LIONS, LEGION WAGE WAR ON DEPRESSION

City to be Scoured for Work to Aid Jobless; Committee Named.

PROJECTS DISCUSSED

City Hall, Street Lighting, Water Rates Among Suggested Projects Worthy of Club's Attention.

A war against depression started by Heppner post American Legion as a part of a nation-wide campaign gained the support of the Lions club at its Monday noon luncheon when Earl Eskelson, Charles Swindig, Gene Ferguson, J. H. McCrady and J. J. Nys were appointed to a committee to cooperate with the Legion committee in planning the attack. Paul Marble, Legion commander, outlined the campaign and suggested participation of the Lions club as one of a number of projects suggested by members to which the club might give its attention. The meeting was given over to the suggestion of projects and methods of increasing the value of meetings.

Mr. Marble told of the national Legion campaign having as its goal obtaining of work for 1,000,000 people now out of employment. He explained that the plan to be followed locally is to visit all residences and business houses of the city for the purpose of listing odd jobs, and to encourage the giving of odd jobs that may be needed to be done in order to eliminate rubbish piles or fire hazards and generally improve the appearance and value of property. The details of carrying out the campaign and the method of attack to be used will be worked out by the joint committee.

Public Burial Cited.

Another suggestion in line with the campaign was a public burial for Old Man Depression. Such a ceremony has been carried out successfully in other places.

The matter of endorsing the construction of a building to house the city council chambers, library and fire truck was submitted as a suggestion. That a concrete building large enough to house these city functions and properties could be built for a sum the interest on which would not exceed the amount now paid in rentals for various quarters had been estimated by a member of the city council, it was said, and investigation revealed an estimated cost of $2500 for such a building. It was suggested that the Lions club might endorse the project because the building is needed to improve existing conditions, because it could be built economically at present, and because it would help relieve the unemployment situation.

Streets Given Attention.

Other suggested projects included working for improved street lighting, cleaning up back alleys, improving city streets, making Heppner more attractive to outside people, encouragement of a more sympathetic attitude between the business interests of Heppner and rural communities, adjustment of water rates.

All suggested projects will be gone into by the board of directors and those found feasible will be recommended to the club for discussion and endorsement.

Special entertainment was provided by the Heppner Mandolin club, with J. T. Lumley, Joe Bibby, Leonard Gilliam, Frank Turner and Jesse Turner playing in ensemble. Mr. Lumley, Mr. Bibby and Jesse Turner playing in trio and Mr. Bibby playing two banjo solos. The music was generously applauded by the club. Miss Juanita Leath was pianist.

Next Monday the club will observe Washington's birthday by a special program arranged for the occasion.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS WILL MARK OPENING OF BICENTENNIAL FETE

RADIO WILL CARRY PROGRAM FROM CAPITAL TO EVERY CORNER OF COUNTRY; CHORUS OF 10,000, ACCOMPANIED BY COMBINED BANDS, WILL LEAD NATION IN SONG.

The official opening of the nation wide George Washington Bicentennial Celebration will take place February 22 at noon, Eastern Standard Time, when President Hoover will deliver his George Washington address before a joint meeting of Congress. Members of the United States Supreme Court, the Cabinet, foreign diplomats and many other distinguished visitors will also be present. Radio will carry the address to every corner of America over a nation wide hook-up.

Immediately after the address, the President will give the signal for the singing of "America" by a combined chorus of 10,000 singers assembled on the east steps of the Capitol. The entire nation, listening at its radios, is expected to join in this singing. The accompaniment will be played by the United States Army, Navy and Marine bands directed by John Philip Sousa. Walter Damrosch will direct the singing.

In the afternoon, President Hoover, accompanied by members of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission and the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission will lay a wreath on the tomb of the Father of his Country.

The George Washington Colonial Costume ball, under the auspices of the United States and the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commissions, will be held in the evening in the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, D. C. Every state in the Union will be represented by invited guests.

