The Mark of a Man.

"So God created man in His own image; in the image of God created He him." Gen 1-27.

Supposedly erudite and ultra-learned persons are many times found "observing" that this and that about the Word of God could not be so. This particular passage gags many of them. They miss the mark and fall far short or grasping, with all their giant intellects, the simple truth stated here: That God created man in His likeness; Godlike in his ability to think, to reason, to walk erect, to love, to sorrow, to know right and to know wrong, and to be able to differentiate between right and wrong; man was created Godlike in being made but little lower than the angels; and since sin first came to mar God's chiefest creation, man he has apparently been trying to get lower than the beasts. For brute instinct guides the lower orders of creation largely in ways of safety in living; but man will deliberately learn ways and habits of life that are destructive to him, physically, mentally, morally. He knows this, yet he will continue to the end. Young men and boys will ape so-called manliness in older men, but let us be sure that filthy habits of life are not manliness, are NOT THE MARK OF A MAN. The mark of a man, the mark of real manhood is the ability to see and to think and to live a clean life; with a clean mind, a clean heart and a clean body. "Greater is he that ruleth himself than he that taketh a city." THE MARK OF A REAL MAN IS CLEANLINESS OF THOUGHT AND LIFE.

If you have not a Church home, we invite you to come and worship with us. Come and test the welcome of this friendly Church. Sermon topics: "The Church in Jerusalem" at the morning service, and "The Mark of a Man" at the evening hour.

Aids U. of O. Groups To Hold Down Costs

Eugene.—Meals for men in fraternities at the university cost on an average slightly more than 15 cents per person, while the food cost for women in sororities averages a bit more than nine cents, a survey carried on by the school of business administration here reveals. When the pay of the cook is added in the costs are increased to 18 1/2 cents and 12 1/2 cents per meal.

The survey was carried on in order to give all fraternities and sororities an opportunity to compare their costs with the average and if possible adjust them. The school of business is also aiding any organization that requests it with accounting assistance as part of the project, it is stated by Dr. H. V. Hoyt, dean.

Students at the university do not shy from such work as doing their own laundry, the survey showed. The average laundry charge was but 52 cents per month per person for the men and 62 cents for women. One co-ed when questioned on this declared girls in her house did all their own laundry, except for cleaning garments that could not be done except by experts.

FUEL CUTS TRACTOR COST. A diesel tractor will operate at a fuel cost of about one-fourth that of a tractor operated on gasoline, says R. N. Lunde, agricultural engineering specialist at Oregon State college. Many farmers with gasoline tractors are burning a mixture of diesel fuel and gasoline with fairly good results. With the ordinary mixture of 30 to 50 per cent diesel fuel with third-straight gasoline performs fairly well if care is taken to heat up the engine well at the start. With tractors especially designed to heat the manifold extra hot, 60 to 80 per cent mixtures are used.

CARD OF THANKS. We wish to express to the friends our sincere thanks for their many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy and for the many beautiful floral offerings at the time of our bereavement in the death of our beloved husband, father and brother.

Western Dairymen Agree On Production Control

A decision on the Pacific coast attitude toward production control in the dairy industry was reached at the western conference held at Oakland, Cal., recently, constituting the most important development for western dairymen under the A. A. A. to date, in the opinion of the dairy specialists at Oregon State college.

With the dairy industry faced with the greatest surplus of stored products in history, the agricultural adjustment administration has determined that emergency measures must be followed by production control. The western dairy representatives at Oakland, including many from Oregon, agreed with this but declared that no such plan will be received by the dairy farmers of the country which does not include the elimination of foreign vegetable oils from use as human food. Restriction of such manufacture to fats and oils produced in the United States was asked.

Elimination of surplus cows was suggested as the most feasible means of reducing production. This can be profitably accomplished by two means, the conference decided. One is the immediate compulsory eradication of bovine tuberculosis. The second is the immediate voluntary testing for contagious abortion.

Specialists at Oregon State college point out that Oregon is now practically free from bovine T. B. and well along with contagious abortion, though the latter is an economic rather than a human health problem. The conference further decided that any such elimination of surplus cows, affecting as it would between one and a half to two million cows in this country, would have to be carried out by the government in such a manner as to not depress further the beef market.

The conference set up a permanent western council with one member from each state, and asked that each state set up a committee of its own.

Definite fixing of the processing tax on corn at 28 cents a bushel, and announcement of the preliminary totals in the wheat sign-up campaign are other developments in the A. A. A. for the week. The wheat sign-up nationally totals about 80 per cent, which means that close to eight million acres will be taken out of production in return for more than one hundred million dollars in benefit payments. Oregon with an 83 per cent sign-up is near the top of the list of wheat states.

East of the Cascades in the main wheat belt the sign-up was much more complete, reports the state college extension service which was in charge of the educational campaign. Latest figures show 894,791 acres signed up by 7063 Oregon farmers. This will mean the distribution of about two and a half million dollars in benefit payments to Oregon wheat growers this winter and next spring.

