STEWER ON INCOME TAXES

The Dailies Optimist. IN BIDDING good-bye and good-luck to Senator Frederick Steiwer, who left this week for Washington, we are prompted to give him a pat on the back in token that he looked well in his political fences and his Oregon constituency during the season which he has been enjoying surcease from his official duties at the Capitol.

It was, perhaps, significant, after the senator had kept his ear to the ground all during the summer, that he came out before his departure with wholehearted endorsement of higher taxes on the bigger incomes of the country. There can be no doubt that public sentiment in favor of such governmental action has grown rapidly in strength during the past few months and it is only fair to assume that the senator has sensed this popular trend.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

MARY A. NOTSON, Reporter. KATHLEEN NORRIS, famous writer, in an address at Modesto, California, upheld prohibition in a most earnest manner. Among other things she said: "We know it is hard to change habits, to inaugurate drastic conditions and unprecedented reforms. But the leaves are in the mold now and we cannot stop until it is all leavened."

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School Lesson for November 29 PAUL'S LETTER TO PHILEMON Philemon 4-20 Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D. This is the time you will surely read an entire book, and without asking "What chapter, please," as did a certain theologian when Prof. Purves indicated a verse for special study. Then you will need to make certain of the pronunciation, which is on the long "e."

ization, is to me an achievement of which we Americans may be proud. As to the present uproar and protest about permitting this and annulling that, anyone who reads our history will know that this is what might have been expected. Indeed, some of us did expect it. New steps toward new ideals are always received like this and it takes years to bring the angry minority into line.

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment reports receipts for the period from January 1 to August 1, 1931, as $310,769 and expenditures of $391,658. R. T. Crane, Jr., Chicago, gave $30,000; Irene A. duPont, $30,000; L. duPont, $40,000; Pierre S. duPont, $52,000; Edward S. Harkness, $30,000; Arthur C. James, $25,000; and John J. Ruskob, $40,000. Other contributors gave smaller amounts.

It came out in the hearing before the Senate Lobby Investigation Committee that Wm. H. Stayton, Secretary of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, proposed that the following statement should be included in an appeal to large income tax payers to contribute to the funds of the Association: "Irene duPont's statement that one of his companies would save $10,000,000 in corporation tax if we should have, say, the British tax on beer." There is the reason. Big income tax payers would have the poor fellow who has an appetite for beer pay their taxes. This is poor sportsmanship and poor Americanism.

POTATO DISEASES SPREAD BY WEEDS

Experiments at State College Definitively Prove Theory Held by T. P. Dykstra. The fact that common weeds in Oregon potato fields are an important factor in spreading mosaic and other virus diseases of potatoes has been definitely established in experiments carried on at Oregon State college this year by T. P. Dykstra, plant pathologist with the United States department of agriculture.

This year he set out to test his theory under conditions where insects common to potato fields would have opportunity to carry the virus. Two enclosed cages with 100 hills of disease-free potatoes in each were established and into these cages were put insects collected in the same potato field at the same time, half being put in one cage and half in the other.

Weeds found so far to be ready carriers of many of these mosaic diseases of two species of the nightshade, two species of jimson weed, horse nettle and wild ground cherries. Pig weed will carry leaf roll and ground tomatoes are equal carriers with the nightshades, Mr. Dykstra's observations show.

Andrew Tillard. In our issue of the 12th of November, mention was made of the passing of Andrew Tillard (for many years a resident of this county and engaged in the sheep business here), at Douglas Wyoming, in which city he made his home. From the Enterprise of Douglas, we have the account of his funeral, which was held on the afternoon of Monday, November 3. Mr. Tillard was a well known stockman of this county prior to his leaving here about 20 years ago.

Andrew Tillard, who has resided in Douglas and Converse county for more than a quarter of a century, was born in Albany, Ore., December 19, 1859. Early in life he entered the sheep business and until the disastrous years of 1894-5 was one of the large operators in that western district. October 3, 1891, he was married to Miss Emma Rhea, to which union three children were born: Rhea N., Mrs. W. K. Edwards of New York, and Mildred M. Tillard. Leaving Oregon following the period above mentioned the family emigrated to Montana and resided temporarily at Dillon, coming to Douglas in 1904, where their home has since been made.

ing often characterized by his friends as a fighting optimist. Mr. Tillard re-entered the sheep business in Converse county with his headquarters on the Cheyenne river north of Douglas, and through the years intervening has been so engaged.

About a year ago Mr. Tillard's health first gave relatives and friends some concern, though he remained in the highest of spirit and his general appearance was that of the ruggedness with which he had always appeared despite his advancing years. Since that time he has been more or less constantly under the care of specialists, with his last few weeks being spent in the Douglas hospital. The end came peacefully about 7 o'clock Saturday evening, with Mrs. Tillard, their son and daughter, Rhea N. and Mildred M., at his bedside.

Besides the widow, son and two daughters, four grandchildren and four sisters, who reside in Oregon, survive a kind and loving husband, father and brother.

Rev. S. W. Creasey will hold services at All Saints' Episcopal church on Sunday at 11:00 o'clock. In the afternoon he will be with the people of Cecil, the service being arranged for 2:30, and at 7:30 in the evening Mr. Creasey will hold services at Hardman.
