To help establish the reality of this incident let the writer refer to his visit in the Samaritan Colony, where just a remnant of anly a few now remain of those who were so despised by the Jews in that day. The very ancient Samaritan Pentetuch was shown me with marked pride. Their history dates back to the destruction of the Northern Kingdom of Israel in 722 B. C. The Passover is still ob-served each year on Mt. Gerizim according to their own ancient rites. Often the Jews would go rites. Often the Jews would go highly speculative securities while far out of their way so as to avoid the securities in presenting to Gallies the boom was on, and who are not this region in preceeding to Galilee, but this time "He must needs pass

As the woman comes to draw water Jesus enters upon the personal work in accord with own "Win One" method of procedure. Let any teacher or preacher who is distressed by reason of an audience of one or even a few only note how Jesus acted. Seeking a favor is often a helpful approach to open the opportunity to render real service in turn. "Give me a drink" is commonplace, but it led to genuine salvation that day. Just as soon as the woman sensed the divinely spiritual relationship of this passing Jew she was canny in seeking His answer to the vexatious problem which kept Jews and Samaritans apart. "Where is the place to worship," she quer-ied. Place is only an incident, for the vital fact is the Person Who is worshipped and how the approach is rightly made. She was informed that "God is a Spirit," and approach to His throne of mercy can be made from anywhere. Observe that the woman gave answering belief and proclaimed the truth.

His beaming countenance glowed the more with the repeated references of friendly speakers to "Gov-ernor Pierce." At least his friends had not forgotten that he had once held high office. He was, as ever, gracious, eloquent—the most com-manding speaker at the banquet.

Does Heppner want a volunteer fire organization? No better affirmative answer could be given than the response of local people at the first annual Firemen's Ball held Saturday. The firemen ingra-tiated themselves in the hearts of of all who attended. It was an event, the repetition of which will be looked forward to. A heartier welcome has been shown nothing

REAL THRIFT.

CVERY year at this time, the L week which begins on Franklin's birthday, January 17th, is celebrated as National Thrift Week. We think this is a pretty good idea, and that this year, 1932, is a particularly good year in which to do a little thinking about thrift.

An immense amount of the trouble which this country experienced in 1931, and to a lesser degree in 1930, came about because a large number of people forgot all about thrift in the boom years from 1923 to 1929. There was always a chance to get a better job at more money why worry about laying anything Under sound guidance of capable leaders, both in the national and were a lot of people—twenty million or so-who put something out of every pay envelope into a savings bank or a building and loan association or a piece of property or something else of permanent value.

Those people who were thrifty are

4-H CLUB PROJECT the ones who are not complaining of distress in these hard times.

Thrift does not mean hoarding money away where it does nobody any good. It is thrift to buy or less, provided the debt is for something of actual value and the regu lar payments on principla and interest are not too heavy to be borne out of fixed incomes. The people who are in the worst trouble today are the ones who went into debt in boom times on the notion that their incomes were never going to be less and probably would be more.

Benjamin Franklin was right when he said, "A penny saved is penny earned."

BANKS AND BANKERS.

T LOOKS to us as if a good deal I of financial distress is due to the be merchants, these patriotic and fact that a great many people who had no right to be in the banking business were permitted to call themselves bankers while the big money boom was on. It was brought out in the hearings at Washington on international banking that more than six hundred million dollars of bonds issued by different South American governments are in default. That means these governments haven't paid the interest when due and that there is an excellent chance that people who bought these bonds will not get their money back.

These loans were made on the in-vitation of New York concerns which call themselves investment bankers. The bonds were sold at high prices to individuals and to mall banks throughout the country. And these are far from being the only so-called investments on which the public and small bankers have been stung.

Real bankers do not advise or ncourage their customers to invest in doubtful securities, or buy them with their depositors' money People are prone to think that bankers are speculators. That is very far from being the truth. The vast majority of bankers have a very deep sense of responsibility in handling of other people's mon

They regard themselves as trustees, and they naturally feel that they have to be much more cautious about making loans than if it was their own money they were lending. To be sure, even the most careful and honest bankers sometimes make mistakes, but we have observed that the banks which are in the soundest condition today are the ones which did not buy themselves in the business of selling bonds.

So much interest has been de veloped in private irrigation sys-tems in Oregon recently that considerable demand has developed for information on methods of applying water. M. R. Lewis, irrigation en gineer at the Oregon State college experiment station, has started a series of radio addresses on this subject which may be heard two Wednesday evenings per over the college station, KOAC.

Professor Lewis' schedule of subjects is, January 27, "The Border Method;" February 10, "The Furrow or Corrugation Method;" Feb-ruary 24, "The Wild Flooding Meth-od; " March 9, "Use of Portable Pipe;" March 23, "Sprinkler Irrigation;" and April 6, "Sub-Irrigation Methods." Mr. Lewis says the best method to adopt depends on many local factors. County agents are also ready to aid any farmer planning to install an irrigation system. Try a G. T. Want Ad.
