Editorial

Proper school spirit demands that you put the welfare of the school as a whole ahead of everything else.

The right spirit will make you cooperative, and it will teach you to sacrifice your own wishes for the common good. If you have it, you will go to a rally when you prefer going somewhere else. You will respect authority and obey the wishes of your principal and teachers. On the athletic field you will follow coach and captain.

Real school spirit demands applause for the good plays of the opposing team and sticking right with your own team when it is being badly beaten. If you can root for your own team with the score forty to nothing against you, you have school spirit.

School spirit is desirable; it is beneficial to all. It means everything to your school. Are you helping to keep up the school spirit? Let us remember, "He profits most who serves best."

Heppner 6-Pilot Rock 6

Heppner woke up in time to come back in the second half and tie the score in the game with Pilot Rock, played there Friday afternoon.

Both teams threatened in the first quarter but were unable to score. Heppner had the ball on Pilot Rock's 15-yard line at the end of the period.

Heppner lacked the punch to score giving the ball to the opponents on downs. After several minutes of play, Pilot Rock started a drive which resulted in the first score. Their try for point was futile and the score remained 6-0 until the last quarter. Gentry was substitute for Schwarz and threw passes that kept Pilot Rock worried throughout this period. C. Thomson, halfback, was on the receiving end of most of the passes and made several long gains.

The third quarter was hard fought but neither team was able to penetrate the opposing line for consistent gains.

Heppner had the ball almost constantly in the last quarter. The Irish passed and bucked the line to Pilot Rock's two yard line where they lost the ball on downs. L. Cowdrey, Heppner center, blocked Pilot Rock's punt on the one foot line and J. Furlong crossed the goal on the next play. Furlong's try for point was met by a swarm of tacklers and the score remained 6-6.

The lineup for Heppner was as follows: center, L. Cowdrey; guards, D. Cowdrey and Ayers; ends, Morgan and Phelan; halfbacks, Thomson and Schwarz; quarterback, Hanna; fullback, Furlong; substitutes, Gentry for Schwarz; Schwarz for Hanna.

Elaborate Rally Tonight

A rally given tonight will be led by the pep band and followed by an organized rooting group arranged in the form of the letter "H".

The rally will start at the post-office and march up the street to the intersection of Main and Willow streets. At the intersection the group that forms the letter "H" will gather around the pep band where a few pep yells and band numbers will be given.

The group will then go upon the hill behind the school where a committee composed of Bill Cochell, Bill Beckett and Floyd Jones has made the letters "H" for Heppner and "I" for Ione. Mr. Mabee and the manager will give talks.

The pep band will also be on the grandstand during the game.

Questionnaires Sent Out

Questionnaires were given out to the student body last Friday to get opinions on forming a booster club and also to see how many of the students attend the games and rallies. The committee appointed to work on forming the club and to revise the school yells is composed of Hazel Beymer, Francis Nickerson, Frances Rugg, June Anderson, Margaret Nelson, and their advisor, Miss Coopeck. Francis Nickerson announced that there would be a contest among the classes in writing new yells, which were requested to be shorter than those written in the past. A prize will be given to the class having the most accepted yells; also the writers of these yells will have the honor of getting their names printed after the yell in the school yell book.

Class Notes

A hurdle contest is being conducted in the first year typing classes, which requires that the first hurdle be finished before starting on the second and to accomplish this a certain rate and a minimum number of errors are set. Each hurdle which is advanced over has more requirements, thus giving everyone something for which to strive.

The Clothing II class is studying designs. They study the correct prints for the different types of personality and size. They are also analyzing the designs to see into which type, conventional, naturalistic, or geometric, the different materials fall. Each student is collecting fifty samples of material and testing them to see if they are wool, cotton, silk, linen, or a mixture.

The senior English class is pondering over Shakespeare's play, "Macbeth." It is being read in class with a different cast each day. Illuminating discussions are had over the Shakespearean characters and their motives.

The sophomore English class is having an intensive study of the short story as preparation to the writing of original ones.

Committees Are Appointed
The Heppner Home Ec club has been quite active in the last week though it was very recently organized. The executive committee, which consists of Viola Brown, Edna Jones, Della Ulrich, Beth Wright and Anabel Turner held a meeting last Thursday to decide upon dependable committees. The group came to what it believes to be a satisfactory conclusion which is: social committee, Adele Nickerson, Hazel Beymer, Lydia Ulrich, Dorris Allstott; program, Katherine McLaughlin, Irene Kilkenny, Gladys Cason, Marie Scrivner; historian, Esther Adams; custodian, Kathryn Healy; social service, Anabel Turner, Esther Adams, Marie Barlow. These committees will begin their duties immediately. Another meeting was held last Tuesday at 3:30. The girls decided to handle a banquet for the football boys later on.

Bulletin Board Attracts
The bulletin board in Miss Palmiter's domestic arts room now has on it examples of natural and conventional design for interior decorating. The board is about six feet wide and four feet high, and hangs on the wall between the two east windows. On the lower corners are typewritten sheets which are the rules and regulations of the domestic art class. Next to them on the lower half of the board are color schemes and house fabrics. In the center is the placard which states the purpose of the pictures on the board; above it are the pictures of rose-buds which illustrate natural design. On the upper corners are examples of conventional design. Beneath the bulletin is arranged a window box with growing flowers in it.

Skull Attends Hallowe'en Meeting
Benzene Ring, the chemistry club, held its regular meeting Monday evening. Four members were present besides Mr. Lumley, the leader, and Oswald, a skull, the unofficial mascot of the club. Some nitrogen iodide was mixed very carefully, and a rheostat with a jar of salt water was assembled. Club pins were discussed but no action was taken on them. Many odors, some none too agreeable, filled the room during the meeting.

Much Business Transacted
To decide on a weiner roast and to discuss class pins and rings and to appoint a committee to write school songs and yells, the junior class met last Thursday at 3:30 in room 5. It was decided to let the
