HEARST BALDERDASH

WEBSTER defines balderdash as a foolish or pompous jumble of words; sometimes jargon or prate. The suggestion made by William Randolph Hearst that the federal government immediately appropriate five billions of dollars to be expended amongst the four or five million unemployed of the country, appeals to those who are capable of a bit of serious thought, as pure balderdash.

To the spotlighters it was just another opportunity to get before the public. Many of these fell upon the idea and endorsed it. They got their names in the press of the country. It was just another chance to ballyhoo; to prate.

The scheme reminds us of the story of the old timer in Utah who saw a great opportunity to get rich through raising cats. A lake on his place was stocked with fish. He would feed the cats fish. Soon he found out he had to feed the fish something and he began to feed the cats and the cats ate the fish. The money to be derived from Mr. Hearst's scheme must come out of taxes. The taxes must be paid by the people deriving the benefit. Where would we be going? Maybe Hearst can explain.

Already the government exchequer is being drained beyond income. Secretary Mellon and President Hoover have sounded warning after warning. The president has demanded a curtailment in expenditures along the less essential lines, so that larger appropriations can be had for agriculture and other absolutely necessary things; but Hearst and his fellow spotlighters would throw the government into further debt and for what reason? Simply to boost Mr. Hearst as the friend of the laboring man.

A great thinker once wrote: "Tell the truth to the people... before you assert that they can appreciate nothing in argument but fallacies, and nothing in language but balderdash." Hearst should know this. Looks as though Hearst and his ballyhooing crowd would pay the government's overdraft with a government check.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

MARY A. NOTSON, Reporter. In a recent syndicated article by Arthur Sears Henning, published in a number of the large dailies of the country, the question of taxes was elaborately discussed. The headlines indicated that the country is breaking under the burden of taxes. It is pointed out that taxes have increased since the opening of the World War fourfold, while the population of the United States has increased only 25 percent. The annual income of the people of the United States has increased only 135 percent in the

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School Lesson for June 21. CAUSING OTHERS TO STUMBLE. Romans 14:13-23.

The Minneapolis Times said on March 2, "Prohibition has come to the forefront as the leading national issue." This was the opinion after a poll had been taken. Administration of Justice was second on the list. Thus in giving attention to the quarterly temperance lesson you are but in harmony with the popular study of the day.

Paul was writing to the Romans from Corinth and took his illustration from things that were taking place in that city. Animals were killed and certain parts only offered to idols in worship. The rest was meat absolutely good for food. Many Christians objected to eating meat which had first been offered to idols. The Apostle says that respect should be paid to personal opinion and a thing omitted for the sake of the good in another which might not be any harm in itself. He gave as a good reason for such conduct: "For the kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit." The question about how much we will give up for the sake of another centers around the consideration of how much we really love our fellow man and desire his greatest good.

In the case of the beverage, use of liquor, the matter is decided differently, for alcohol is always poison. History does not contain a paragraph that credits intoxicating liquor with a single achievement that has benefitted mankind.

same period. These facts are startling.

He goes into detail to show how the bonded indebtedness has increased owing to the war. He points out, also, how the people have gone in debt to build good roads, to erect better school buildings, and to make other public improvements. He shows, too, how much more we are spending upon the schools for maintenance. He draws the conclusion that to maintain the federal, state, county, and city governments the people are paying out about one dollar in six of their income.

Then he comes to the real motive of the article. He complains that the federal government is spending forty million dollars to enforce prohibition and that the states are spending a lot of money for the same purpose. He says that, according to the estimates of "experts," the federal government is losing annually in revenue from liquor $886,000,000, and that the states and local governments are losing $50,000,000, making a loss in revenue of nearly one billion dollars. And one would think from the tone of the article that the writer was shedding great floods of tears over the condition of the poor taxpayer.

No question exists in the minds of anyone as to the burden of taxes, but of all the absurd and rotten arguments put forth to point the way to tax relief this one stands at the top of the list. Who pays the enormous taxes to support the different units of government now? Anyone who knows the least thing about the principles of elementary economics knows that all taxes are drawn from productive industry in the final analysis. The producers pay all the bills. The old and well known advertisement stated that "Jones pays the freight," and this became a common saying. Jones pays the freight provided he is a producer. Jones pays the taxes if he is a producer. It would not relieve the producers at all if one billion dollars were taken from them through the medium of liquor taxes and licenses, but it would relieve the millionaires from part of their income taxes. And it is the millionaire "wets" who are financing the campaign against prohibition. Think of collecting one billion dollars a year from the poor unfortunates who have an appetite for liquor! Think of the poor wives of these unfortunates who would return to the wash-tub to support the family! Think of the little children who would go hungry and poorly clothed because their father would be paying the taxes in the prices paid for liquor! Intelligent people will not be deceived by this kind of tax relief argument.

