JAY HIATT KILLED IN TRUCK MISHAP

Native Son, Young Legionnaire, Honored by Rites Today.

SLEEP CRASH CAUSE

Wall of Bridge Two Miles West of The Dalles Hit on Return From Portland With Freight.

F. Jay Hiatt, local truck operator and farmer, a native son of Morrow county, was instantly killed about 2 o'clock Tuesday morning when his truck crashed into the wall of a concrete bridge two miles west of The Dalles. He was returning from Portland with a load of freight, having gone to the city Sunday night with a load of livestock. With him was Ted McDaid who escaped with minor injuries when he was thrown from the cab. Funeral services have been announced for 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Christian church in charge of Heppner post 87, American Legion, of which Mr. Hiatt was a member, with Joel R. Benton officiating. Interment will follow in Masonic cemetery.

The accident is believed to have been caused by Hiatt's dozing at the wheel. As they approached the bridge, McDaid noticed that the truck was headed for the side wall and spoke to Hiatt who apparently came to himself enough to pull the truck over in the right direction, but it didn't quite clear. The end of the bumper on the right side was shorn off, a big gash was cut in the right front tire and the wheel and fender were bent beneath the truck, then as the projection of the bed caught on the concrete wall the full weight of the load was shifted forward against the driver's side, crushing Hiatt against the wheel. The top of the cab was bent over against the hood, while all the glass was shattered except that in the door on McDaid's side. This door was sprung open and McDaid was thrown out on his hands and knees. The rate of speed of the truck was given at 35 miles an hour.

On coming to himself McDaid at first thought the truck to be on fire as he noticed what appeared to be smoke coming from under the hood. He immediately got the fire extinguisher, but found the smoke to be steam caused by water dripping on the hot manifold. He then attempted to arouse Hiatt who was tightly pinned inside, lifeless. McDaid then went to a neighboring farm house and called a wrecker and the sheriff from The Dalles.

Immediately on receipt of news at Heppner, John Hiatt, brother, and a number of friends drove to the scene of the accident. John Anglin, local MacMarr store manager, who had freight on the truck, also drove down. The body was brought to Heppner Tuesday evening by the Case Mortuary ambulance. Slight damage was done to the truck and load fully covered by insurance.

Francis Jay Hiatt was born on the home ranch five miles west of Heppner, April 2, 1895, to Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hiatt, pioneer residents of the county, being aged 38 years, 6 months and 22 days. He attended country school and grew to young manhood in this county. When the United States entered the World war he was among the first to enlist from this county, joining Battery A, 147th Field Artillery. He was stationed first for three months at Camp Chickamas, was then transferred to Camp Mills, N. J., and was overseas for 21 months, remaining until after the signing of the armistice. On arriving in France he was suffering from an illness which kept him confined to a hospital for four months. On recuperating he was retained behind the lines to help train new recruits, being stationed at Bordeaux, which was his occupation until the armistice.

After being honorably discharged from the service, he returned to Morrow county and followed farming for a time on Butter creek in partnership with Verne Pearson, then on Rhea creek and in Sanford canyon on what is known as the old Ruck place, the present family home. During his farming operations he was one of the largest turkey operators in the county and was quite successful in this venture. He had operated the commercial trucking business for the last three years.

He married Miss Lucille Armstrong on March 7, 1921, at Castle Rock, Wash., and to this union was born one child, Dorothy, now aged eight years. Besides his widow and daughter, he is survived by four brothers, Ellis, John and Delbert of Heppner, and Emory of San Francisco, Cal., and two sisters, Mrs. Owen French of Heppner and Mrs. Chris Cook of Seaside, Ore. All were expected to be present for the funeral services excepting Emory who was prevented from attending.

In his long residence here, Mr. Hiatt attained a reputation in industry and ambition. He was honest and conscientious; thoughtful of his family and friends, who were legion. The entire community extends its sympathy to the bereft family.

