Voters Pamphlet Lists 10 Measures Up July 21

While the sales tax and prohibition repeal are holding the center of attention in the coming July 21 special state election, the voters' pamphlet just issued from the secretary of state's office lists ten measures that will be up for decision of the electorate. They are:

1-Adoption or rejection of twenty-first amendment to the federal constitution, which will, if adopted by three-fourths of the states, repeal the eighteenth amendment.

2-The sales tax law, enacted by the 1933 legislature and referred by it to the people for final action.

3-A state constitutional amendment providing that payment of cash bonuses to war veterans shall cease after June 30, 1938, and authorizes the issuance of refunding bonds to pay cash bonuses and loans.

4-A state constitutional amendment paving the way for the managerial form of government for Oregon counties, by authorizing counties to submit questions to the voters.

5-A state constitutional amendment providing for a change in grand jury procedure by authorizing accused persons to waive investigation by grand jury and stand trial on information filed by district attorney, except for capital crimes.

6-A state constitutional amendment providing for a two-thirds vote for approval of bond issues and authorizing the legislature to restrict the taxing powers of municipal subdivisions.

7-Approval or rejection of a proposed $103,000 bond issue for the state power commission to use in surveying the state's power resources and in making a study of possible market for electrical energy.

8-Referendum on the oleomargarine tax law enacted by the last legislature, placing a tax of four cents a pound on all oleomargarine sold in Oregon.

9-Referendum on the legislative act creating the new state power commission, authorized by the last legislature to carry out the provisions of the state grange power amendment.

10-Repeal of the remaining state prohibition laws already made ineffective when the voters abrogated the enforcement clause of these statutes.

OLD DRIVERS MUST GET NEW LICENSES

New Law Requires Obtainment by September 1; 300,000 Expected By Hoss to be Issued.

Three hundred thousand Oregon motorists must obtain renewal licenses before September 1, the first day on which the law requires every motor vehicle operator to have a new-type permit, according to Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state.

This great number, approximately three-quarters of the drivers in the state, may occasion a rush for permits such as swamped the examination stations during the last few days preceding June 9, when the motor vehicle laws raised the cost of permits from 50c to $1. "In the short time from May 1, up to and including June 8, 75,384 persons were examined," Mr. Hoss declared.

"The magnitude of this task may be seen by comparison with the 22-month period between July 1, 1931, and May 1, 1933, when only 21,816 drivers were examined. On June 8, this year 6000 persons were given examinations, with applicants in some localities being taken care of until midnight. Such a congested condition will recur in the weeks just preceding September 1," the secretary of state pointed out, "unless drivers arrange immediately for renewals."

Authority has been given by the legislature to waive examination of renewal applicants, except for those 70 years of age and older, or when, because of obvious physical impairments or a questionable driving record, there is reason to believe that an applicant may not be qualified to operate a car in a safe manner. Holders of new-type drivers' licenses and renewals issued since July 1, 1931, need not renew their permits until June 30, 1935, regardless of the expiration date they bear.

In order to obtain a renewal permit, Mr. Hoss warned, it will not be sufficient merely to mail a dollar. The applicant must obtain the regulation application form either by mail from the secretary of state's office in Salem, or from state police, county sheriffs, or examiners. This must be filled out and signed before a notary public or one of the official examiners, all of whom have notaries' commissions, or other persons qualified to administer oaths. State examiners will affix the notary seal free of charge.

An examiner may be located by referring to the printed schedules which may be secured from the secretary of state's office, state police, or sheriffs.

REPORT SHOWS ATTENDANCE

School attendance figures in Morrow county for the last year were compiled in the office of Mrs. Lucy E. Rodgers, superintendent, this week, to be included in her annual report. Pupils enrolled in the grade schools of the county for the year totaled 863; those in high school 317, making a grand total of 1183. The average number of days taught was 165. The average daily attendance in the grades was 754.5; in high school, 295.2. Percentage of attendance for the grades, 96.3; high school, 95.4. There were 717 tardinesses reported in the grades; 642 in the high school. Seventy-three grade school pupils were neither absent nor tardy, while there were nine in high school with this record. Gooseberry district had the highest percentage of attendance, 98.7, with Rocky Bluff, 98.6, next.

IONE SCHOOL RECOGNIZED.

Ione high school is included in the list of standard high schools in Morrow county eligible to receive non-high school district pupils, according to word received this week from the state superintendent by Mrs. Lucy E. Rodgers, county school superintendent. Heppner high school was previously announced as being the only standard high school so qualified. Lexington high school is arranging to comply with requirements for standardization, Mrs. Rodgers said.

21 RECEIVE CERTIFICATES.

Of 500 reading certificates issued in 1933 to members of the Oregon Children's Book League sponsored by the Oregon state library, 21 were given pupils of Morrow county schools. All the pupils in Rocky Bluff school with an enrollment of six, and all in Golden West school, with seven, qualified for certificates, earning school certificates for these schools. The other eight certificates were issued to pupils of the Matteson school, according to a report received from the state library by Mrs. Lucy E. Rodgers, county school superintendent.

Murray Warner Museum Now Open at University

Eugene, June 27.—People of Oregon through whose generosity the massive museum of art was erected on the University of Oregon campus, now have the opportunity of inspecting daily the contents of the building, the Murray Warner collection of oriental art, it is announced by Mrs. Murray Warner, donor of the collection and director of the museum.

Many of the rarest treasures in the Warner collection may be seen by the public for the first time, since never before has there been space or facilities for showing them. The Warner collection is regarded as one of the finest of its kind in the entire country.

Mrs. Warner has made the gift to the university in memory of her husband, Major Murray Warner. From 1890 to 1909 Major and Mrs. Warner live in China, where Major Warner befriended hundreds of Chinese and took a keen interest in oriental art.

The building, a massive brick structure erected at a cost of $200,000, was the gift of the people of the state. It was constructed without windows, so that no daylight could ever strike the delicate fabrics of the priceless objects it houses. A remarkable system of lighting simulates daylight.

The most interesting exhibit, Mrs. Warner believes, is the impressive "throne room." At either end of this room will be found a throne, backed by rare and delicate screens, with rare old rugs for floor coverings. Around the walls of this room are court costumes, coats and gowns into which gold threads and colorful designs have been woven with rare skill.

On the lower floor probably the most interesting display is a group of objects which were created in clay by the hand of man before the Christian era. These depict strange men, horses and other objects. The trappings of gold have been heavily encrusted with patina.

Across the hall are other cabinets housing figures similar, but not so ancient. The public is transported back 300 years in another room, as it looks through a

Another more whimsical display is that of nine hand embroideries, called "one-hundred children," on a rich background of red satin.

LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. John Anglin and daughter Rachel and Harlan Devin motored to Walla Walla Sunday to attend a banquet and convention to organize a combination social and insurance benefit lodge among the Safeway organization employees. While this organization is coast to coast wide among the Safeway employees, the plan had not reached this district which includes more than 50 employees. Mr. Anglin of the local MacMarr store was elected vice president for the district. Mrs. Harlan Devin and sons Glen and Boyd accompanied the party as far as Pendleton where they visited Mrs. Devin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hlatt.

Henry Peterson was in the city yesterday from the Eight Mile farm. He predicts a very short crop in that section, with grain badly pinched. A good rain would help the grain to fill and better the quality, he believed.

Mrs. Wilson Brock, sister of Mrs. Josephine Jones, and Mrs. Cora Phelps have returned to their homes in Pendleton after visiting for several days at the home of Mrs. Jones in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Vawter Crawford left this morning for Prineville for a visit at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Leonard Schwarz.
