IN THE SANDS OF TIME.

"GREATER love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friends."

The bronze inscription of a Carnegie Medal, a truth established through the ages, tells one of the attributes of true greatness. It was chosen to mark heroes and heroines who might otherwise have their deeds unrecorded in the sands of time.

Lawrence S. Case was but one of several million ordinary American boys as he followed the peaceful pursuits of life in Heppner, and as he helped to gather the fruits from the orchards at Brewster, Wash. But on one Sunday afternoon when his sweetheart was overcome with cramps while swimming in the Columbia river, he rose to the ranks of the immortals—for then he made the supreme sacrifice in attempting to save her life.

The Carnegie award is the highest civilian tribute that is bestowed upon any individual. That Lawrence Case should have earned it is balm to the bleeding hearts of his parents and other loved ones. In losing him they gave him to the world.

VALUES THAT MONEY CANNOT BUY.

SOMETIMES we wonder what would be the effect if things should go on about as they are now indefinitely. How much worse off would we be as a people if the present standard of income should prove permanent?

It all depends, it seems to us, on where you stand when you look at the world. If you're standing on a dollar-mark things are pretty bad right now. But there are other points of view. Why do we want prosperity to return? So we can all have more money. But if we had more money, what would we do with it?

It seems to us that during those boom years when money, for a lot of people, was easy to get, it proved to be pretty hard to hold. And from what we saw and heard and read about what people did with their money, especially people who had never had any experience with money before, it didn't do many of them much good. On the contrary, it seems to us, it was a genuinely bad influence. And is there any reason to believe that people, speaking generally, would get any more lasting value out of easy money if boom times came back? We think not.

Of course, we want everybody to

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School Lesson for March 13. JESUS COMFORTS HIS DISCIPLES. John 14:1-18.

We are still in the upper room where the Passover was celebrated. Then the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was instituted—after Judas left to complete his act of selling Jesus for thirty pieces of silver. Before they went out into the night Jesus made the most celebrated after dinner address of all time. For the full content read John 14, 15 and 16, and follow this with a study of what in reality is the prayer of our Lord, as recorded in John 17. All these messages are rich in spiritual teaching and afford comfort in times of most severe need. Do not confine your study to the limited lesson text indicated above. There is much about heaven in direct teaching in our chapter.

All the disciples were greatly disturbed in mind for they were aware of some momentous event that was about to take place. In the midst of this company Jesus stands with perfect mental and spiritual poise. It is a serious mistake to think that one who is highly spiritual cannot face the affairs of life in a most practical manner. Because of His personal equanimity there is a sublime challenge in the opening words: "Let not your heart be troubled." Reason for this confidence on the part of the disciples was grounded in dual faith—in both the Father and the Son. His very being is a pledge that all that He had taught about the future state was so.

Though he was about to go away in physical person He would always be intimately with them as a Spirit. They could talk to Him just as really as during the past three years. They would be able through Him to work even greater spiritual miracles for the good of man. There would be a wondrous compensation to His going away in the flesh as they would experience the active presence of the Holy Spirit.

have a job. We not only hope that but we expect that conditions will change so that there will be no unemployment to the extent of widespread distress and privation. And we realize that there will always be some people who will have more money than they know what to do with, and who will continue to spend it foolishly. But it does seem to us that in the effort to make everybody rich our system has not succeeded in making anybody very happy; and we wonder whether we have not somehow, as a people, lost our grip on the more enduring things of life in the struggle for the mighty dollar.

There are spiritual values which are immensely more important than riches, which are not at all dependent upon wealth, which, in fact, are likely to be destroyed by the possession of more money than is needed to keep the body warm and fed. Perhaps these lean years may prove to have had a disciplinary value in turning people's thoughts away from mere pleasure to the soberer but more important things of life.

THE SALES TAX.

Autocaster Service. A GENERAL sales tax on every commodity except the staple foodstuffs appears to be inescapable. Revenue must be raised to pay the nation's running expenses, and there are few sources of taxation that will not have run dry before the mounting cost of government will have been met.

The sales tax is a rather painless way of making everybody pay his or her share of governmental costs. If it is levied in such a way that everybody who buys anything realizes that part of the purchase price goes for taxes, it may have the effect of making the ordinary citizen tax-conscious, and that will be a good thing.

The ultimate consumer pays the taxes now, but he doesn't know it. The average man thinks there is some way of taxing the rich which cannot be passed on by the rich to the poor. There isn't any such system possible, and the sooner that all taxes bear heaviest upon the retail purchaser, whether he buys a pair of shoes, an automobile or the rent of a home, the sooner the ordinary man will begin to take an interest in public affairs and demand more efficiency for his tax money and greater economy in public office.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

MARY A. NOTSON, Reporter.

Some of the wet members of congress are making wild assertions to the effect that there is more liquor consumed than was consumed before prohibition was adopted. They can not deceive those who have any memory of the days of the open saloon. The approximate average yearly consumption of distilled liquors, wines and beer from 1910 to 1914 was 22.43 gallons for every man, woman and child in the United States, according to the Department of Commerce statistics. According to the most reliable estimates from official sources, the average consumption for the year ending June 30, 1930, including home-made products, was slightly more than 7 gallons. This shows a decrease of about 70 per cent. This is not such a bad showing, and it is very different from the increase claimed by the wets.