Locals Take Arlington For Fifth Straight Win

Led by the beautiful broken field running of Floyd Jones and the pivoting and twisting of Cleo Hiatt and Louis Gilliam in line plunges, Heppner high school's "Fighting Irish" eleven won their fifth consecutive victory of the season when they defeated the speedy Arlington grid-derers 44-7 on the local field Friday. Heppner played a fast game with Matt Kenny and Harold Ayers captain, doing good work in the line. Running more than thirty yards on each run, Floyd Jones, left halfback, netted four of the seven touchdowns besides a try for point. Arlington scored in the fourth quarter on a completed pass. Using a double-wing-back formation enabled Arlington to fake trick plays which kept the Irish on special guard whenever the visitors got the ball. The game was refereed by Harold W. Buhman.

The starting line-up of both teams follows:

Heppner	Arlington
D. Drake	RE	Doos
Reid	RT	Woods
Kenny	RG	Mead
Ayers	C	Wetherall
Burkenbine	LG	Drake
Dick	LT	C. Newell
C. Phelan	LE	Hollenbeck
Gilliam	RH	McKinney
Jones	LH	B. Newell
Morgan	Q	Gray
Hiatt	F	Taylor

Heppner substitutes: Thomson, Nickerson, Christenson, R. Drake, Furlong, Munkers, Gilman, Cochell and Green.

The Irish are working hard this week in preparation for the tough game with the hard fighting Hermiton team which will be played on the home field Friday.

Mrs. Charles Clark Hurt When Car Rolls Down Hill

Mrs. Charles Clark sustained a broken arm and severe bruises as the result of a car accident here Tuesday. In company with Bud Ayers she had just called at the home of Henry Robertson on the hill on South Main street. She was sitting in the car and Ayers was preparing to crank it when she was asked to throw the gears into neutral, but by mistake they were placed in reverse, so that when Ayers turned the crank the car was started backward down the hill. Ayers made a jump to get in and stop it, but before he could do anything it rolled over down the grade, landing upside down on the highway below. Ayers escaped injury, while Mrs. Clark was taken to a local hospital for treatment. It is believed her injuries will not prove serious.

LOCAL NEWS

Heppner's granddaddy of hunters still clings to his laurels and is not yet ready to take off his hat to any of the younger generation when it comes to bagging his game. W. W. Smead, Heppner postmaster, who has passed the three score and ten mark, returned from the hunt yesterday with tags on a fine big elk and an equally fine buck deer, his full quota of these animals. He hunted out in the Morphine ranch country with Gene Ferguson, George McDuffee and Burl Coxen.

Sidney George, Oregon delegate to the national American Legion council, came through town yesterday in line with his work for the state industrial accident commission.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Case returned from Albany Tuesday evening, after attending funeral services for Mrs. Case's father.

Mr. and Mrs. Crockett Sprouls returned Monday from Baker where they went in answer to a summons to the bed of Mr. Sprouls' father, John Sprouls, who was ill at a hospital there.

Will Ball received word this week of the serious illness of his father, J. C. Ball, in Portland. At last reports, however, he was improving.

Emery Moore is reported among successful hunters who landed their elk this week.

Miss Myra Wells departed the first of the week for San Francisco. Miss Wells is a graduate nurse.

The Eastern Star meets in regular session Friday evening, Oct. 27, at 8 p. m. The ladies will bring dish towels and come prepared to help them after the close of the chapter, and the men will provide and serve the refreshments.

KOAC RETURNS TO GRIDIRON. Permission to broadcast the remainder of the home football games on the O. S. C. campus this year has been granted to KOAC, the state-owned station, by the Associated Oil company, which purchased the exclusive rights to all broadcasts of games this season in which coast conference teams participate. Under the new arrangement KOAC will broadcast the remaining campus game with W. S. C. Saturday, October 28, direct from the field at Corvallis in the usual manner. Later games of either the state college or the University of Oregon which are handled through KGW of Portland will be rebroadcast by KOAC just as announced from the playing fields.