Even before the official opening of the Celebration, however, the churches of the nation will participate in an "unofficial" inaugural of the event in religious services to be held in honor of George Washington. These services will commence on Friday evening, February 19, with those groups whose Sabbath begins at sundown on the sixth day of the week. Other groups observing the Sabbath on Saturday and Sunday will also hold devotional services, so it is probable that nearly all of the 232,000 churches in the country will thus honor the memory of George Washington.

MR.-MRS. F. D. COX MARRIED 50 YEARS

Residents of County Since '70s Enjoy Golden Anniversary Celebration With Family Reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Cox, Morrow county pioneers, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Saturday, February 13, at their home on Hinton creek, with all available members of the family making a reunion for the event.

Elizabeth Hyman came to Heppner with her parents from the state of Maine in 1878, and Franklin D. Cox came to Heppner from Silverton, Oregon, in 1877. They were married in Heppner February 13, 1882, and settled on Hinton creek where they have resided ever since. Sixteen children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Cox, eleven of whom are living, and eight of whom were present for the anniversary observance. They have 31 grandchildren and five great grandchildren. Mr. Cox is 76 years of age and Mrs. Cox is 66. Both are enjoying very good health.

The children present were Mr. and Mrs. William Mays, Ben Cox and family, and Percy Cox and family, all of Heppner; Dee Cox and family of Lexington; Mrs. J. J. Johnson, Mrs. Reuben Beer and daughter Vera of Silverton; Archie Cox and family of Council, Idaho; Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Clark and family of Boise, Idaho. The three children not able to attend were Mrs. Jack Cover, Bend; Mrs. Ephram Giger, Longview, Wash., and Mrs. Royley Metcalf, Boise, Idaho. A bountiful anniversary dinner was enjoyed at noon and Mr. and Mrs. Cox received many lovely gifts. The afternoon was spent in reminiscing. In the evening neighbors and friends gathered to extend their congratulations and good wishes.

Library Adds Two Books On Life of Washington

In keeping with the national observance of the bicentennial of Washington's birth, the Heppner library association has recently added to its shelves two new books of general interest about the first American. One, "In the Days of Young Washington," by Nancy Byrd Turner, is largely for child readers, as it gives a comprehensive account of Washington's younger days chiefly in words of one syllable. The other new book, which is highly recommended by the bicentennial commission, is Frederick Trevor Hill's "On the Trail of Washington," and has an appeal for older students and adults. In the author's words, he attempts to depict the man as he really was, "a man with good red blood in his veins, good common sense in his head, good kindly feeling in his heart, and a good honest laugh." The author has made a special effort to select his biographical data from strictly authentic sources, having made use of free access to original documents and mementoes in most cases.

University Ranks High In Promoting Good Will

University of Oregon, Eugene, Feb. 17.—The University of Oregon was selected as one of the seven most outstanding American colleges in the promotion of international good will and understanding during 1931 in the national FIDAC competition, it was announced here by Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the university, who just received word from James F. Barton, national adjutant of the American Legion.

FIDAC is the organization of veterans' societies of the Allied Countries of the World War, and each year awards the FIDAC Educational medals, one of which goes to the college or university with more than 1,000 enrollment, one to the institution under 1,000, and the third to a woman's college. This year Princeton was awarded the medal in the first group, Clarkin the second, and Vassar in the third. The FIDAC jury of award is headed by Dr. Stephen P. Duggan, New York, and consists of Dr. David P. Barrows, California; Gen. L. R. Gignilliat, Indiana; Dr. Robert H. Hutchins, Illinois, and Dr. Paul Monroe, New York.

Very high in the estimation of the jury of award, being selected as one of the seven most outstanding colleges in the first group, Mr. Barton wrote Dr. Hall.

During the past year, the international value of the Murray Warner art museum, the work of Mrs. Murray Warner, the Murray Warner essay contest on international relations, the university International House, the Pacific Basin debate tour and other projects have been outstanding in this field. President Hall lectured and wrote on international topics, as has Dr. John R. Mez, professor of political science. Dr. John Mueller, professor of sociology, toured Russia and contributed valuable data on conditions there; David E. Paville, dean of the school of business administration, toured the Orient, bringing back valuable material on foreign trade.

The university offers numerous courses dealing with international relations, valuable in promoting good will, it was pointed out.

