

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Green Have 25th Anniversary

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Green in this city was the scene of a very pleasant party Saturday evening, the occasion being the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Green, who have made their residence in this city during the greater portion of the past quarter century. A large number of the guests were friends whom Mr. and Mrs. Green made upon their arrival at Heppner; and these, with later additions to the friendship list made up a company that enjoyed a lively evening.

At the proper time, S. E. Notson was called upon to make some remarks, in the course of which he extended the congratulations of the guests to Mr. and Mrs. Green on this, their silver wedding anniversary, and then presented them with a gift, a silver trimmed casserole, on behalf of the company present. Other gifts, suitable to the occasion, were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Becket of Eight Mile and the children of the family. Interesting games were played and refreshments of ice cream and cake served, a large angel food cake being the center of attraction as the wedding cake. As a feature of the entertainment, Mrs. Green related the interesting experiences of herself and Mr. Green when they left their homes in Virginia and proceeded to Kentucky's Gretna Green where the ceremony was performed; as young folks, this appealed to them as a fitting climax to their romance.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Notson, Mr. and Mrs. Vawter Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Briggs, Mrs. Mattie Adkins, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Parker, Miss Margaret Notson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Becket, Rev. and Mrs. Glen P. White, Miss Gladys Reaney, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cox, Mrs. Frank Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Huston, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Parker, Mrs. Alice Adkins, A. L. Corbett, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Beamer, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Clark and daughter, Mrs. E. R. Rugg, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Huston, Mrs. L. F. perience in buying wallpaper had been entrusted with selecting a paper for her room. "See," she loved, as she held up a roll, "the lovely sprays of pink flowers. They will give such a warm glow to the room." But the older woman, who noticed the dull ground work said nothing.

"I'm so disappointed in my room," said the girl, after the work had been done some time. "I see it is the ground work in a wallpaper that gives the room its tone. The flowers are bright enough, but the ground-work is dull and gives a dismal shade to the room in spite of the bright flowers."

It is somewhat so in character as well. We may put on a bright smile for strangers, we may affect the gay tone, but it is the ground-work after all that gives color to life. If the heart is anchored with Christian hope, the ground-work will be bright, revealing an inner peace and trust in God. The life will shed a brightness of its own whether the gay flowers of pleasure be strewn over the surface or not.

We will be glad to see you at all our services.

SICK HEADS and Faint Hearts.
"The whole head is sick, and the whole heart faints." Is. 1-5.
"The whole head is sick." Mentally indisposed. Mentally lazy. A disease with which many are afflicted. They do not use their heads. Too many times they do not use their minds enough to think things thru. They never go so far as to look behind effects to discover causes. They do little meditating upon life and its problems. Therefore life becomes to them a bewilderment maze, and they become victims of all sorts of misconceptions, distorted views, strange and unscriptural doctrines and every fantasy that may drift along the road of life.

"The whole heart is faint." Courage is gone. Hope is gone. And there are many in this pathetic plight. They do not see any promise for the future. In their despair their hearts have failed them. They have become weak and cowardly in the presence of life's troubles and difficulties. They seemingly cannot brace themselves for even half a battle.

"The whole head is sick, and the whole heart is faint." A sick head always means a faint heart. If we would keep our hearts cheerful we must keep our heads clear. We must not yield to mental indolence. We must discipline ourselves to really think, and to think clearly and truly. Clearly and truly! How sad to hear a man who thinks he thinks, say: "I wish I could think as does so and so." When he has never made any effort to think along the lines in question, but only and always along lines directly opposite to those along which he says he "wishes" he could think. Of course the trouble with that man is that he has a "wishbone," when he really needs a backbone. Backbone enough for the courage to think and live along Christian lines. But many men who consider themselves mighty brave and "he-men," are arrant cowards when it comes to the matter of right thinking and right living. Then they are found with sick heads and faint hearts.

God help us to be really for once MANLY MEN; keeping our minds healthy and alert and our hearts courageous and brave in the face of sin. God help us to "gird up the loins of our minds; to be sober and hope to the end."

State College Specialists Coming for School 22nd

Anyone who is interested in the winter meat preservation question will want to keep in mind the date of September 22 when H. A. Lindgren, livestock extension field man of Oregon State college, will be in Heppner to give a demonstration of the best methods of slaughtering and caring for slaughtered mutton animals. With him will be Miss Claribel Nye, also of the state college, who will take up the problem where Mr. Lindgren leaves it off and explain and demonstrate efficient methods of preserving the meat. She will discuss and illustrate different methods of smoking, brining and canning the product.

Since farmers of the district have offered a large number of old ewes for relief work, members of the relief committees are planning to attend the two demonstrations and learn first-hand how to make practical use of the meat the animals will provide.

Definite announcement of the time and place will be made next week. Mr. Lindgren and Miss Nye will go from Heppner to Boardman where they will give similar demonstrations Sept. 23.

Boardman Delegation Seeks Aid From Court

C. G. Blayden, Chas. Goodwin and O. H. Warner composed a delegation appearing before the county court in session yesterday asking assistance from that body in helping care for the larger population of unemployed men which furnishes a real problem for the north end town. Blayden, justice of the peace, said the town had been unable to cope with the situation, and that residents were called upon constantly to feed the drifters at back doors.

Besides looking after the regular routine business the court authorized the clerk to write ferry operators across the Columbia in the north end of the county in regard to obtaining their licenses for the year.

OLD RECEIPT UNCOVERED.

An interesting old document was uncovered recently by Lee Cantwell, who has been visiting old friends here for more than a week from his mining diggings in the Greenhorn mountains. It is in the nature of a hand-written receipt issued his grandfather, M. Sprinkler, by E. J. Hopkins, clerk of the county court of Davis county, Mississippi, on June 24, 1867, sixty-five years ago. Sprinkler rode horseback 147 miles to attend court, crossing several ferries, for which he received $7.35, and attended court three days, receiving therefor $4.50. The receipt, well preserved, is written on ruled note paper bearing a British seal in blind embossing in the upper left hand corner.
