He was unconscious for some time, and as soon as possible was taken to a physician at Heppner who found no broken bones. While not yet feeling quite himself, Mr. Ely is nevertheless back at his work in the harvest field.

Spinach Salad

Chop cooked spinach. Add chopped boiled egg and a little chopped cold tongue or ham. One egg so two cups of the spinach should be allowed and for the same amount a half cup of chopped meat. Add a half cup of toasted bread crumbs. Pack in small cups or molds and chill. When ready to serve turn out on beds of lettuce leaves and dress with mayonnaise.

For Frying

Next time you have any fish or croquettes to fry—anything that needs to be rolled in fine crumbs or flour—try putting the crumbs or flour on a good-sized piece of clean kitchen paper instead of on a platter or molding board. This will give you a larger flat surface than is possible with a platter and will spare you the rather troublesome task of cleaning the molding board. It is an especially good thing when there is fish to fry.

Cheese on Salad

Did you ever try grated cheese on salad? Use yellow cheese dry enough to be grated and then after you have added a little mayonnaise to the salad sprinkle the cheese lightly on top, or pass in a little dish with the mayonnaise. It is especially good with a salad made from cold cauliflower.

For luncheon some time try a salad from cooked rice that has been set to cool in small individual molds. Place one of the rice molds on each bed of lettuce, and serve with mayonnaise or home-made boiled salad dressing with grated cheese sprinkled on top.

Good Dressings

Sauce Tartare: To one cup of mayonnaise add a tablespoon each of finely minced olives, sweet pickles and chives or onions.

Thousand Island Dressing: To one cup of mayonnaise add two tablespoons of chili sauce, one tablespoon of chopped onion and one tablespoon of chopped pepper.

Manhattan Dressing: To one cup of mayonnaise add a finely chopped hard boiled egg, one tablespoon of Frank's sauce, a tablespoon of finely chopped sweet pickle.

California Dressing: To one cup of mayonnaise add a quarter cup of minced ripe olives and the same amount of minced green olives.

Savory Fish

Cut into strips one pound of smoked fish of any kind; put over fire in cold water, let come slowly to a boil, and boil for ten minutes. In another saucepan heat one cup of stock with one-fourth a cup, each, of tomato sauce and vinegar, a tablespoon of made mustard, and a few grains of cayenne. Drain the fish, saute on hot pan in one-fourth a cup of butter or fat, then add to the hot stock; thicken the butter in the pan with two tablespoons of flour; stir this into the saucepan containing the fish and seasoned stock, cover, and simmer for five minutes. Serve on a hot platter, surrounded with strips of toast.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Gentry have returned from a pleasant outing, made by motor to Boise, Idaho, where they visited their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Daniels, also a sister of Mrs. Gentry residing at Vale, and friends at La Grande.

"A Fool's Bargain."

What good is the world to a man who has lost his soul—that power by which we appreciate nature, boons, art, and all the beautiful things of life? Though such a man owned the whole world he would be incapable of really and properly enjoying it.

To some men the rim of the dollar is the horizon of the whole world. They are money-blind; that is, they are blind to everything but money. And so intent are they on making money that they are incapable of any idea that is not commercial. Their whole conversation is of trade and profits. They could not carry on a conversation about anything else. They are usually at a complete loss in a company of cultured people where such things as art and good books are being discussed. The most enchanting landscape would not beget a thrill in their bosoms. They have brains for mud, but no brains for music. Merchandise, stocks, bonds, cash, mortgages and collateral are the only things of real interest to them. They have no soul for the bigger and finer things of life. Their friendships and associations are all built on and around the dollar.

Such men are to be pitied, not envied. To have a saved, cultivated soul is better than to have a fortune. Think not? There is an old Spanish proverb which says: "There are no pockets in a shroud." Meaning that only the things of the soul will go with us when we leave this world. All our money and its power and influence will be LEFT BEHIND! To lose our soul and gain the world is a poor bargain. It is

REGIONAL GROWERS GIVEN INTEREST CUT

Action endorsing the farm board's wheat surplus policy was taken in response to a telegram received from C. E. Huff of Chicago, president of Farmers National, in which he branded efforts to force the stabilization corporation to hold all the surplus wheat for a fixed price as "the cleverest move made so far" by the private grain trade.

The farm board has announced it will not sell more than 5,000,000 bushels of stabilization wheat a month from now until July 1, 1932, unless world trade conditions make possible sale of a greater volume without depressing prices.

Mr. Huff declared in his telegram "we must not allow the farmer to be deceived" by the propaganda of the private grain trade.

"The grain trade continues its fight to compel the farm board to pledge no sale of stabilization wheat," he wired. "Such a policy will be advantageous only to elevator owners, brokers and speculators and will not help growers, but unnecessarily deplete revolving funds and take control of wheat from hands of cooperatives."

North Pacific will launch a campaign immediately to gain endorsement of the farm board policy from Pacific northwest congressmen and cooperative and farm organization leaders.

Surplus Not New.

"We have had a 200,000,000 bushel wheat surplus before in this country, and it has not been regarded as a calamity," declared O. O. Hgaa, Boise attorney and farmer, who moved endorsement of the board's policy. "I would much rather have this wheat in the hands of the Grain Stabilization corporation than in the hands of the private grain trade and the speculators."

In his telegram, Mr. Huff said some congressmen and a few farm organization and cooperative leaders have not understood the situation and so "are sincerely advocating the wrong policy."

Revival of the move to secure appointment by President Hoover of Mr. Hgaa as wheat member of the farm board to succeed Samuel R. McKelvie was another feature of the day's meeting. Two vacancies now exist on the board, and are expected to be filled within the next 60 days.

Pacific northwest congressmen and political leaders will be urged to support Mr. Hgaa for the post.

Four were elected to serve with President Shumway on the executive committee for the coming year. They are: E. M. Hulden, Bialock, Ore.; F. J. Wilmer, Rosalia, Wash.; A. C. Linehan, Genesee, Idaho, and B. R. McAllister, Kalispell, Mont.

FOWL POX VIRUS LOW PROTECTION

Flock Owners Warned of Danger to Chickens in Neglect of Inoculation.

"If there has ever been a case of chicken pox on your place, you can't afford not to vaccinate this year."

This is the advice E. M. Dickinson, assistant poultry pathologist at Oregon State college, is giving Oregon poultrymen, many of whom have been wondering whether, with the present low price of eggs, they should make this additional outlay.

With poultry prices as they are, maximum production from every bird is absolutely essential if producers are to stay in business, Dickinson says. Chicken pox in the flock would cause a disastrous slump in production. Vaccination with the new live virus developed at the Oregon Experiment station two years ago is practically absolute guarantee of immunity from the disease, and to forego such insurance is false economy.

The best time to vaccinate, according to Dickinson, is when the bird are from 1-2 to 4 months of age. Ordinarily this would mean that the peak of vaccinating activity in the state would come during July, but many flocks are later than usual this year.

Poultrymen who have attended the poultry vaccination schools held at the college during 1929 and 1930, who passed the examinations and have permits from the State Livestock Sanitary board are permitted to obtain virus from the college and vaccinate their own flocks, says Dickinson. Others may use the services of any practicing veterinarian.

More than 100,000 birds were vaccinated for chicken pox with the new virus obtained from the college last year, with excellent results, records show.

In cases where chicken pox has never occurred on a poultry farm, the vaccination is not advised, as it would get the virus on the place and make vaccination imperative in future years.

Dear Editor:

Well, my friend, if you tell your wife that time stands still when you look into her eyes, that is diplomacy. But if you tell her that her face would stop a clock, that's foolishness.