ELKS BALL ON 22ND.

Plans are well in hand for the annual ball of Heppner lodge 358, B. P. O. Elks to be held on Washington's birthday, Monday evening, February 22, announced Dean T. Goodman, secretary. While a program of economy is being followed in staging the ball this year, no elaborate features are planned, all who attend are promised a good time. Punch and a midnight supper will be served. The initiation ceremonies formerly announced in connection with the annual ball have been postponed until the regular meeting night on the 25th when a good attendance of members is urged.

OUTLOOK FOR 1932 VARIED ON FARMS

Annual Report from O.S.C. Shows Uncertainty; Much Depends on World-Wide Events.

"The 1932 crop season is making a rather favorable start in Oregon so far as nature is concerned, but will depend much upon world-wide economic and political events which cannot be entirely foreseen," says the annual agricultural outlook report just released by the Oregon State college extension service.

Pointing out that the general level of farm prices is now only about one-half as high as from 1926 to 1930, and scarcely two-thirds as high as from 1910 to 1914, the report attributes this situation principally to weak foreign and domestic demand. There was overproduction of some farm products and under-production of others, but the gross volume of agricultural production was not much more or less than from 1920 to 1930.

"Substantial improvement in domestic demand for farm products is not to be expected until credit conditions become more favorable, and there is a revival in industry. There is very little definite evidence of significant improvement in the near future in the foreign demand for agricultural products from this country," says the report.

Industrial Revival Watched.

Factory payrolls in this country in November were only 56 per cent of the average from 1923 to 1925 at the same season, and unemployment in some industries was even greater. Signs of more than seasonal improvement in such basic industries as iron and steel, automobiles, and construction, which consume largely non-agricultural raw materials, present evidence of the approach of improvement in domestic demand for farm products, according to the report.

Considerable space in the report is given to an analysis of the cost outlook, including credit, taxes, labor and commodities used in production and living. The unfavorable relationship between farm cash income and the cost of operating farms which has prevailed for several years, is expected to continue in 1932, although some improvement in some items seems likely.

"Poultry keepers who follow a well defined program are justified in rearing sufficient young stock to operate their present equipment, although present economic conditions do not justify plunging or over-expansion of the poultry industry," says the report. The outlook is for a smaller supply of fresh eggs in 1932 than in 1931, unless production per hen should exceed the large figure in 1931. Number of chickens on farms January 1 was estimated at 5 per cent under a year previous, but information on chick hatchings will only become available from month to month during the season.

More Cows Being Milked

With respect to the dairy situation, the report says there are too many cows in the whole country and that the number of young stock being raised is still excessive. The number of cows in the United States is estimated to be 3.5 per cent greater than a year ago and 6.4 per cent more than two years ago. More heifers are on hand than needed for replacements. The importance of reducing the cost of production, improving the quality of the products, and making Oregon dairy stock more attractive to California buyers is emphasized.

The economic position of the beef cattle industry appears to be more favorable at present than hogs and sheep, although there has been an upward trend in cattle numbers since 1928. Despite a sharp falling off in the export demand for hog products, the number of hogs in the United States has been increased 9 per cent during the past year. Cheap wheat and feed grains have stimulated hog production.

Sheep Herds Expanded.

The sheep population of the country is 50 per cent greater than at the low point 10 years ago, but no increase is expected in the lamb crop this spring because of unfavorable conditions in the western states. The size of the crop will, of course, depend somewhat upon weather conditions during the next three months. The importance of measures for increasing the demand for lamb and wool were also discussed in the report.

The honey outlook says that prospects are favorable for a good flow of nectar in 1932, but the general condition of bees is less satisfactory than usual. Although exports have declined sharply, domestic sales have been increased by growers who marketed much honey locally, and the 1931 crop was the smallest in several years.

The complete outlook reports for Oregon are now available from any county agent.

TREE PLANTING PROPOSAL MADE

Bicentennial Committee Endorses Wehmeyer Plan; Marker Ordered; Committees Named.