Lexington School News

The second student body assembly on Thursday turned out to be quite a success. Laurel Beach sang two numbers, "Jolly Roger" and "Shortenin' Bread." The boys produced a playlet entitled "The Ladies Sewing Club Meets;" tables were completely reversed for once when the boys assumed the female roles and discussed their "operations." Those taking part were Lester McMillan, Kenneth Palmer, Kenneth Peck, Alfred Van Winkle and Garland Thompson. The skit was directed by Miss Hammel.

Not to be outdone in originality the girls gym class staged a football game. The opposing team was appropriately named Echo and Lexington's representation proceeded to run up a large score for their side.

The girls proved to be good prophets of the score but not of the victors as Friday's game resulted in a 27 to 6 victory for Echo. A number of Lexington students were on hand to root and the players though outwheeled gave a good account of themselves. The return game with Echo will be here this Friday, Oct. 27, and it is hoped that a good crowd will attend.

In the evening will be held the big musical event of the year, the Musical Melange, sponsored by the glee club. Prices will be 35, 25 and (Continued on Page Four)

PROCLAMATION

Another Halloween is at hand with its temptations to the youth to play practical jokes on the people of the community, but in so doing they are likely to overstep the bounds of safety and it is my duty as Mayor of Heppner to discourage any lawlessness on this night.

Therefore, I, Gay M. Anderson, Mayor of the City of Heppner, do hereby encourage any proper observance of Halloween and wish for the young people of the city a joyous time on this night; but the destruction, molestation or injury to any property will not be countenanced, and any offenders will be prosecuted. The blockading of streets or sidewalks is a serious offense and dangerous to human life and property and will not be tolerated. The destruction of property and its consequent replacement will work an extreme hardship during these depressing times. It is hereby ordered that any freeholder of the city is hereby given police authority with full power to arrest anyone found in willful violation of the city statutes or whose actions are of a suspicious nature on Halloween.

Issued this 25th day of October, 1933.

GAY M. ANDERSON, Mayor.

IONE

By MARGARET BLAKE

Mrs. A. A. McCabe was called to Lexington during the week to be with her daughter, Miss Jessie McCabe, who is quite ill.

J. B. Lasher, field man of the International Harvester company was a Monday visitor in Ione.

Zachery Lilly of La Grande was a weekend visitor at the Dale Ray home.

The Woman's Topic club met at the home of Mrs. Elmer Griffith last Saturday for its October social meeting. Four tables of bridge were at play during the afternoon. High score was won by Miss Norma Swanson and low by Mrs. Earl Blake. Refreshments of pumpkin pie, coffee and Halloween candies were served on tables gayly decorated with orange table covers printed with Halloween designs.

Those present were Mrs. Delbert Ward, Mrs. C. W. Swanson, Mrs. Ray Peeler, Mrs. Louis Bergin, Mrs. H. D. McCurdy, Mrs. George Tucker, Mrs. Dixon T. Smith, Miss Norma Swanson, Mrs. Omar Rietmann, Mrs. Edward Rietmann, Mrs. Inez Freeland, Mrs. Roy Lueallen, Mrs. Earl Blake and Mrs. Henry Gorgier.

The regular business meeting of Willows grange will be held at Cecil Saturday evening, October 28. All grangers are urged to attend. Grange will be preceded by a short program at 7:30.

The O-W-E & N. bridge gang which have been on the siding here during the past week while repair work was underway near Ione departed for Cecil on Monday night's train.

Miss Gladys Brashears went to La Grande the first of the week for a visit of two weeks or so. While there she will attend the homecoming activities of the Eastern Oregon Normal school.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Ward motored to The Dalles Sunday for a few hours visit at the home of Mrs. Ward's sister, Mrs. Karl Farnsworth. Mrs. J. T. Knappenberg and Mrs. Ward, made the return trip with them expecting to remain at the Ward ranch for a visit. However, on Monday morning the ladies were called to Willapa, Wash., by the serious illness of their aunt, Mrs. Claphaw.