COST OF REARING CHILD IS LARGE

Food, Clothing, Shelter Claim Major Expenditure; Enormous Sum Lost Through Disease.

(From State Board of Health)

The child of today must be thought of in economic terms, the editor finds in making a study of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company charts. A man has much in common with machines, buildings, factories, and other industrial equipment of which he makes use in the business of living. Like them, he has "construction cost" during childhood while he is being prepared for service. The cost of being born, of food, shelter, clothing, health and recreation, education—these are some of the expenses which must be considered as part of the "construction" of the human machine—making it ready for the period at which it is expected to be a producer.

Table with 2 columns: Item, Cost. 1. Cost of being born $250.00, 2. Food 2,500.00, 3. Clothing and shelter 3,400.00, 4. Education (minor items met by individual family purse) 50.00, 5. Health 280.00, 6. Recreation 130.00, 7. Insurance 54.00, 8. Sundries 570.00. Total $7,238.00

The above figures do not appear to include the very important major item of education. As a matter of fact, they do, because, under the heading of "shelter," there is already included the item of taxes which covers the parent's share of the community cost of education, as well as other items furnished by the state.

While the sources of material wealth are carefully guarded, human resources are often carelessly used and wastefully squandered. It is a time-honored adage that health is not appreciated until it is lost. Just how much health is worth can now be estimated in dollars and cents. The average American loses seven days a year through sickness. Losses from sickness and preventable deaths are enormous. More than $6,000,000,000 could be saved annually by applying what is known about modern preventive medicine and public health. This great sum represents the value of the lives lost through preventable deaths. The basis of the value of human life must naturally be health—without health, earnings usually drop. It is when the bread-winner of a family is removed through accident or disease and the mother and young children must become self-supporting that, first the dependents, and later the community, realize the large capital value which has been lost.

Leo Gorgor and brother were visitors in the city on Saturday. The Gorgor brothers farm a large body of land out north of Ione, and they expect to make an average yield of 15 bushels per acre. Their grain is now about ready for cutting.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

"Simple" Laryngitis

By this term, I mean the sort of "hoarseness" that has no chronic, tubercular, or other complicated nature. Its cause is, sudden exposure to extremes of temperature, or over-use of the vocal organs in an improper manner. Clergymen get it frequently, and amateur vocalists; children with adenoids, large tonsils—and those who breathe thru the mouth, from nasal or other respiratory infection. The onset of simple laryngitis is usually sudden; its duration depends upon the treatment employed. When, in the case of singers, hoarseness and husky voice appears, REST is the treatment; perfect silence, if it can be enforced, may be maintained from 24 to 48 hours and will produce wonderful results. Simple gargling with warm water containing a mild antiseptic such as boric acid, is good home treatment. "Croup," now seldom heard of, is laryngitis in the simple form. For a

Currant Biscuits

Sift together two cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder and one teaspoon salt. Cut in with a silver knife one tablespoon butter. Gradually add three-quarters of a cup of milk or enough to make a soft dough. Place it on a floured board and pat it to half an inch thickness. Spread it with cinnamon, sugar and dried currants. Roll and cut in half-inch slices and bake in a quick oven.

Left-Over Pork

Cut the pork into small dice. For a pound of it you will need two medium sized onions finely chopped, two apples coarsely chopped, four level tablespoons of butter, a scant tablespoon of flour, a teaspoon of lemon juice, a cup of stock—which may be made from gravy or a beef cube—a little dry mustard and salt and pepper. Melt the butter in a stewpan and add the onions and fry until tender and slightly browned. Add the apple and fry until tender but not broken. Sprinkle in the flour and a small pinch of mustard, stir and let cook very gently for a few minutes and then add the stock and stir while it cooks for four or five minutes. Add the meat, lemon juice and salt, mustard and pepper to taste. Let it heat thoroughly and serve with mashed potatoes or rice.
