Last Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Art Parker entertained a large number of friends at their home on Willow creek, honoring their niece, Gladys Reaney, who makes her home with them, also honoring Mrs. Frank Turner. Gladys began her school days with Mrs. Turner as her teacher and this year she completed her eighth grade under her instruction. Those present at the party were the seventh and eighth grade pupils of the Lexington school and a number of friends from both Heppner and Lexington. Games were played during the evening and lovely refreshments were served to the guests.

Marion Palmer had the misfortune to mash his hand a few days ago, causing him considerable pain. He caught it in the cylinder of his combine.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Evans are enjoying a visit from Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Craig of Spokane. Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Craigo are sisters.

BOARDMAN

RACHEL JOHNSON

Commencement exercises for the graduating class of 1932 were held in the auditorium last Thursday evening. The seniors were Mildred Allen and Dorothy Compton. Dr. J. R. Jewell, dean at Oregon State college, gave the graduation address. The evening's program was: professional, John Steelhammer; invocation, Rev. Father Gough; Glow Worm, men's quartet; piano solo, Mrs. Cassidy; solo, Miss Rhoda Shellenberger; address, Dr. Jewell; presentation of diplomas, Carroll Kennedy; Perfect Day, mixed chorus.

The Class and Honor Day program was given Wednesday afternoon in the auditorium. Mr. Handsaker, associate secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, gave a very interesting talk to the audience about preventing war. After the assembly singing the senior class pledge was given by Dorothy Compton; the class history, was given by Mildred Allen; class prophecy, Mary Chaffee; class will, Dorothy Compton. Mildred Allen presented the senior class gift to the high school, a check for $39.85. W. O. King, coach, then presented the basketball boys with the letters they had won. To receive a letter, he explained that each player must have played in two full games or in part of four games. Those receiving letters were George Wicklander, Marvin Ransier, Edward Compton, George Graves, Harley Wigglesworth, Vernon Partlow, Kenneth Dugan and Delbert Mackan. The colors of the letters were purple and gold, the high school colors. L. E. Marschat announced those receiving the general activities merit awards in the high school. The awards will be made to the students in the fall. They are Mary Chaffee, George Wicklander, Dorothy Compton, Cecilia Partlow and Lucille Wigglesworth. Those receiving honorable mention were Helen Slinger, Dale Cox, Vernon Partlow, Elsie Wilson and Willard Baker. The grade teachers announced those in their room winning pennmanship awards. Reading certificates were handed to those who had read the required number of books as listed on the Oregon State library list. Prizes for the poster contest, conducted by the Boardman unit of the health association, were given the winners by Mrs. Earl Cramer, secretary. A piano solo by John Steelhammer completed the program.

School picnics were held Friday afternoon. The high school spent the afternoon at the Grunhouse, the upper grades ate their picnic lunch in Ford's camp ground, and the lower grades ate their lunch on the school lawn.

Mrs. A. E. Porter returned home Tuesday from a visit in Portland.

S. H. Boardman of Salem was an overnight visitor in Boardman last week.

Mary Healey of The Dalles spent the week end at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Mefford and son have moved on to the Frank Partlow ranch.

The primary election will be Friday, May 20, at 8 o'clock. At this time, Rev. W. O. Miller of the Umatilla and Boardman churches will be installed as pastor of the churches. Dr. A. G. Pearson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Pendleton, will conduct the services.

