

Local Happenings

Mark King, former Heppner boy, who has been located at Los Angeles for a number of years, where he is engaged as a musician with Paramount Producers, has been fortunately situated. His mother, Mrs. Leta King, has just returned from visiting him at Hollywood and reports that he has done well financially and knows nothing about the depression. He and his wife have just completed a beautiful home in the Hollywood hills. Mark is a solo trombonist in the Paramount orchestra and can be heard frequently over the radio, "The Voice of Hollywood." Mrs. King was in southern California at the time of the recent earthquake disturbances, but felt little of the effects at Hollywood.

Mrs. Leta King of Portland, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. James Wells, spent Wednesday in the city. Mr. and Mrs. Wells are remaining here for a short time while Mr. Wells, who is a painter, brightens up the Luper residence. Returning to Portland today, Mrs. King was accompanied by her father, James Luper, who has been spending several months at Heppner.

Up Hinton creek the alfalfa fields are coming along fine with the advent of warmer weather, and there appears to be no evidence that any of the ranchers have suffered loss from winter killing. Water for irrigation purposes has been sufficient for wetting up the fields quite well, so a good yield is in prospect for the coming season.

Frank Harwood, formerly located at Heppner in the jewelry business, was issued a license to wed at Grants Pass, Oregon, on Saturday, April 1st, the lady of his choice being Aecia Moore, a stenographer of Portland. They were later married in the southern Oregon city, where Mr. Harwood has been located since 1929.

Since warmer days and nights have arrived, the range conditions are improving on Butter creek, reports Walter Luckman, who was in town on Wednesday. He further states that there was no killing of alfalfa in his section as that part of the country was covered with snow during the December cold snap.

Mr. and Mrs. Vawter Crawford motored to Stanfield Friday afternoon, where they visited over night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Spencer. On Saturday, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Spencer, they visited in Pendleton with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cooley, returning home Saturday evening.

Some eighteen members of the Endeavor society of the Christian church were in attendance at a district meeting in Pendleton Saturday afternoon and evening. Pastor Benton accompanied the delegation and also attended the sessions which were held in the Christian church.

Clinton C. Gilliam arrived early Monday morning from his home at San Jose, Calif., in answer to word that his father, Frank Gilliam, was seriously ill. He was met at Arlington by Chas. Vaughn and Mrs. Earl Gilliam, but arrived just shortly after his father had passed away.

Mrs. John W. Hiatt and daughter, Miss Doris, motored to Walla Walla on Tuesday afternoon, where they are spending the remainder of the week visiting with relatives. They were accompanied by Owen French who was called to the Washington city on matters of business.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Barratt returned from Portland on Sunday, having spent several days during the past week in the city. Mr. Barratt reports his father holding his own, but no promise of any permanent improvement.

The farm home of Pat Curran near Alpine was destroyed by fire Tuesday morning of last week, everything burning except a few minor belongings. No further particulars were given in a note received by this paper.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Keithley of Pendleton were in Heppner Wednesday, coming over for the funeral services of Mrs. Keithley's cousin, the late Frank Gilliam. They returned home immediately following the burial.

Grant Olden was a visitor in the city Saturday from his home on Rhea creek. He reported warmer weather conditions on the creek and it was having beneficial effects on vegetation.

T. J. Mahoney and son Thomas drove up from Portland on Wednesday to be in attendance at the funeral of Frank Gilliam. They returned to the city following the services.

Mrs. George Moore and Mrs. Olie Neill were in the city Wednesday from Pine City. They report much better weather conditions on Butter creek.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Becket were visiting during the past week with their relatives at Eight Mile, driving up from their home at Portland.

Judge Calvin L. Sweet and Wilson F. Brock were over from Pendleton Wednesday afternoon to attend the funeral of Frank Gilliam.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Amort of Portland were week end visitors at the home of Mrs. Rebecca Patterson, aunt of Mrs. Amort, in this city.

EDITORIAL

Many of the high school students have been neglecting to show their thoughtfulness and friendship to others who are sick and unable to attend school and enjoy the spring sunshine. Why not go and spend a few minutes a day chatting and talking to relieve the monotony?

Spring fever has got into the bones and minds of most of the students and they are beginning to slacken up in their school work, counting the days until the long awaited April 15. Remember though that school life isn't half so bad as the life two of the boys of school are leading lying in bed these beautiful spring days.

Do you enjoy the Friday afternoon programs? If you do you will surely enjoy the out of school functions sponsored by it.

Loyalty to the school should come before your other activities. You should feel that you ought to put school first above all. It needs the support to keep it financially above board.

Lets put school functions first.

Teachers to La Grande.

A meeting for teachers of north-eastern Oregon held in La Grande last Saturday was very successful. Most of the Heppner teachers were in attendance. There were several prominent men on the program: Dr. Jewell, dean of education of Oregon; Mr. Howard, state superintendent of schools; Mr. Link, president of Eastern Oregon Normal school. This meeting was enlarged to include grade and high school teachers, being formerly for principals and superintendents only.

Juniors Show Radio Talent.

Anson Rugg gave the assembly a great big surprise last Friday during the Junior radio program. Anson was the most reverend Mr. Hang Nails—can you imagine it? He sent out a most urgent call for the ladies to all attend the egg shower on Mrs. Cattleberry and added that "the ladies will meet Monday and lay eggs in the vestibule."