No intelligent person will believe that more liquor is sold by bootleggers than was sold by the saloon. In 1908, there was one retail liquor dealer for every 333 men, women and children in the United States. The yearly expenditure for liquor before prohibition was three times as great as the cost of operating our public schools and twice the cost of running the Federal Government. Hence, it is simply nonsensical to assert that more liquor is consumed now than before prohibition was adopted.

Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army says that before prohibition in New York City alone from 1200 to 1300 drunks a night were brought into the Salvation Army "homes," while now the number does not average more than seven. This, remember, is in a city where the local police are under no obligation to assist in the enforcement of the prohibition law.

Before prohibition there were ninety-eight "Keeley Institutes" for treatment of the liquor habit, while today there are only eleven. The others have closed because there is no patronage. This fact alone absolutely disproves the assertion of the wets that there is more drinking now than before prohibition. Drinking to excess has undoubtedly diminished more than 70 per cent. The condition among industrial workers has improved to a very marked degree, as is shown by the testimony of many large employers.

No law is observed or enforced 100 per cent. The law against reckless driving is broken many times daily. Does anybody think it should be repealed? The Federal law against taking a stolen car into another state has been violated hundreds of times every year. Does anyone advocate leaving this up to the state to deal with alone without any Federal aid? Is anyone asking for the outright repeal?

Lakeview—Recommendations that the substantially reduced hay ration being fed to Lake county dairy herds because of the severe alfalfa hay shortage be supplemented with coarse ground corn, the cheapest concentrate available at present, are being issued to dairymen of the Goose Lake valley by Vic Johnson, county agent.

Hillsboro—The use of more alfalfa, roots and corn for grain are recommended by County Agent W. F. Cyrus as a means by which Washington county farmers can cut costs on their dairy farms. Alfalfa seed is cheaper than ever before and this is a good year to make additional seedings, says Cyrus.

The Safest Place for Money

My Bond is as good as My Money!

The FAMILY DOCTOR by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

An Old-Fashioned Letter

Somehow I feel like writing you an old-fashioned epistle this glorious morning. Mind you, I'm not asking you to agree with everything I say; while I feel absolutely sure I'm telling the truth, it does not mean that I am doing so; when you simmer a thing down to a solid base, the wisest of us may be telling the exact opposite—"There's nothing true, but heaven."

The pig is the healthiest animal I know of, taken as an individual species; I never heard of the hog being a tuberculosis-carrier. He dies of cholera—an epidemic disease. But, the hog has fewer diseases in his family than any other farm animal. The best pepin comes from the peerless digestive tract of the pig!

There are many, very many today, especially among our younger women, that throw up their hands in holy horror, if somebody mentions pork as an article of food! These individuals, if you look at them critically, are amehic, thin-skinned, feeble-fingered, and nervous. You will find nine out of ten of them eat beef, if they have not already abandoned meats at the command of the faddists, and they are slowly paving the way for tuberculosis, or other serious disease—by lowering bodily resistance.

I have seen the western farmer in pioneer days, eat cured ham and bacon all his life—remain in good working trim until too old, and die of sheer old age. And I have seen the great army of weaklings develop right along with the advent of fresh beef, and its being almost forced upon people by physicians, who themselves have acquired uraemic poison and blood-pressure and tuberculosis, following the fresh beef fad.

I may close this old-time message with the point I have in mind: There is no better strength-building, blood-making, body protecting food than well-cured bacon and ham! And, everybody who toils knows this. And everybody ought to toil for the earning of honest bread and meat. Now, turn up your nose if you must.

HARDMAN. MRS. ELLA FARRENS.

Miss Mae Doherty, teacher at Rood canyon, was attending to matters of business here Saturday, also visiting at the J. E. Adams home. Mr. and Mrs. Neil Knighten, Miss Marjorie Montgomery and Bill Johnson motored to Heppner Saturday, spending the day shopping in that city.

Mrs. Ethel McDaniel, Miss Mildred Farrens were attending to matters of business in Heppner Saturday. Mrs. McDaniel was purchasing school books and making other preparations for opening of school at the Burton Valley district.

Richard Robison spent the week end with his parents at their mountain ranch.

Charlie Hackman has been quite ill the past week. He departed for Heppner Saturday where he expected to enter the Morrow General hospital for a major operation. Friends wish him a speedy recuperation.

Jack Grimes passed through town Thursday on his way to his home.

County examinations were conducted at the grade school last Thursday and Friday by Mrs. Knighten for the 6th, 7th and 8th grades.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Musgrave were out from their mountain home last week.

Estlin and Arlon Stevens are making preparations to move over to the Holy Leathers place near here, where they will begin spring work as soon as the weather permits.

The cooking club met last Wednesday under the supervision of their leader, Mrs. Knighten. Their first lesson was learning to make toast.

Miss Montgomery treated her little folks to a marshmallow toast last week after school. From the looks of them afterwards we judge they had a most enjoyable time.

FARM POINTERS.

Klamath Falls—That Klamath county farmers are fully aware of the value of pastures in net returns to the producer is indicated by a recent compilation by the U. S. bureau of reclamation showing that the pasture acreage in this county has increased from 29,018 acres in 1930 to 39,123 acres in 1931—more than 10,000 acres. A further increase in 1932 is expected by C. A. Henderson, county agent, who says he is receiving numerous inquiries concerning pasture mixtures suited to the district.

Prinville—Irrigation systems were surveyed on the farms of W. F. King of Ochoco and J. Ashbacher, Crooked River, during the past month by W. B. Tucker, county agent, assisted by Arthur King, soils specialist of the state college extension service. Field laterals were also surveyed for Adolph Williams and Harold Meeker of Powell Butte.