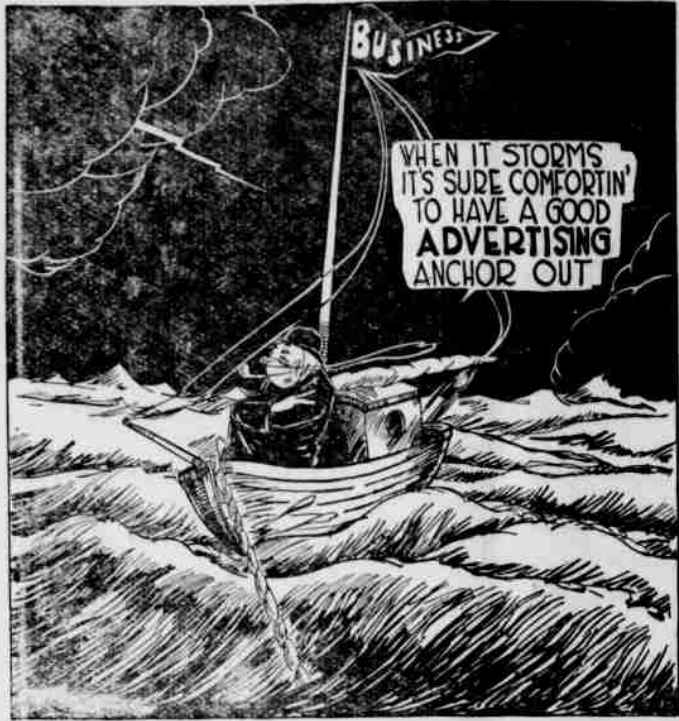

Glen Hadley returned home from Weiser, Idaho, early Saturday, ill with what he thought might be typhoid fever. On Monday evening he was taken to the veterans' hospital at Portland by Leo Cooney and Al Price, as the local doctors diagnosed his case as spotted fever, caused by a tick bite. Mr. Hadley has been sheep-shearing for the past several weeks.

Several weeks ago Dr. Barr and Dr. McCrady, dentists of Heppner, held a dental clinic in the Boardman school. At this time cards were sent home with the children telling of the work needed to be done on their teeth. Dr. Barr has consented to come to Boardman on Sundays and do this work for the children for 1-4 the regular price. Please get in touch with L. E. Marschat as soon as possible and let him know if you want your children's teeth fixed by Dr. Barr.

BULK HANDLING IS COMING IN OREGON

Study of Grain Harvesting and Shipping Methods Reported In U. S. D. A. Bulletin.

"An ultimate shift to bulk handling of grain over much of the Pacific Northwest is desirable and may be expected, but the change should be made cautiously."

This is the conclusion reached in a study of "Farm-management Problems in Shifting from Sack to Bulk Handling of Grain in the Pacific Northwest," and just reported on in a technical bulletin by that name issued by the United States department of agriculture. The study was made as a cooperative project between the federal department and state experiment stations of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, with G. W. Kuhlman, assistant economist in farm management, representing Oregon.

Though grain is now shipped in bulk from terminal points in Oregon and Washington, more than 60 per cent of the crop received at Columbia River and Puget Sound terminals has still arrived in sacks in recent years, the bulletin shows. The study sought by actually visiting and assembling data on 316 farms to determine the relative economy of bulk and sack handling methods under present conditions.

Combining with bulk handling required less labor than with sack handling, and the labor used is less strenuous so that younger or older men of the farm families are used, thus cutting cash expense, the study showed. Hauling grain in bulk is also easier but not cheaper than hauling sacked grain. Four times as much labor is needed to load a 40-ton car with sacked grain as is needed to load bulk grain.

Cost of converting sack-harvesting equipment to bulk handling ranged upward from $150, the survey showed. Many ingenious means of surmounting local difficulties were found and some of these are reported on in the well-illustrated bulletin.

Lack of adequate storage and handling facilities for bulk handling at the county shipping points has been the greatest single factor in retarding more general adoption of bulk handling methods on the farm. Care is needed, the investigators say, to coordinate the movement toward bulk handling so that facilities at county shipping points and terminal markets will keep pace with the ever increasing volume of bulk handling from the farms.

Grants Pass—To fight hard times with home grown vegetables is the aim of 445 Josephine county home makers enrolled in the year-round garden and food preservation project which is being aided by Mrs. Sara H. Wertz, county home demonstration agent and H. B. Howells, county agricultural agent.