Roy Gentry made his appearance in a wheel chair and the announcer, Francis Nickerson, told the audience that they were looking on the haggard countenance of Professor All-But-Gone (as if the audience couldn't see that), eminent physical culture expert. The professor led his radio fans in a group of setting, up exercises that made "of me the man I am today." This statement was followed by violent coughing which left doubt in several minds as to the prof's physical well being.

The local Eddie Cantor, Marvin Morgan (we want Cantor); Bing Crosby, who being absent was substituted by Francis Nickerson; and Rudy Vallee, Matt Kenny, sang "We Ate the Boloney."

Then Paul "Shooty" Phelan came out on the platform and was introduced as the Baron Munchausen.

The Baron told a story of a man who had accidentally killed his little dog Fido; so he skinned the dog and gave it to a neighbor, whom he disliked very much, saying that the dog was a possum. The neighbor and his wife decided to go to the country for a few days, and not wishing the possum to spoil, they gave it to Aunt Chloe, a colored mammy, who had a reputation as being a wonderful cook. Mr. Brown was attracted by the smell of possum and sweet taters as he walked home that night so he stepped in and had supper with Aunt Chloe. When he had gorged and gorged he asked Aunt Chloe where she got such a fine fat possum and upon finding out it was his dear departed Fido, poor Mr. Brown stumbled outside, and leaning weakly against the door, gasped: "Fido, Fido, I have called you many times but this is once you are coming without calling."

"And now little Hoty Toties you are going to hear your own dear Uncle John (Billy Thomson)." Uncle John, famous bedtime story teller came out to the mike with a bathrobe on and a lighted candle in his hand and an unearthly grin on his face.

His story was something like this: "And the wolves jumped at little Red Riding Hood and they tore off a leg, and they tore off the other leg, and they pulled off an arm, and they pulled off the other arm, and they bit off her head, and they chewed her body into bits, and there lay poor little Red Riding Hood, just one mess of flesh and blood and bones all gory. Good night, little Hoty Toties, I hope you sleep well tonight."

Prominent Local Man Speaks.

J. O. Turner gave a very interesting talk to the Civic Sociology class last Friday. He explained how bills and measures were introduced into the state's legislative body, and all the procedures they went through before they became a law.

The civic sociology class was formerly the civics class.

Band Concert Self-Supporting.

A band concert, under direction of Harold Buhman, was held in the auditorium last Friday night. There was a fair turn-out, and fifty dollars was taken in which will be used to pay outstanding debts. It was an excellent program. Much credit is due Mr. Buhman for his efficient and untiring work in bringing these students up to the high degree of proficiency which they have attained.

Have We a Zoo?

The assembly is getting to be quite a game refuge. About two weeks ago a magpie visited the school. Last Thursday a very much bewildered and friendly black and white puppy was escorted up the steps and into the assembly by some of the students. The puppy took an instant liking to Reese Burkenbine who petted him and treated him royally. Then Jimmie Furlong loomed on the horizon in the form of a "booster;" he got the puppy by the neck and ushered him outside much to the amusement of the students and the assembly teacher.

Grade News

PINE CITY

By OLETA NEILL

Some of the Pine City band members attended the orchestra practice at the Fredrickson home in Stanfield Monday evening.

The car Mr. Matthews of Walla Walla and Mr. and Mrs. James Omohundro were in tipped over near Lexington one day last week when a tire went flat. Mr. Matthews got his thumb hurt, otherwise none of them was injured. The windows and top of the car were broken.

A miscellaneous shower is to be given for Mr. and Mrs. Pat Curran, whose house burned last week, at Bernard Doherty's Saturday evening.

A group of Pine city boys met at the baseball diamond on the hill west of the schoolhouse Sunday to practice.

The Farm Bureau meeting at Alpine was attended by a few Pine City folks. The young people from Pine City to help furnish the program were: Miss Audrey Moore, monologue; Miss Marie Healy and Lenna Neill, song; Miss Naomi Moore, monologue; Miss Oleta Neill, song; Misses Lila Bartholomew, Neva Neill, Marie Healy, Oleta and Lenna Neill, a three act skit, representing an old time movie.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Michel and daughters motored to Ione Sunday. Church was held at the Pine City auditorium Sunday evening.

Ralph Moore, who has been working on the Roy Neill ranch, left Sunday evening for Portland.

Clarence Neill was struck on the head by a horse a week ago Sunday while visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. Charlie Plourd, near Pendleton. Not thinking the injury was serious he did not go to a physician until Tuesday, when an x-ray showed a fracture of his skull of about 3 inches. He has been confined to his bed but is improving.

The skit presented at Alpine Farm Bureau meeting by the Misses Lila

Bartholomew, Neva Neill, Marie Healy, Oleta and Lenna Neill will be presented at the Pine City auditorium after band practice Friday evening for the benefit of those who were unable to attend Farm Bureau.

Lois Jean Neill is visiting at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Moore.

CARD OF THANKS.

To our neighbors and friends we extend our sincere thanks and appreciation for their aid and sympathy extended to us in our recent bereavement of husband and father; and for the many floral offerings.
