business will be developed in Heppner in the near future to make rail transportation service pay—at reasonable rates.

Railroads pay heavily into the county tax coffers besides employing many people. How far our people are jeopardizing their own interests by driving heavy loads onto state supported highways is also worth considering.

Heppner people look for increased business with completion of the Heppner-Spray road, good news concerning which was received this week from Commissioner Aldrich.

A large body of Ponderosa pine timber will be opened up, leases of which are anxious to start cutting. It would open up more hauling business for which transportation companies may compete.

"Pussyfoot" Johnson, noted prohibition worker, will speak at the Christian church tonight; did not speak Tuesday evening as announced last week. A militant worker in the dry cause, he has touched elbows with the high and the low in many parts of the world; has a message worth hearing by everyone.

How far the ramifications of high finance have reached into the affairs of national government may be a source of consternation to many right thinking people. The revelation is now taking place in the senatorial investigation of the business of J. P. Morgan & Co. As the prodigs deeper it uncovers the names of more and more men in high office who have been entangled in the maze. Political faith apparently disintegrates no whit against the evils of riches, nor provides an escape from scrutinizing justice.

Permanent Faithfulness. "Thy faithfulness shall Thou establish in the very heavens." Psalm 89-2. Men are not long in discovering how frail is human faithfulness.

We make the best investments we can, and comparatively speaking, they soon become worthless. We build fine houses and they crumble into dust. We buy costly raiment and the moths consume it. Even some of the friendships we thought immutable prove treacherous.

But there is a faithfulness that is permanent, and upon which we can rely. It is not founded on the passing earth, but it has its foundations in the changeless heavens. It is not established by man, who is here today and gone tomorrow, but it is established by God, who is the same yesterday, today and forever; changeless and eternally permanent in His entity; in His great love and providential planning for humanity.

In these shifting times it is good to look away from the varying values and revolutionary changes of human institutions to these firm establishments of God. Fixing our hopes and our aspirations upon them we are saved not only from endless anxieties and uncertainties, but also from eternal death to everlasting life.

You are invited to participate in our services of worship if you have not a church home. On next Friday, June 9th, in the parlors of the Church of Christ, there will be held a "Father and Son Banquet." A fine musical program will be presented and Judge Calvin Sweek will bring the address of the evening.

I knelt to pray when day was done, And prayed, "O Lord, bless everyone; Lift from each Saddened heart the pain, And let the sick be well again."

And then I woke another day And carelessly went on my way. The whole day long I did not try To wipe a tear from any eye; I did not try to share the load Of any brother on my road, I did not even go to see The sick man just next door to me. Yet once again when day was done I prayed, "O Lord, bless everyone." But as I prayed, in my ear There came a voice that whispered clear: "Pause, hypocrite, before you pray, Whom have you tried to bless to-day? God's sweetest blessings always go By hands that serve Him here below."

And then I hid my face and cried: "Forgive me, God, for I have lied; Let me but see another day And I will live the way I pray." —Montgomery. A welcome awaits you of all our services.

Oregon Districts Mapped Under National Farm Act

A suggested division of Oregon into six districts for purposes of administering the new federal farm act, and recommendations as to possible substitute crops for this state in case acreage reduction of surplus commodities is decided upon, have been submitted to Washington authorities at their request by Paul V. Maris, director of agricultural extension at Oregon State college.

The six natural divisions into which Oregon divides by reason of crop and climatic similarity are the Willamette valley south to the Lane-Douglas line; southern Oregon including Douglas, Josephine and Jackson counties; the coast and lower Columbia, including Curry, Coos, western Lane, Lincoln, Tillamook, Clatsop and Columbia counties; Columbia basin, including Hood River, Wasco, Jefferson, Sherman, Gilliam and Morrow counties; Blue Mountain, including Umatilla, Union, Wallowa, Baker and Malheur; and central Oregon, including Deschutes, Crook, Wheeler, Grant, Klamath, Lake and Harney counties.

Production studies made by L. R. Breithaupt, extension economist, as regards wheat and dairy products, the two commodities in the farm act of most vital concern to Oregon, show that the Columbia basin district produces 47 per cent of the wheat, the Blue mountain 36 per cent and the Willamette valley 14 per cent. Wheat production in the other districts is negligible.

As to dairy cattle numbers, the Willamette valley leads with 43 per cent, the Coast and lower Columbia has 18 per cent, and the Blue mountain 17 per cent. The other districts range from 6 to 9 per cent.

Specialists in the various agricultural enterprises at the college conferred as to possible substitute crops to be recommended in the event of acreage reduction under the farm act and agreed that the greatest difficulty will be in finding anything to use on such a large scale in the dry-land wheat district of the Columbia basin. Some of this land might ultimately be made into range and farm pastures by planting created wheat grass or bulbous blue grass, it was felt, but it would take several years to accumulate a seed supply large enough to go very far.

It found desirable to reduce wheat acreage in the Willamette valley through voluntary agreement with producers, it was recommended by the specialists that much of the land taken out of wheat could well go into a number of substitute crops, particularly alfalfa, clover, vetches and possibly field peas.

No hint as to how the dairy adjustment is to be handled aside from through marketing agreements has been received in Oregon, but even if decrease in dairy cattle numbers is attempted, no reduction in forage acreage this year would be justified in this state, Washington officials have been told, because
