THEATRICAL RELIGION!

"Therefore, when thou doest thine alms, do not sound a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory of men." Matt. 6-2.

In New Testament times the Greek word here translated "hypocrite," meant an actor, a stage player. There is a good deal of stage playing in religion, or what we might call theatrical religion. An actor is not what he appears to be on the stage. He is simply playing a role. And in religious circles there are many who play the role of a saint without an element of saintliness in their character. Whatever is not of the heart is of the actor, the theatre. And it is this theatrical religion the text condemns—a religion which manifests itself only in religious pretensions, religious regalia and religious ceremonies. Back of such religion there is no heart and soul; no vital conviction and no genuine sincerity. Its performances are all theatrical, engaged in merely to win the admiration and praise of men.

Those who are merely play-acting in religious ceremonies will at once cease to carry on when there is no audience to see and be impressed. Forbid them to pray except where they will be heard and seen of men and there will be no praying. All true Christians abhor this theatrical religion. God repudiates and condemns it. "God is a Spirit, and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth." True Religion springs from real spiritual insight and conviction and is manifest in moral purity, Christian faithfulness and unselfish service to God and man. This is the world's greatest need this hour!

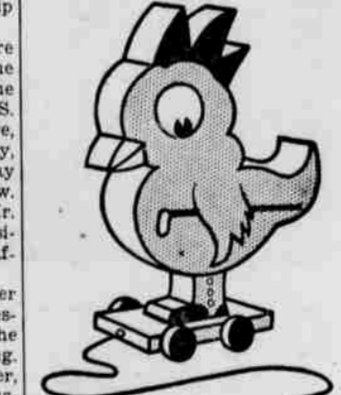

If you have not a Church home, come and worship with us. Be in our Bible School and the services of this Church will please and help you. Come! For the coming Lord's Day the sermon topics are: For the morning, "The Ever New Story." And for the evening, "Spiritual Freedom."

METHODIST CHURCH.

GLEN P. WHITE, Pastor. 9:45 a. m., Sunday School. 11:00 a. m., Morning worship hour. Message, "Be Ye Clean." 6:30 p. m., Epworth League. 7:30 p. m., Song service and gospel message, "The Fullness of Faith."

The Bible is an infallible book to the soul that is full of faith. It is then received as a divine revelation, as the Very Word of God. He who has come into a fullness of faith drops all questioning and quibbling as to the complete inspiration and divine authority of the Scriptures. The fullness of faith not only accepts the Bible as an inspired book, but it also renders it an illuminated book. It reads it by a new light and sees in it new meaning. The soul full of faith sings "Holy Bible, Book divine, Precious Treasure, Thou art mine." The Bible becomes a supreme delight.

Faith brings things to pass. The morning message will discuss how our prayers may be effectual. In the evening we will consider faith in its fullness. These are the two great factors in our Christian experience. We will be glad of your presence at both the coming Sabbath day services. "All things are possible to him that believeth." Mk. 9-23.

Restless CHILDREN

CHILDREN will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than a more powerful medicine. That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is need. In cases of colic, diarrhea or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. A coated tongue calls for just a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed.

ALL SAINTS' EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Tasty Foods For Winter By Using Oregon Prunes

Oregon prunes, both the big tart Italian and the smaller, sweeter Petites, are now available in abundance and at very low prices. They are wholesome, nutritious and economical food and deserve a prominent place in the diet of the average family, says the school of home economics at Oregon State college. The greater part of the Oregon prune crop will be dried commercially, of course, but another large part will go into family fruit closets in the form of jams, jellies, conserves and canned fruit. Prunes are one of the easiest fruits to can, and when properly done, one of the best. Canning specialists at the college recommend the following method:

Canned Prunes: Use Italian prunes that are thoroughly ripe. The stones may be left in or removed as desired. Pack the jars with prunes and fill with syrup, made with four cups of sugar and 6 cups of water. Process the jars in boiling water for 30 minutes. Petites and other sweet varieties of prunes are also good canned if some fruit acid, such as a slice of lemon or a little lemon juice is added to each jar.

Prune Conserves: Combine 2 pounds of halved Italian prunes with the grated rinds of 1 orange and the juice of 3 lemons. Measure, and heat slowly to the boiling point, then add 2-3 of this measure of sugar and cook 45 minutes. Add 2 cups of shredded walnuts and cook to the jelly test—10 or 15 minutes. Pour it into sterilized glasses, cool, and cover with paraffin.

Other recipes for canning and preserving Oregon prunes, for using them in pies, cakes, puddings and in various other ways may be obtained upon request from the school of home economics at Oregon State college.
