

IONE

JENNIE E. MCMURRAY.

The baccalaureate services at the Congregational church Sunday morning marked the beginning of commencement week. The speaker was Rev. W. W. Head, former pastor of the church who now resides at Cathlamet, Wash. He spoke on the subject, "The Call of God," and said in part: "Men have been hearing the call of God from the foundation of the world. Recorded history is full of the instances."

"Abraham was called out of Haran to found the tribes of Israel; Moses from the burning bush to lead the children of Israel out of freedom in the land of promise. Samuel heard the voice of God in the night time and Christ in the light of day; Paul in a voice from the midday sky and the Maid of Orleans from trees heard mysterious and holy voices calling her to the deliverance of her king, her people and her church; Washington felt the urge of an imperative man-date to the leadership of a forlorn hope for the freedom of the thirteen colonies against the might of Britain; another Abraham caught in the slave mart the inspiration that finally affixed his signature to the presidential proclamation that declared the freedom of 4,000,000 slaves; Harriet Beecher Stowe in the daily round of housewifely duties, caught the vision of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and Julia Ward Howe in the far reaching watch fires of the armies of freedom caught the uplift of soul that enabled her to sing "Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory of the Coming of the Lord."

"These few I mention, but there are so many more that the day would not suffice for the calling of their names. These men and women were the voice of God calling the common man to the service of truth and humanity; calling them in their own time and calling them today."

"But I cite these this morning not as though you might some day hear the call to the like high posts of service and honor, for this is beyond our present vision, but to remind you that a universal call has been sounded to all mankind—the call to duty and service in places where they are. The time needs common men—men and women who will serve in the ranks with the same consecrated and loyal devotion as their leaders."

Two special numbers during the services were vocal solos by Lyle N. Riggs. Spring flowers were used as church decorations. The church was filled with friends who came again to hear Rev. Head speak and greet the fourteen fine girls and boys—members of the graduating class of 1932.

Mrs. Hannah Ahalt and daughter, Mrs. Robert Montague, departed Saturday for their home at Tappanish, Washington, after a pleasant week's visit at the home of Mrs. Ahalt's daughter, Mrs. Fred Buchanan, on Willow creek.

Mr. J. W. Howk and young son Alan went to Portland on Thursday of last week, returning Sunday. The object of their visit to the Rose City was to attend the Al G. Barnes circus. Mr. Howk met his family in Arlington Sunday where they visited briefly at the Guy Salling home.

Mrs. Hazel Josephson, teacher in the Arlington grade school, died Sunday following a short illness. Mrs. Josephson was quite well known here where she attended many social affairs and several times acted as one of the judges of our declamatory contests.

Mrs. S. E. Moore accompanied Walter Eubanks when he went to Portland the middle of the week. While in the city they both visited at the home of Mrs. More's daughter, Mrs. Wrex Hiseck.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eubanks have moved to the Lee Beckner ranch where Mr. Eubanks has employment. They will make their home on what is known as the Charley Erwin ranch, now owned by Beckner.

Some time during the early hours of Sunday morning the temperature dropped below the freezing point and ice an eighth of an inch in thickness formed on water. Early gardens in town and the nearby valley were nipped slightly by the frost but the damage was not great.

Rock Thursday of last week. The McDevitts are former residents of this district. Aside from their farming, they are engaged in poultry raising on a large scale. The day the Ione party visited them they had 500 young turkeys in brooders and three incubators of turkey eggs hatching; 500 young chicks in brooders and 250 running with the hens. They have much up-to-date equipment for the care of their poultry and are installing more.

Larry Londergan has been engaged in doing some repair work on the barn at the Bert Johnson ranch.

Jack Wagner was a Portland visitor last week.

Rev. A. B. Hoag, pastor of the Congregational church at Cathlamet, Wash., was registered at the Park hotel the latter part of last week. Rev. Hoag stopped over here while enroute to his home after having attended a church meeting at Walla Walla.

Instead of the annual grade school picnic, the pupils were entertained this year by parties. The 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th graders had a happy time at the gymnasium the evening of May 11, from 7:30 to 10 o'clock. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Before the serving of refreshments the young folks played games; after that they enjoyed dancing. Mrs. Harriet Brown and Miss Geneva Pelkey chaperoned. The 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th graders had their party Friday afternoon at the school house. The children who will enter school next year were especially invited guests. Ice cream and cookies were served and every one had a jolly time. Chaperones were the two teachers, Miss Maude Knight and Miss Hildegard Williams.

