IS THERE A SANTA CLAUS? (From the New York Sun, September 21, 1927.)

WE take pleasure in answering at once and thus prominently the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of the Sun:

Dear Editor—I am eight year old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says, "If you see it in the Sun it's so."

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy.

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove?

You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside. But there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart.

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School Lesson for December 27 THE SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY IN EUROPE.

Review Samuel D. Price, D. D. Review lesson offers unlimited opportunity for research. It is of value this time in relating the individual and often scattered events that we have studied in the life of Paul.

On the third journey more time was spent at Ephesus than elsewhere. Multitudes believed and gave evidence as they made a huge bonfire and destroyed their worthless charms and idols.

No Santa Claus! Thank God, he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, may, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

LOOKING AHEAD. "THE year is dying—let it die." We echo Tennyson's words. So far as we are concerned, anybody can have 1931 that wants it.

It has been a tough year, but, after all, we still survive. It may or may not have been the worst year, from the economic point of view, in American history.

The important thing now is to look ahead and see whether 1932 is going to be any better and, particularly, what we can do ourselves to make it better.

There is no doubt that 1932 will still be a tough year compared with the year 1927. Everything isn't going to change for the better on New Year's Day.

Greetings to all! And, adieu to 1931. You and I, dear readers, have marked another mile-post on our trip.

Every department of science has made strides during the past year; medicine has progressed, too. I think I can break up a cold now much quicker and cleaner than I have ever done before.

All of our peace pacts, our disarmament agreements, our economic adjustments and social remedies will be nothing but striving and futility without the coming of a new sort of Christmas.

A CHRISTMAS MESSAGE. By Bishop William P. Remington. In all that God has created there is Divine intention, but because the Almighty in His wisdom and Father love chose to make man a free agent, there is a possibility of changing good into evil.

Christmas is everywhere; to some a foretaste of heaven, to others a very real hell. What makes it or unmakes it? Just our attitude towards it; whether we see the Star and run to adore Him; or we gorge our food and gloat over our presents.

Never in our time, or perhaps in the history of civilization was this year so clearly drawn as in this year of our Lord nineteen thirty-one. In the past a sense of well being and of contentment with things as they were, hid from our eyes the miseries of others.

"You'll Like This, I Betcha" - By Albert T. Reid

all the world today is GREED? We do not need any economic experts to tell us that. But is the remedy as clear as the diagnosis? If it was, all the Churches in all the world could not provide a capacity to hold the throngs of devout worshippers of the new born King.

Every department of science has made strides during the past year; medicine has progressed, too. I think I can break up a cold now much quicker and cleaner than I have ever done before.