On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Laxton McMurray gave a talk before the Girls League of the high school. She gave the girls the high lights of her recent trip through the middle western states and California. Among interesting places visited by Mrs. McMurray were the Blackfoot Indian reservation in Idaho, a health resort high up on the slopes of Pikes Peak in Colorado, one of the dams the government is building to improve the navigation on the Mississippi river, the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago, Hollywood and Beverly Hills in California. She also had the doubtful pleasure of being in California during an earthquake which was severe enough to toss her about in bed and tip over vases, shake pictures off the walls, etc. Among former residents of Ione whom Mrs. McMurray visited were Mrs. Vera Pugsley of Caldwell, Idaho, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hughes of Shelly, Idaho, and Charley Howe who is on a small farm near Gilmore, Iowa. She spent one month at Iowa City, Iowa, at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Page.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Blake and Willard Miller of Philomath departed Saturday for their home after a visit of a week with relatives. While here the men enjoyed a hunting trip and were successful in bagging a deer apiece.

Til Beckner went over to Umatilla county Monday to get a load of seed potatoes for Laxton McMurray.

Bert Botts is seriously ill at his home.

A Caterpillar "29" was delivered to Laxton McMurray last week. Mr. McMurray will use it in the cultivation of his creek farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Keithley Blake departed on Sunday for Kinzua, Ore., where he expects to build a house for his brother Ray Blake who is working for the lumber company

LIBRARY BENEFIT IS WELL RECEIVED

Two-Hour Program Given By Home Talent Before Big Audience.

ROOST GIVEN WORK

Organizations and Neighboring Communities Participate in Presenting Good Entertainment.

The annual library benefit vod-vil moved off smoothly to a successful conclusion at the gym-auditorium last Friday evening before a near capacity audience, reaping the library $91.20. An all home-talent performance, the success was made possible only by the hearty cooperation of the organizations and neighboring communities who supplied the talent which gave so liberally of their time and effort. To these go the warm thanks of the library association, expressed thru Mrs. Lucy Rodgers, president.

Opening with a musical prelude by the school band under the direction of Harold Buhman, leader, the diversified program held the audience in expectant pleasure for a short two hours.

"The Story Hour" presented by the Bookworms was a charming presentation of scenes in pantomime from "The Pied Piper," "Rip Van Winkle," and other popular nursery stories. Forming the background was a huge book, the unfolded leaves of which displayed colored drawings of scenes taken from the story represented. The drawings were made by Harold Becket. Members of the club participating were Ethel Smith, Lera Crawford, Harriet Gemmill, Ruth Lumley, Lucile McAtee, Lucy Rodgers, Madge Coppock, Virginia Turner, Beta Humphreys and Elizabeth Bleta. They were assisted by Beth Bleakman and the following children: Bobbie and Patsy Smith, Jean and Jimmie Gemmill, Teddy Ferguson, Albert Bailey, Jean Straige and Calvin Crawford.

Two solos were beautifully sung by little Miss Mary Moore for the Rebekahs, and a delightful reading by Miss Lorraine Pope represented the Methodist church.

A melodramatic presentation of scenes of the old west was the offering of the Boy Scouts, "Bess of Bar X," with introduction of characters and reading of subtitles by Dean Goodman, Jr. Among the featured roles was Mae West portrayed by Scott McMurdo, with Jackson Gilliam, Don Turner, John Crawford, Ernest Clark, Guy Aiken, Richard Hayes, Guy Moore, Larry Moore and Donald Baker rounding out the cast.

The Christian church supplied a pleasing musical number, sung by a ladies quartet, the Mistresses Crockett Sprouls, Hubert Gaily, Barbara England and Miss Anabel Turner, accompanied by Mrs. J. O. Turner. Mrs. Paul Gemmill read a catchy piece for the American Legion Auxiliary.

