"ANIMAL STORIES."

MAN may be the ruler of the earth but there are a lot of things we don't yet know about the other animals that share this sphere with us, and they are constantly surprising us by taking charge of things them-

For instance, we read in the pa-pers the other day that rabbits have again become a plague in Australia. Years ago some English settlers imported a few rabbits, which multiplied so fast that they became a serious menace to crops, and the Australian Government had to pay a big bounty to get rid of them. But enough of them remained to start it all over again.

Even more surprising is the story that comes from New England of a great migration of gray squirrels out of Connecticut into the adjoin-ing states of Rhode Island and Massachusetts. Thousands of them, in huge droves, move in straight lines, letting neither mountains nor water divert them. Fifty drowned squirrels were found in one small pond; Connecticut River boatmen report hundreds climbing out of the water on to the boats. All are gaunt and half-starved. The answer seems to be the failure of some relied-on food supply, impelling the squirrels to seek new feeding

This episode is similar to the story of the lemmings, the curious little furred animals of Norway, who every few years march across country in droves of millions, they reach the seacoast. There they do not stop but plunge into the sea and drown, seeking nobody knows what ancient refuge, long since submerged, to which some tribal instinct drives them in

We hear of beavers coming back to Massachusetts after vanishing for a hundred years; of deer becoming so thick and fearless that they eat the growing green stuff in kitchen gardens; of police dogs shaking off the shackles of civilization and running wild in packs like their wolf ancestors, terroriz-ing whole countrysides. We are always interested in the mysterious at it. ways of the lesser animals, as most everybody is. But we never cease wonder at their tenacity of life and their power of survival when everything seems set against them. Humanity has something to learn

But what shall this plan be? Per-haps we can adopt a system similar to that prevailing in Norway, where the manufacture and sale of all the manufacture and sale of all liquor, hard or semi-soft, is under strict government regulation, and the profits are held down to something like 5 per cent. At any rate the Church will have to abandon its conventional approach to the problem, and rethink its position upon this critical question. The 18th amendment was a mistaken and costly experiment. But what next?

Paul Aiken Writes of New Location at Camp Reston

His many Morrow county friends will enjoy the following communi-cation received by Mrs. Aiken from Paul Aiken, who is now with Company 1309, Camp Reston, Sitkum, Ore. The letter is dated Oct. 21, and reads as follows:

"Here I am at Camp Reston. We arrived here Thursday after rid-ing 24 hours on the train and we were about all in.
"We went to La Grande from

Camp Frog Heaven on Tuesday, Oct. 17, in the late afternoon; had supper at the kitchen car and then went to a show. We were admitted by passes. That night we slept in train, sitting up as there were no Pullmans.

"We left La Grande at 1:30 p. m Wednesday, stopping at Pendleton twenty minutes, and then went straight thru to Portland. Left Portland at 11:30 that nite and arrived in Eugene sometime in the early morning. At this point the train branched off toward the coast reaching Marshfield on Thursday morning at 6:30,

"All the fellows left the train and went up town, just making it back in time to catch the train. You can imagine about 700 men running down the street. It looked like a stampede of cattle.
