested in promoting their welfare through the agencies of the Farmers Union and Grange; his services in the state legislature at Salem also proved his further worth, and he was looked upon as being a true friend of the taxpayers, voting against unnecessary appropriations when it was not always popular to do so. In this county, Mr. Swift was well known, and many friends here will sincerely regret his passing.

Speaking of Mr. Swift more intimately, we have this from the Baker Herald of Saturday: "Baker county will have a hard time replacing Arthur Swift in the legislature. We doubt if his equal can be found, for he combined many valuable qualities, a long background of experience in public affairs, close contact with the toilers whose needs he thoroughly understood, and an acquaintance that went far beyond the boundaries of this commonwealth. He was peculiarly well fitted to represent our people in the legislative halls and he was almost certain to be prevailed upon to return there, had he lived, even though his personal inclination would probably have been to retire."

"But legislative service was not his only claim to distinction. Many years of his life were spent in Farmers Union work. For eight years he was a national vice president of this great organization. In that capacity he visited every county in the United States, and so phenomenal was his memory that he could instantly recall the name of any county in the entire nation, and there are several thousand, its county seat, important rivers if any, and usually the railroads serving it. This writer once sought to test him out by asking of his own native county in Wisconsin and was amazed to get not only the foregoing information but the names of all the surrounding counties and the exact area in square miles. Many doubted his reported geographical knowledge, but never after they put it to a practical test. Probably no other man in America equalled him in this respect."

General crop conditions in Morrow county have been somewhat improved by the slight showers of the week and the cooling of the temperature. Not having exact knowledge of every locality we can only speak generally, but from each section the reports are coming in of a more encouraging nature, and it is now thought the county will have a fair yield. Many fields, however, have been so hurt by the drought that they will not pay to harvest, the heat wave having come along just in the critical time and the grain dried up in the heads; yet this will not be sufficient to cut the total yield in the county heavily. From present indications, our guess is about a 70 per cent crop for Morrow county this year.

James Higgins was in Heppner Monday from down on Butter creek where everything seems pretty well dried out because of the recent hot weather. Range has been short and crops are not prospering.

MAJESTIC Oven Construction A Triumph in Heating Efficiency

Years of range building experience have enabled the Majestic Company to attain unusual perfection in the New All Enamel Range. Complete insulation keeps the heat where it should be—on the inside. The heat is held around the oven, where it can do work, while the outside of the range is left comparatively cool.

The solid cooking plate is made of polished metal, with two lids directly above fire box. The sanitary shelf, the easy clean-out features, the removable doors and stakes, make this the cleanest range you have ever seen. The nicety in fitting all doors and other parts also adds to cleanliness, good cooking and heat-tight efficiency.

With this fine provision of construction detail you would hardly expect the Majestic to be the beautiful range it is. But this Majestic can be had in your choice of four glorious colors and pure white. In Blue, Apple Green, Gray or Ivory, it blends into any scheme of modern decoration you may choose. It gives you an up-to-date kitchen in color—a kitchen that you will be proud to display—one which you will rejoice to use.
