

Local Happenings

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Nicholson and son arrived in the city Saturday evening and were guests over Sunday at the home of Mr. Nicholson's aunt, Mrs. R. A. Thompson. Since graduating from Heppner high school in 1918 Mr. Nicholson completed the law course at the University of Washington and for the last two years has been athletic coach of the Washington State Normal school at Ellensburg, which position he will hold for another year. "Nick," as his friends knew him here, enjoyed meeting old school-mates who are still to be found here. He made his reputation in athletics while attending U. of W. by playing the full quota of varsity basketball and making all the letters given for the sport.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Ensley spent last week visiting with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stevens and family. Mr. Ensley is a brother of Mrs. Stevens. They left Friday for their home in Salem, going via Fossil, Spray and Prineville, where they will also visit relatives. Mr. Ensley is employed as janitor in the new state building in Salem but a former resident of Morrow county, this being his first visit here in 15 years. He enjoyed shaking hands with old-time friends and looking over the old home place near Parkers Mill.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Warner of Alderdale, Wash., accompanied by their son, Rev. George Warner, were guests at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Glen White over the week end. Rev. Warner is a missionary to north China, home on furlough, having just recently returned, and has spent the past six and a half years in the interior of that troubled country. He spoke both morning and evening at the Methodist church on his experiences there, and also exhibited many interesting curios from the Orient.

The announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Willetta Vincent to Mr. Sam Crigler, both of Ferndale, near Freewater, was received this week by Mrs. Mattie Adkins, of this city, mother of the bride. The wedding took place in Walla Walla and was an event of the past week. The couple will make their home at Ferndale where they have both resided for several years past.

Gordon Bucknum, who during the school year attended St. Mary's college located at the town of the same name in the Willamette valley, has returned to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bucknum, for the summer. Gordon was a member of the St. Mary's baseball club this spring, playing second base.

Clyde Wells, real estate dealer of Pendleton, was in the city for a short time on Tuesday while attending to business matters. Mr. Wells thinks the dry weather of the past few weeks has shortened the crop in Umatilla county very materially, but hopes it is not as bad as has been reported.

Sam Foster, engineer who ran the test on the Wells Springs gas well, and H. G. Harris, veteran driller of Osage, Wyoming, left Heppner Saturday for Portland. Mr. Harris arrived in the county Friday and visited the hole at Wells Springs, making favorable comment on its possibilities.

Clyde Fridley of Wasco was in Heppner Tuesday, having business at the court house. He reports that grain has been badly injured over Sherman county by the long dry spell of weather, and does not expect that county to have anywhere near a normal crop.

C. W. Smith, county agent, who has been confined at his home more or less the past ten days, suffering an attack of tonsillitis, is about his duties again, and went to the north end of the county today to prosecute rodent poisoning.

Mrs. F. W. Turner received word this morning of the death at her home in Seattle, Wash., of Mrs. R. D. Patton, who was formerly Mrs. E. Nordyke, a former resident of this city who has lived at Seattle for many years.

Gunnar Lindhe was in the city for a short while on Wednesday from his ranch in the Alpine section.

Fred Buchanan of Ione is doing jury work at the June session of circuit court here this week. He was in the midst of cutting the first crop of alfalfa when duty called, so is taking the time off from the ranch rather reluctantly. Fred says that his first cutting this season is not up to standard; it was coming fine when the cold east wind of a few weeks back stopped its progress and stunted the growth—a somewhat general complaint from hay growers up and down the creek.

W. R. Poulson, city superintendent of school and E. W. Gordon departed Monday for Portland, the former on his return to Eugene and the latter to take in Buyers Week. Mr. Poulson will go on to Berkeley, Cal., this week end, to remain for the summer school at University of California, taking up special educational work.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bengt, daughter Luola and son Terrill returned home the first of the week. Mr. and Mrs. Bengt were joined at Corvallis by their son and at Medford by Miss Luola, and the family then took a trip to Crater lake and other points of interest before starting for Heppner. The vacation was greatly enjoyed.

Lloyd Estes and J. L. Richardson, officers of the Wells Springs Oil and Gas company, left for Portland Saturday after spending more than a week in Heppner and at the Wells Springs hole watching the test made by Sam Foster, engineer.

Mrs. Anna Thomson, daughter Beatrice and son Billy returned home on Sunday night from Fort Collins, Colorado, where they have been living for the past year, and where the children attended school.

Mrs. T. G. Cochran of Monument, guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Turner for two weeks, departed on Sunday for Cecil where she is visiting at the home of her son, J. L. Cochran.

