In this he was joined by many of the leading citizens of that state. This will go far to correct the immediate impression that California courts had ceased to function and that only the mob was left to do justice.

Rolph's attempt to answer evaded the issue entirely by trying to divert attention to the eviction of the bonus army from Washington, a mistake, but the two fatalities in it occurred before the arrival of the troops and not afterward as Rolph sought to make it appear. In any event it didn't justify Rolph's amazing statement after the San Jose lynching, and that Rolph should imagine anyone would think it did shows what a poor opinion he has of the intelligence of his state. But perhaps he was justified in that. California elected him governor.

There are two different types of courage: physical and moral. Physical courage is that which enables 18 to 10 on the Heppner gym floor a man to face great physical danger without flinching. Moral courage enables a person to stand for what he or she believes is right in spite of temptation, desertion of friends, attacks of enemies, or any other reason. In a large number of cases when a person has one he will also have the other, but this is not always true. One type is no better than the other but in order to attain success it is necessary to have Practically all persons attending school prove their physical courage or lack of it very early because of that fact that it is almost impossible to go through school with a lot of other students without crossin someone at some time. Fortunate ly this type of courage is possessed by a large majority of students. Now that the prohibition amendment has been repealed many of us are going to have an opportunity to display moral courage. Drinking is harmful. There is no way of getting around this point. Drinking cuts down resistance, moral force, physical ability, and mental efficiency. The size of the loss is in di-rect proportion to the amount one drinks, but no matter how little one drinks harm is done. No man who drinks can hope to reach the top in the present day type of civilization.

All of these facts are true and cannot be contested. We know they are true.

We are wondering how many of us are going to show moral courage and leave liquor alone. This will be a hard thing to do since from now on we are to be continually tempted to drink. But if drinking is known to be wrong is that not reason enough for the person with moral courage to refuse? Anyone who does drink lacks moral courage, and anyone who lacks moral courage is a coward of the worst type-a moral coward. Are you a moral coward, or as it is commonly put, are you yellow?