Another pleasing reading by Dean Goodman, Jr., was the Degree of Honor Juveniles' offering, with a stringed trio, Ted Lumley, Paul Brown and Frank Turner playing Hawaiian tunes as a special number.

A clever farce comedy came from Hardman with remnants of that place presenting "Cannibal Love Affair," in appropriate costume and Mrs. Irl Clary reading the lines. It brought the house down. Another skit of similar nature was depicted by members of the American Legion in the "Shooting of Dan McGrew," with Harold Cohn reciting the popular poem of Robert W. Service. Seen in the various roles were Clarence Bauman as Dangerous Dan, Edward F. Bloom as the stranger, Charles W. Smith as the lady known as Lou, and Elbert Cox, bartender. A take-off on the action, "How it is done today," was the Elks offering with J. O. Turner taking the part of the bartender and Ray Kinne, the stranger who a pistol when he ordered a cocoa cola.

A pleasing piano solo by Miss Katherine Parker was sponsored by the Eastern Star, and two exceptionally well received numbers were sung by Laurel Beach on behalf of his home community, Lexington. Another Lexington offering was a clever solo by Mrs. James H. Williams.

The Lions quartet in blackface represented the city's service club, singing several popular ditty songs. Members of the quartet were Frank and Jesse Turner, John Anglin and Ray Kinne, with Mrs. J. O. Turner accompanist.

A negro cant meeting was the burlesque number of the Business and Professional Womens club, with a majority of the members of the club participating. Stirring the imagination, the Degree of Honor brought forth a hearty laugh, when a young man stepped behind a screen and began throwing articles of clothing in logical order from behind, then stepped forth in full attire with an open suitcase.

Climaxing the performance was the school faculty skit in which Phillip Foord portrayed a city editor at his desk, and Ted Lumley, Harold Buhman and Madge Coppock brought in news reports of red-hot happenings of the town.

Musical Melange Slated At Lexington Tomorrow

Heralded as one of the outstanding musical treats of the season and the rarest treat of its kind ever to be offered by Lexington high school, is the musical melange to be staged in the Lexington high school auditorium tomorrow evening, starting at 8 o'clock. Featured in the performance are five artists of exceptional talent, including Laurel Beach, tenor; Mrs. James H. Williams, soprano; Miss Lucy Spittle, alto; Miss Esther Fredrickson, violinist, and Miss Eula McMillan, pianist.

Appropriate costuming will be used throughout in the presentation of a program of classical and popular music, using various voice and instrument combinations. The program will be in three parts, the first to be Spanish, the second a presentation of "Blossom Time" featuring Schubert's melodies, and the third a combination of popular and classical music. For the convenience of Heppner folks a number of seats have been placed on sale at Gordon's.

TREE FRUIT CODE NOW IN OPERATION

Putting the northwest fruit agreement into effect, connecting up national relief measures with purchase of surplus farm products, and setting up machinery to expedite payment of wheat benefits are but a few of the most recent outstanding accomplishments under the agricultural adjustment act, according to the current weekly review by the Oregon State college extension service.

The agreement authorizes the control of the maximum volume of fruit to be moved to market, regulation of varieties, grades and sizes to be marketed at any given time, and the setting of minimum prices below which no fruit will be shipped to markets. Oregon fruit districts have been active in support of the agreement from the start of the negotiations last summer.

Pork, butter, beef, fruit and probably other foods of which there are market surpluses at this time are to be purchased through a special relief unit of the A. A. A. organized to buy up such products and transfer them to 3,500,000 families on relief rolls. This is to be done thru cooperation with the federal Emergency Relief administration.

This action does not remove the fundamental necessity for production control, particularly for commodities which in the past have been sold in large volume abroad, warns Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and other leaders. The plan of direct purchases will help to remove present surpluses by diverting food to this formerly greatly restricted domestic market, but many problems of overproduction still remain to be attacked at the source through control measures.