Cottage Cheese Boosted As Good Homemade Food

Cottage cheese with cream added contains most of the constituents of whole milk in concentrated form, and may be substituted for part of the daily requirement of milk, says Miss Lucy A. Case, extension specialist in nutrition at O. S. C. Like skim milk, cottage cheese without cream is rich in protein, lime and phosphorus, and is a highly nutritious product. Because of its high protein content, cottage cheese is best used as a substitute for meat, not as a side dish in a meal containing meat. It is wise to include coarse foods in a meal containing cottage cheese to supply roughage.

Cottage cheese may be made at home with or without a starter of sour milk that made with a starter usually having a better flavor, says Miss Case.

To make cottage cheese without a starter, use clean skim, unpasteurized milk, and keep it cool until ready to use, at 50 degrees if possible. On the evening before making the cheese, heat the milk slowly to room temperature (75 degrees F) and add 2-3 cup of well-flavored sour milk or buttermilk to each gallon of sweet skim milk used. Cover this pan with a clean cloth and keep in a warm room over night. When clabbered, stir thoroughly. Place the pan of milk in another pan which contains water that is hot but not boiling. Heat the milk slowly until a drop on the back of the hand feels slightly warmer than the body (100 degrees F). Cool the hot water around the pan of milk to the body temperature also, to prevent the temperature of the milk going too high. Cover the milk and keep it at this temperature (100 degrees F) for one-half hour, stirring well frequently. Pour it into a muslin or cheese cloth sack and hang the sack up to drain.

Cleanliness and sanitary conditions of handling the milk and milk utensils are essential to securing a good flavor in cottage cheese. A second important factor in making good cottage cheese is control of the temperature during the cooking process. The best temperature is 100 degrees F. A good dairy thermometer (cost, about 60 cents) is a good investment.

BOOKS ADDED TO COLLECTION. Eugene, Mrs. Gertrude Busch Warner, donor and director of the Murray Warner museum of Oriental Art, and Miss Mable Klockars, her assistant and librarian, have returned to Eugene after spending the summer in the East. Mrs. Warner brought back with her a number of choice books on oriental art for the library here which forms a part of the museum.

Forest Service News.

Sixty local men, with dependents, are working on the Heppner District under the N. I. R. A. George Broadley of Lexington has been appointed as foreman over a small crew building a new cabin and garage at Bull Prairie.

With the exception of the mess hall and the machinery shed, all the buildings used by the C.C.C. camp have been dismantled and the grounds leveled.

Four new lookout towers have been built this summer to add to the protective system in an effort to control the fire menace within the Heppner district. Besides the huge new steel tower on Tamarack mountain, a sixty-foot wood tower has been completed by Harold Cox and crew. This structure overlooks the southeastern part of the district. Max Buschke has completed two new towers, one at Ant Hill and the other at Red Hill. These towers are of a different type as they are built on a twenty-five-foot base and are ten by ten feet in size, in the house. A stairway leads up to these structures and a cat walk three feet wide surrounds them.

Four small crews are burning and piling brush, tributary to the roads. One small crew is building fence. Three small crews are on carpenter work at Ellis, Bull Prairie and Opal. One crew is still working on roads. The road down Wall creek was completed and the men and machinery have been moved to the old Sperry ranch. The old road down to Parkers Mill will be rebuilt.

The largest fire of the season was started the last day of hunting season by some careless nimrod, eight acres on Wheeler canyon. Though small it burned with terrific heat as many percent of the immature stand of timber crowned out and was destroyed.

Fairview camp on the summit of the Heppner-Spray road has been improved by cleaning up all down logs and rubbish on two acres; water piped in, a shelter built with a telephone and two standard latrines.

A new public camp ground has been started at the forks of Wall creek. A shelter and toilet facilities have been built. This will be known as the Blue Spruce camp.

The heaviest downpour of rain ever seen in years came the last of October. One morning the entire district was covered with four to ten inches of snow. Roads became bottomless and almost impassable in a period of four days.

No more men can be used on the district this fall, owing to the lateness of the season, inclement weather, and a shortage of transportation facilities.

Broader Education Urged for Students

Eugene.—Wider use of methods of teaching, such as honor courses, segregating according to ability and comprehensive examinations, so as to give superior students more opportunity to gain a broader and at the same time more efficient education is strongly urged in a bulletin, "Studies to Determine Relative Achievement of Students at Different Potentiality Levels," just issued by the University of Oregon. The study, one of a series sponsored by the university committee on improvement of college teaching, was written by Dr. Ralph W. Leighton, executive secretary of the university bureau of research.

The aim of higher education should not be merely to cram students with facts through lectures and reading assignments, but should rather aim at developing them so they will actually put this knowledge to use in life, Dr. Leigh-