University Prepares for 1932 Summer Sessions

University of Oregon, Eugene, May 18.—Widely varied courses in many fields will be offered at the summer sessions of the University of Oregon this year, according to the program announced by Alfred Powers, director. The two regular six weeks' sessions will be held in Portland and Eugene from June 20 to July 29, followed by a four weeks' post-session at Eugene. These are in addition to the cruises to Hawaii and Alaska.

The art center, where teachers of art are trained will again be a part of the Eugene program, owing to another special grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York. For the past two years the University of Oregon has been selected as one of the two centers for summer work in art, the other being at Harvard University. An international authority on art, Dr. Eugen Gustav Steinhof, director of the National School of Decorative Art, will give a course on the psychology of art.

The clinical school for atypical children, headed by Dr. B. W. DeBusk of Oregon, and Dr. Grace Fernald of University of California at Los Angeles, which has gained fame all over the country will be held for the fourth time this summer at Eugene. During the first two weeks at Eugene there will be a school of athletic coaching of the major sports. Attractive programs have been arranged in many other fields, as well, including library work, business administration, chemistry, drama, economics, English, journalism, Latin, mathematics, music, philosophy, physical education, physics, Romance languages and sociology.

The Portland sessions will again be held in Lincoln high school with many well-known educators on hand, to teach practically all the above subjects. A feature of the educational offerings which has attracted wide attention is the Platoon Demonstration school, which will be held in cooperation with the Portland public schools. A regular ten-section, ten-teacher platoon school will be organized in the Shattuck building, a few blocks from Lincoln high school.

Public speaking and nursing will be added to the Portland curricula.

Gresham—An estimated saving of $56.35 has been reported by five groups of Multnomah county women as a result of learning the why's and how's of altering commercial patterns to suit individual measurements. From basic patterns suited to their own measurements 77 homemakers made new or remodeled old garments. This series of clothing meetings was conducted by Frances Clinton, the county home demonstration agent.

A fine cast in BEAUTY AND THE BOSS, Star Theater, Sunday and Monday.

SUMMER SESSIONS REMAIN THIS YEAR

1932 Program at Oregon State is Unchanged by Recent Shifts; Catalog Now Ready.

Summer sessions at Oregon State college, both junior and adult, will be held as usual this year, as the recently announced curricula changes in higher education do not affect arrangements for the 1932 summer session which were made close to a year ago. This announcement has been made by Dean M. Ellwood Smith, director of the summer session at O. S. C.

The regular summer session starts this year June 20 and continues to July 29, while the junior session for 4-H club members begins a week earlier on June 13 and continues the usual two weeks.

The final detailed catalog for the summer session has just been issued and is ready for distribution showing the complete list of offerings and the schedules, as well as the list of instructors for the session this summer. On the staff will be 65 members of the regular faculty at the college and 12 visiting instructors brought from other places.

Most of the work offered this summer will be in home economics, vocational education, commerce and basic arts and sciences, though usual courses will be continued in industrial arts, physical education, industrial journalism, religion and music.

The usual summer coaching school under the leadership of Paul J. Schissler, head coach and director of athletics, is scheduled again under physical education. The faculty will include nearly all the regular coaching staff at the college.

The work in home economics is being featured again this year with more visiting instructors in that division than any other. For the third year Dr. Henry C. Sherman of Columbia university, New York, will come to head the work in nutrition. Other visiting instructors will be brought from Cornell, Minnesota, Montana, Oakland and Washington, D. C.

McMinnville—Several Yamhill county poultrymen are adopting a green feed program recommended by County Agent S. T. White to reduce feed costs this year. The program recommended by County Agent S. T. White to reduce feed costs this year. The program calls for the establishment of small plots of alfalfa, supplemented with roots and kale, to provide green feed throughout the entire season. Among those who have adopted such a program are Herman Bernards, Dick Stevens and Mrs. Ida Mae Hamblin.
