"It's TRUTH, Sir--"

The Wise Counsellor declares that the man who "sits tight" waiting for the depression to leave will more likely than not find himself holding nothing but the sack when that time comes—for he is doing the very thing to prolong the condition he desires to avert. No waving of wagic wand is going to bring better times... They will be had only through redoubled effort by thte majority of the people. Economy is necessary. But an economy program which includes curtailing of the greatest force in merchandising—ADVERTISING—is certain to defeat the purpose of such a program.

Advertising is more necessary now than ever before, because people must be convinced of the value of things before they buy—

And again the greatest advertising opporunity in years is present—as probably never before were merchants able to offer such attractive bargains... Today the purchaser's dollar is worth $1.79 in the value of the merchandise it will buy, affording