Two Oregon men are included on a review board of 12 selected from all wheat sections of the United States and now known as the County Acceptance unit of the wheat administration. These will review the contracts from each county as they reach Washington, make minor corrections where possible without returning the contracts, and give final approval by counties so that checks may be made out. It is thought they will be able to pass upon contracts from about 70 counties a day.

The two Oregon men included are A. R. Shumway, Milton, president of the Pacific Northwest Co-operative Grain Growers, and Paul C. Newman, Portland, a graduate of Oregon State college now in the federal crop statistician's office.

FATHERS AND SONS TO DINE TOMORROW

Judge Sweek, E. O. Normal President Speakers; Scout Leaders Slated.

COURT OF HONOR ON

B. P. W. Club to Serve Dinner; Fine Entertainment Program to Attract Males of City.

Fathers and sons of Heppner will gather about the banquet table in the basement of the Christian church at 5:30 o'clock tomorrow evening for the annual banquet sponsored by the local Boy Scout executive committee. Four outside speakers will be present for the occasion besides a number of Boy Scouts from Walla Walla.

Judge Calvin L. Sweek of Pendleton will be chairman and toastmaster, assuring that the office will be well taken care of in the capable manner for which Judge Sweek is noted. Austin Landreth, president of the Eastern Oregon Normal school of La Grande, will give one of the principal addresses of the evening, entitled "The Balancing Act for Boys."

Another address will be given by W. L. Hayward from the national council staff in Region Eleven, Boy Scouts of America, who is expected to accompany Robert H. Hayes, executive of the Blue Mountain council. Mr. Hayes appears on the program with an address, "Scouting to Fathers and Sons." The local committee deems itself especially fortunate in being able to obtain this capable array of outside speaking talent which assures a program full of meat for all who attend.

Charles W. Smith, chairman of the local executive committee will present Judge Sweek as the chairman of the evening. Donald Turner, local patrol leader, will give a talk, "The Kind of a Dad a Boy Likes." Joel R. Benton will deliver the invocation and Frank W. Turner will lead group singing of "Oregon My Oregon." Special entertainment features will include a vocal duet, "Dream Melody," by Matt Kenny and Bill Cochell; a piano solo by Miss Marjorie Parker, tap dance by Richard Hayes, and instrumental number by James T. Lumley and Boyd Redding.

Dinner will be served under the auspices of the Business and Professional Womens club by members of the domestic science class of the high school. Following the dinner and banquet program, a court of honor will be held with Judge Sweek as chairman. Mr. Smith as secretary and Mr. Hayes, the regional executive, presiding.

All men of the city, whether fathers or not, are cordially invited to attend and bring a boy with them. The price of one ticket includes plates for one man and one boy, the tickets to be purchased by the men.

EXPRESS APPRECIATION.

The Heppner high school student body and football team wish to express their appreciation to the business people and residents of Heppner for their hearty cooperation and loyal support of school activities, especially shown at the football games. Your attendance and enthusiasm at the game last Friday was deeply appreciated.

DEER HIDES WANTED.

George Strand of Pendleton, director of the big Westward Ho parade, annual Round-Up feature, asks local people who care to, to save their deer hides. The word, received through Henry Aiken, Rodeo vice president, states that Mr. Strand expects to feature a large number of these hides in next year's parade.

PENLAND PLEADS GUILTY.

William Penland, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon as the result of a shooting fracas here recently in which he shot Lloyd Matteson four times, pleaded guilty on arraignment in justice court last Thursday and waived hearing before the grand jury. Time of sentence has not been announced.

LEX LOSES TO ECHO.

The Lexington football team journeyed to Echo last Friday where they met a very strong and smooth running team. The score was 26 to 6 in favor of the Echo boys. Lexington played a hard game and felt encouraged by the one score margin. A return game will be played here this week.

Frank Winnard returned the first of the week from Eugene where he visited his brother, Dr. N. E. Winnard, whom he reports to be in very ill health.