A party of twenty enjoyed a picnic dinner Sunday at Masonic hall. Those present were the George Krebs family, the Peter Timm family, the Elmer Griffith family, Miss Constance Bork, Miss Opal Finn, Dwight Misner and George Ely.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rowell and two children were guests from Friday until Monday at the home of Mrs. Rowell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Frank. On the return trip to their Kennebec home they were accompanied as far as Umatilla by Mr. and Mrs. Frank and Miss Hazel. The Rowells, who are former residents of this district, are much pleased with their new home at Kennebec. From Umatilla Mr. and Mrs. Frank drove to Hermiston where Mrs. Frank remained at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Herbert Helms, that she may continue her medical treatment.

The monthly missionary meeting of the Congregational church was held on the 12th instead of the regular meeting time of May 5th. The president, Mrs. Ed Keller, presided. The devotional services were led by Mrs. Paul Balsiger. The study topic was missionary work in China and following out this line of study, Mrs. Harvey Ring read a paper on the wonderful engineering work at Amoy, China, by Homer Ling, a Chinese student educated in the United States. An article read by Mrs. Keller was by an old schoolmate of her's and told of the work being accomplished in her part of the field. Ladies present at the meeting were Mrs. Keller, Mrs. Paul Balsiger, Mrs. Victor Peterson, Mrs. Harvey Ring and Mrs. J. E. Swanson.

Considerable interest was taken in the meeting which was held Monday night for the purpose of organizing the fire fighters of our village. Two companies were formed—one in the east end of town with Richard Lundell as chief, Cleo Drake as captain and Frank Lundell as assistant captain. In the west end company, Lee Howell is chief, Blain Blackwell, captain, and Ernest Shipley, assistant captain. The new organization issued a call for practice Wednesday evening and at that time the hose cart men will be named.

Sentiment. "There came a woman having an alabaster box of ointment of spike-nard, very precious; and she brake the box and poured it on His head." Mark 14-3.

Men of practical mind who witnessed this incident protested, saying: "Why this waste?" It seemed all too sentimental to them.

Some people pride themselves on being "practical." They never do anything for the sake of sentiment. If it were left to them, they would turn the whole earth into a cornfield. No room would be planned or allowed for a flower garden.

Now, assuredly, a cornfield has its place; but without flower gardens this old world would be a dreary, drab planet. And while we cannot turn the world on sentiment alone, without it human society would be intolerable.

There may be such a thing as being too sentimental, but we should be very sorry for people who have no sentiment in their makeup, in their nature. We wonder how such people get any thrill out of life. They must be a misery to themselves; life holding nothing for them except the very practical and stern things of money, property, etc. Certainly they can't make happy companions. Without sentiment the heart becomes cold and hard.

Be assured that sentiment is by no means a useless thing. It is a very necessary thing. Sentiment is the poetry that mingles with and makes colorful the prose of everyday life. Sentiment makes much easier the prosaic, practical phase of life. The man who has a heart that responds to the tender and the beautiful is the man BEST prepared for life's sterner duties.

Sentiment is not weakness; sentiment is power. Sentiment is inspiration. It is the motivating impulse that lies back of the noblest deeds of self-sacrifice and love. The finest and most useful things ever done in the world have been inspired by sentimental motive.

People who speak disparagingly of sentiment little understand its value and meaning; and do but display their own unfitness for larger living and service. The "alabaster box," to those who KNOW, is 'very precious' indeed. Do not lose the implication of this sermon. If we would be seized of the foundation sentiment underlying all real worth-while life and achievement, we must be seized by the Spirit of the Christ, the Saviour of men! Christian living is the only real living!

Where do you go to Church? You, Father; and you, Mother; and you, Daughter; and you, Son? Where do you go to Church? In what Young People's societies, Parents, are your young folks finding the very best preparation for real living? In what Church, Young People, are your Parents setting you a proper example of good citizenship and helpful service? Get together on this matter, and if you have not now a Church home, come and worship with us. We invite you to our Bible School and all the services of this Church. For the coming Lord's Day the sermon topics are: For the morning, "Bringing in the Sheaves." For the evening, "Heavenly Dew."

thought the Jews in large part, in Jesus' day, and many others since then. But Jesus pointed out in the Sermon on the Mount that there is a higher righteousness than this, one that touches the inner spirit, that is back of all deeds. Religion is ritual, says another; it is per-secuted long ago. Against them Isaiah declared that Jehovah wished not sacrifice and prayers and songs but justice and mercy toward men and Micah spoke his immortal words: What doth Jehovah require of thee, but to do justly, and to love kindness and to walk humbly with thy God?

Not a few in our day would make it simply a matter of correct conduct without any reference to God. Jesus' answer reaches deep. Religion is not a form, a deed, a belief; it is an inner spirit and attitude which Jesus calls love. It means humble, reverent, devoted surrender to God, the giving of ourselves in heart and mind and will. Religion itself is the spirit and attitude that lies back of all the expressions of life.

You are welcome to all our services. The missionary picture to be given Sunday night is especially for the benefit of the children of the Vacation Bible School. Children and adults are alike invited.