Dr. A. D. McMurdo was a business visitor in Walla Walla on Saturday, returning home Sunday. He was accompanied on the journey by W. R. Poulson, city school superintendent.

W. W. Head, pastor-editor and Bert Mason, merchant of Ione were looking after business interests in this city on Wednesday.

HARDMAN.

MRS. ELLA FARRENS.

Miss Lucile Farrens accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Moore of Heppner to Cove where they will attend the summer session of the Episcopal church held at that place.

Mrs. Fred Ritchie and Mrs. Jim Gentry accompanied Miss Edith Stallard, county nurse, on a business visit here Monday.

A large number of Hardman people attended the funeral of James Bates Monday. He was a former resident of this community and well known here.

Miss Dollie Farrens is visiting this week at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Clyde Swift, on Heppner flat. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Stanton from Walla Walla were visiting relatives and friends here Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bowker from Heppner spent Sunday visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Leathers.

Mrs. George Cason and son Gerald have been visiting relatives in Hardman.

Nellie Bleakman returned home after spending a few days vacation at Ditch creek ranger station. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McDaniel left Monday for Portland to visit relatives and be present for the Rose carnival.

Elvira Bleakman was in Heppner having some dental work done.

Reeves Coats, Ed Moreland and Tilden Williams are gathering horses from the reserve.

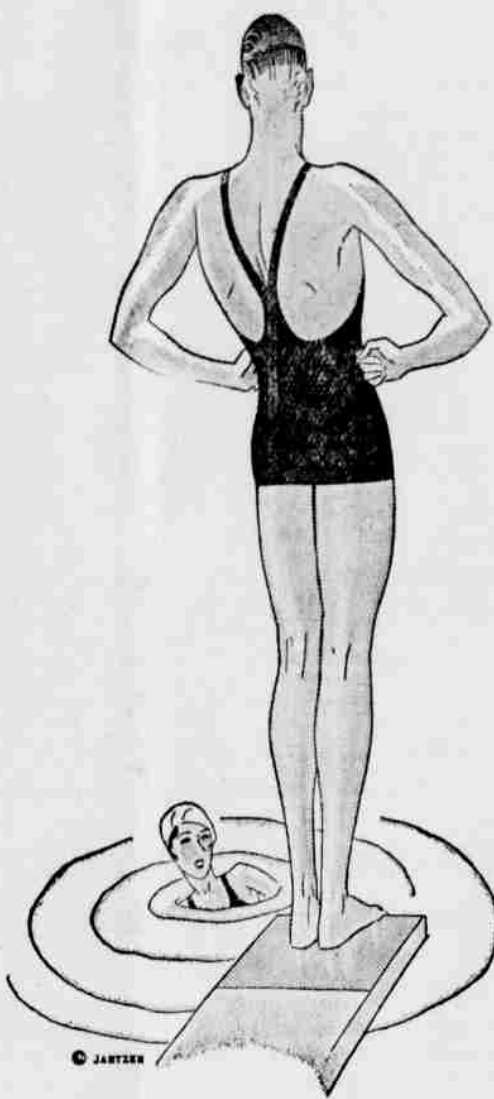

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Johnson were doing business in Heppner Monday. Victor Johnson left to work for Ray Wright.

Glen Farrens is working on the Heppner-Spray road.

Miss Edith Stallard was doing business in Hardman.

A number of Hardman young folks as well as old were visiting at the Indian camp Sunday.

Fashion says "The briefer the suit the better." By far the smartest is the Jantzen Sunaire—a two piece swimming suit that affords a maximum exposure to the healthful sun rays with perfect modesty. The rage for Palm Beach, the Sunaire is the first choice of those who set the pace at every beach pool. Heightening its chic are its striking color contrasts.

The Kilowatt Kiddies

ARE

INVISIBLE ICE MEN

THE KILOWATT CHILLERS stand quietly on watch to see that your food is kept below the fifty-degree danger point. They are sentinels of safety, ever on watch to guard health.

THE Kilowatt Kiddies are on duty at your Electric Refrigerator whether you are there to watch them or not. They have never been known to leave footprints on the spotless linoleum of any kitchen! Yet their service does not end with providing mere ice. Charle and Clara Kilowatt see to it that their ice is cubed just the right size to tinkle tantalizingly in glasses of the beverages it chills.

The Kilowatt Kiddies in your Electric Refrigerator make the most delicious frozen salads and desserts—even ice cream. All you do is mix the ingredients—they do the rest. In few roles do The Kilowatt Kiddies perform more satisfyingly than as the invisible iceman accompanying every Electric Refrigerator.
