of clover with native pasture by the college showed that lambs being finished gained 39 per cent more on clover than those on native sod.

"Another test made by the experiment station was with a bunch of thin lambs fed during the summer. Some were fed in the dry lot, some were fed grain and sown-sod pasture, and some were run on rape and received no grain.

The lambs running on the rape with no grain far outperformed the other lambs. Those fed grain in the dry lot made the poorest gains, Nelson explained.

laxation to which the victorious are inclined to yield themselves following the strain of battle—a state in which they become easy victims of all sorts of temptations.

And so, following our Jordan experiences, when the heavens are opened unto us, we are often led into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. It is in the high moments of life that men need particularly to be on their guard against the peril of their victories!

Jesus defeated the tempter thru the power of the Spirit; and thru the Word, the sword of the Spirit. Both of these great preparations for every time of temptation are ours, if we will accept them and use them!

Again we enter the month when this nation takes note of the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington. One has been known as the father of his country and the other as its preserver.

Washington led the way through those trying, testing, battling days when the nation was born. Lincoln endured the fearful strain when the foundations were violently attacked from within.

The suffering of both men was terrible, well nigh immeasurable. Both these men were guided by unchanging principles rather than by the fads of the time.

They belonged to that company of strong men who appear through the ages, who believe that there are two things which greatly affect the thoughts, actions and influence of men.

When conflict arises between opinion and principle, opinion must go to the wall and principle must be obeyed. Human leaders have been divided into two classes, those who followed principle and prevailed; those who followed opinion and failed.

These two men eminently belonged to the first class. In our present time there is a great tendency to follow opinion, and already great crashes and clashes have followed.

Both Washington and Lincoln were Christian men. Their principles rested back in the person and teachings of Christ. There are many lessons for our time from both men. We will do well to take heed at this time to the lives of these great men.

A hearty welcome awaits you at all our services.

"If" Kipling Had Written It Like This!

"If you can see what some folk call 'depression' As nothing but a spin of Fortune's wheel; If you can keep your poise and self-possession No matter what you think or how you feel; If you can view a stupid situation All cluttered up with 'ifs' and 'aws' and 'buts'— And take it at its proper valuation— A challenge to your common sense and 'guts'."

If you can rise above the mess and muddle. If you can glimpse a rainbow through the clouds. When Doubt and Dread and Fear are in a huddle. And Hope is being measured for a shroud; If you can keep a saving sense of humor; If you can disregard Report and Rumor. And not accept a statement as a fact; If you can spread the gospel of successes.

If you can stir the spirit that instills The latent life in lathes and looms and presses. And get the steam above a thousand mills; If, briefly, you can spend an extra dollar; If you can pry the sacred Roll apart And buy another shirt or shoe or collar And act as if it didn't break your heart;

If you have faith in those with whom you labor. And trust in those with whom you make a trade; If you believe in friend and next door neighbor. And heed examples pioneers have made;

If you expect the sun to rise tomorrow; If you are sure that somewhere skies Wake up and pack away the futile sorrow. For better days are largely up to YOU! —Author Unknown.

Depression Adds to Work Of Oregon County Agents

There is no six-hour day or five-day week in the business of Oregon county agents judging from the volume of work they were called upon to do during the past 12 months as shown in the annual report of the county agent leader, F. L. Ballard of Corvallis.

Depression years seem to increase the demands made by farmers on the agents, the statistics show. In 29 counties maintaining agents last year, farmers made 80,733 personal calls at the agent's offices, an increase of more than 5000 calls or better than 7 per cent over the year previous.

Both Washington and Lincoln were Christian men. Their principles rested back in the person and teachings of Christ. There are many lessons for our time from both men. We will do well to take heed at this time to the lives of these great men.