Approval of landscaping plan and the proposal for replanting native trees as submitted by F. F. Wehmeyer, local forest ranger, was made by the Washington Bicentennial committee at a meeting in the library last Thursday evening. The plans are for the development of the committee's tree-planting project at the city's artesian well site at the forks of Willow creek.

With most of the money for the purpose in hand or promised from the different contributing organizations of the city, Mrs. J. D. Cash, chairman of the committee in charge, was authorized to order the brass marker which will designate the site. Mrs. Lucy E. Rodgers, Mrs. Earl Gordon and Jasper Crawford were appointed on the committee to have charge of the dedication ceremonies set for July Fourth.

W. R. Poulson, scoutmaster, was present and said that the Boy Scouts could assist in the development of some project at the park.

Mr. Wehmeyer's plans call for the transplanting of native trees, the Blue mountains in the vicinity offering a great many species that are readily available. He offered to locate the trees and assist in transplanting them. To assist in this work Mrs. Arthur McAtee, president, appointed Earl Gilliam, Walter Moore and Charles Smith. John Wightman was asked to secure a base for the marker, and Mr. Wehmeyer also offered his assistance in locating a boulder suitable for the purpose.

Several landscaping plans were submitted to the committee, but that proposed by Mr. Wehmeyer was considered most feasible.

FORM UNITED FRONT FOR UNEMPLOYMENT DRIVE IN COUNTY

Everyone Urged to Enlist in War on Depression; First Guns Fired.

MILLION MORE JOBS IS NATIONAL GOAL

Restoration of Confidence and Normal Buying Expected Result.

"One Million Wage Earners Back to Work!"

That is the battle cry of the War Against Depression officially declared Monday which will be waged through 10,800 local committees in every city, town and hamlet in the United States for the purpose of reestablishing public confidence and securing resumption of normal buying. Sponsored nationally by the American Legion, American Legion auxiliary, the Association of National Advertisers and the American Federation of Labor, the banner has been hoisted over a united front in Heppner with the joining of forces of the Business and Professional Women's club, Lions club, Elks, American Legion and auxiliary, together with the governor's unemployment committee and the Central Committee for Unemployment Relief, representatives of which organizations met at Hotel Heppner Wednesday afternoon to start the preliminary organization. Further organization of the local army and formulation of the methods of attack will be made at a general committee meeting tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at Hotel Heppner dining room.

Carried on nationally with the idea of securing permanent employment for unemployed men and women through urging every employer of labor to put at least one additional wage earner to work, it will be the aim of the local army to obtain as much permanent employment as possible, also. But lacking payroll industries which afford the opportunity of securing permanent jobs, locally an effort to create as many odd jobs as possible is to be made, as in that manner only, it is believed, can Morrow county's 250 unemployed be given relief.

Therefore it is being urged that people think and talk the matter over; think and talk over the opportunity of making needed improvements at this time when building costs are the lowest in years; consider the matter of cleaning up premises, painting, papering, leveling yards, making gardens, planting lawns and the thousand and one things that are needed to be done.

Then fill out the questionnaire appearing on another page of this issue of the Gazette Times, letting members of the local committee know, when you are called upon, what jobs you are willing to have done now to assist in waging the war against depression. In recognition of your enlistment in the cause, you will be presented with a service star which you may be as proud to display as were those mothers and fathers whose sons and daughters served their country in the great war.

To further analyze local conditions and see what opportunity there may be of future employment for those now out of work the preliminary plans of the committee include a survey of the country districts for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of help that will be required to take care of spring and summer work on the farms. It is believed that much relief will be given the local situation through absorption of local unemployed in farm work.

It is believed that the entire country will be benefitted by the drive and that there will be no favored class. Employers can help by providing employment; wage earners can help by normal buying and refusing to be hoarders.

The committees selected by the various local organizations which make up the general committee, include:

Business and Professional Women's club: Miss Catherine Peterson, Mrs. Mark Merrill, Miss Opal Briggs, Miss Marjorie Clark, Miss Helen Curran.

American Legion auxiliary: Mrs. Helen Christensen, Mrs. Wilson Bayless, Mrs. Harry Tamblin, Mrs. Willis McCarty, Mrs. Gene Ferguson, Mrs. Paul Marble.
