THANKSGIVING DAY.

WE THINK it appropriate at this time to print the first account of the origin of Thanksgiving Day as it was set down in 1623 by William Bradford, Governor of Plymouth Plantation. The spelling and punctuation are just as Governor Bradford wrote it in his "Notwithstand all their great paines & industrie, and ye great hops of large cropp, the Lord seemed to blast, & take away the same, and to threaten further & more sore famine unto them, by a great drought which continued from ye 3. weeke in May, till about ye middle of July, without any raine, and with great heat (for ye most parte). insomuch as ye corne begane to wither away, though it was set with fishe, the moysture whereof helped it much. Yet at length it begane to languish sore, and some of ye never recovered. pon which they set a parte a solemne day of humilation, to seek ye Lord by humble & fervente prayer, in this great distrese. And he was pleased to give them a gracious & speedy answer, both to their owne & the Indeans admiration, that lived gentle showers, as gave them cause of rejoyceing, & blessing God. It came, without either wind, or thunder or any violence, and by degrees in yt abundance, as that ye earth was thorowly wete and soked therewith. Which did so apparently revive & quicken ye decayed corne & other fruits, as was wonderfull to see, and made ye Indeans aston-ished to behold; and afterwards the Lord sent them such seasonable showers, with interchange of faire warme weather, as, through his blessing, caused a fruitfull & lib-erall harvest, to their no small comtracks." That early snowfall was ture, Mr. Smith says. known to our pioneer ancestors as

This was the hunting season of the Indians, as it is the hunting season for the white folks today. It is a hazy, pleasant interlude between the end of Summer and the onset of real Winter. It is the time of year to take one's gun and one's dog and go out into the woods, af-ter anything or nothing. It is the last, or almost the last chance to be outdoors in comfort until another Springtide comes.

In spite of the haze and the smoke from brush fires, the eye seems to penetrate farther in Indian Summer than in real Summer. The trees are nearly leafless now, and through their bare branches the stroller in the woods sees farther and clearer. Things that were hidden are now disclosed. The whole landscape takes on a new and somewhat sad aspect, That is Indian Summer as it is known in the North, East and West. In the milder South, however, it is not uncommon. There is that period nearly every year, between the hurricane season and Christmas, when it seems the perfection of happiness just to be out of doors. Farm work is over for the year. The mosquitoes have gone into winter quarters. The slanting sun peering over the bulge of the earth's girdle liveoaks, among the pines, whereever one chooses to wander, there comes the feeling that it is good just to be alive. There is nothing like the American Indian Summer anywhere else the world. European Summers lean right into cold rainy Winter. American Springs are brief; our Summers come early. But our long, lovely Autumn makes up for the short Spring.

Litvinoff . Russian visitor

Maxim Litvinoff, the Foreign Minister of the Soviet government, who has come to America at President Roosevelt's invitation to talk over the recognition of Russia, the Russian debt to America and other things, is one of the world's remarkable men. He was one of the earliest leaders of the Russian Revolution. He speaks four languages, is afraid of nobody, and has made a great impression in every international conference he has attended. Litvinoff plays the game of diplomacy frankly and in the open. He has no use for diplomats who beat around the bush and wait for instructions from home before they agree to anything. I have a hunch that this visitor

Tobacco as money

In the early Colonial days tobaceo was money in Virginia and Maryland. It was the chief commodity exported to England, as measure of all values. There was no gold or silver, no other easily wealth.

The Colony of Maryland built a Truman Messengeer of Condon State House at St. Marys City in was in Boadman Monday. He is working on the state highway. put up the structure 259 years ago. Now the State of Maryland is going to rebuild the old State House from the original plans; the old building has vanished but plans and drawings of it remain. It will cost $25,000. And that works out at only 166,666 2-3 pounds of tobacco at the current price for the Maryland of 15 cents a pound.

If Maryland had remained on the tobacco standard everybody would be saying that money was too high and there would be a demand for inflation of the currency!

Commercialized entertainment has given most of the young people today a false idea of what to do

They do not understand how anyone can spend their leisure time happily without also spending money. Yet the happiest people I know are those who spend their leisure in things that cost them nothing.
