ANNOUNCE PLAN FOR LOCAL BANK

First National, Portland, Makes Application for Heppner Branch.

OFFICERS VISIT

E. B. MacNaughton, President, and J. H. Mackie, Vice-President, Meet Large Group Here.

The First National Bank of Portland will open a branch in Heppner just as soon as approval of its application for permit is received from Washington and arrangements are completed for local quarters. That was the statement of E. B. MacNaughton, president, who with J. H. Mackie, vice-president, waited upon a large delegation of people from all parts of Morrow county at the Elks temple Tuesday afternoon. Mr. MacNaughton said that application for charter had been made. A unanimous expression of opinion was voiced by her people that Morrow county sincerely wants, sorely needs, and warmly welcomes a bank. The sentiment heartily endorsed the interest expressed by the Portland institution, and Mr. MacNaughton's statement was received by a round of hearty applause.

Signifying the interest of the local people, a committee was appointed, largely from among the people present, to extend cooperation to the bank in such ways as it may be of service. The committee, including leading citizens representative of the various sections of the trading territory, was named as follows: C. W. Smith, Chas. Thomson, R. A. Thompson, W. F. Barnett, Bert Mason, J. O. Kincaid, Henry Peterson, Mrs. Lucy E. Rodgers, A. E. Wright, D. A. Wilson, D. T. Goodman, John Bronsan, J. W. Beymer and Jack Hynd.

News that the strong Portland bank had decided upon opening a branch at Heppner was received as a compliment to the trade potentialities of this district, which for years has been among the leading wheat and wool producing districts of the state. Confidence was expressed on every hand that business conditions here are on the upgrade, and a sincere faith was shown in a rosy future for a banking institution with the solidarity of that of the First National of Portland.

While many approaches upon the Portland bank had been made by local people, and it was known that some consideration of this city was being given by it, the news given by Mr. MacNaughton Tuesday was the first public assurance that the bank had definitely decided to enter this field.

Since starting upon its branch banking program a few months ago, the First National has opened 15 branch institutions, entering the eastern Oregon field first at The Dalles and Pendleton and at the plans laid for here materialize Heppner will have the sixteenth branch.

While in Heppner Mr. MacNaughton and Mr. Mackie conferred with J. L. Gault, receiver for the local banks which have been in course of liquidation since the first of the year. Negotiations were discussed toward obtaining the old First National bank quarters.

News of the First National's decision spread like wild-fire and electrified the atmosphere with a renewed spirit of optimism. Merchants, as well as people of the county generally, have been irked by the inconvenience of doing business under the conditions of restricted local exchange facilities of the last year, and are happy, indeed, over the prospect of again being able to enjoy twentieth century banking service.

New Milk "Bus" on Route For Alfalfa Lawn Dairy

Wightman Bros. are initiating a handsome new delivery truck on their milk route this week. The "bus" was delivered to them here Monday forenoon and has been an object of admiration since. Recently, through the accident that happened to John Wightman at the railroad crossing coming out from the home at the dairy plant, the delivery on the job here for several years, was about completely demolished, making it necessary to get a new one. This machine seems to be just about the last word for the job, and Dick Wightman is prouder of it than a kid with his first pair of red-topped boots. Milk from this wagon ought to be just a little bit better than anything heretofore delivered from Alfalfa Lawn Dairy; and this is saying a whole lot.

LICENSE RECORD GIVEN.

Hunting and fishing licenses issued for the year in Morrow county are given by Gay M. Anderson, clerk, as follows: anglers, 43; hunters, 313; combination, 51; county hunters, 43; county anglers, 21; non-resident anglers, 5; non-resident hunters, 2; elk license, 42. Report was made at Mr. Anderson's office of 7 elk killed. These did not include all the elk killed by county hunters, however, as reports of some killed were made in other counties.

Jack Dossier Answers Summons in Texas

James Gentry is in receipt of a letter from Adrian, Texas, announcing the death there on Sunday, December 10th, of Jack Dossier, recently of Heppner. Mr. Dossier left here for the South the day following the Rodeo, and just at that time he was not feeling any too well. His funeral occurred at Adrian on the Tuesday following his death, and his friends here are not informed as to whether he had relatives residing in that part of Texas.

Mr. Dossier was a resident here for several years and made numerous friends in this community. Something like two years ago he was operated on in Portland for a malignant internal growth. He never fully recovered from this, though getting strong enough to do a lot of work—being perhaps a little too ambitious in this regard for his own good. The affliction from which he suffered is no doubt the cause of his death. Mr. Gentry, with whom Mr. Dossier worked a great deal of the time while living here, became very much attached to Jack, and he mourns him as one who was a sincere friend.

North County Farmers Want Arlington Road

Bert Palmateer, in town Tuesday from the Morgan district, was interviewing the county court on behalf of completion of the Arlington road from Morgan. Completion of the road would enable farmers of the west Morgan district to put their wheat on shipboard at The Dalles for nine cents a sack direct from the fields, making a saving of at least five cents a bushel over present charges, Mr. Palmateer said.

The new rate was given as that quoted by Arlington men, based on barge transportation of the wheat from Arlington to The Dalles with completion of port facilities at Arlington. Organization of a port district at Arlington was provided for at a recent election.

The road proposed for improvement passes through one of Mr. Palmateer's fields, and he has offered to exchange land with the county for the proposed new right of way. The distance from Morgan to Arlington by this route is 19 miles as against 32 miles by way of the Oregon-Washington and Columbia River highways.

APPRECIATION EXPRESSED.

J. O. Turner, Morrow county's representative in the legislature, this week received two letters of appreciation of his services at the recent special session. A warm note of thanks for Mr. Turner's cooperation and helpful service was received from Earl W. Snell, speaker of the house. The other letter, from R. R. Turner, chairman of the legislative committee of the Oregon State Teachers association, congratulated Morrow county's representative upon his firm stand in behalf of the sales tax for relief of schools.

J. L. Gault, bank receiver, was a business visitor in Pendleton on Monday.

Judge Campbell Tells of State Pension Situation

In response to numerous inquiries at his office, W. T. Campbell, county judge, gives some information relative to the situation of the old age pension in Morrow county.

Thirty dollars a month is the maximum amount to be paid any beneficiary under the pension act which becomes effective January 1, and the county is not obligated to pay the full amount to anyone, the judge said, in answer to many folks who held the belief that they were to get $30 a month from the county as soon as the act becomes effective.

To keep from exceeding the 6 percent limitation, the county was able to budget but $6000 for the pension fund. With 74 applications for pensions already received, it will be impossible for the county to pay all eligible persons $30 a month, which would require a fund of $27,000. Exactly what the county will do has not been definitely decided, with the matter still under consideration by the court. Each individual case will be considered separately and the court will do the best it can under the conditions. Should the county pay all applicants $30 a month as required, Judge Campbell said.

While the judge expressed an appreciation for the purpose of the old age pension act, he believed those entitled to pensions should understand the dilemma faced by the court and not be too severe in their criticisms.

LEXINGTON

By BEULAH B. NICHOLS.

The smoker staged at the Lexington school gymnasium last Saturday was full of action and fun. Seven wrestling and boxing matches and three comedy stunts kept the crowd in hysterics.

The matches were as follows: Asa Shaw and Ellwayne Peck wrestled three four-minute rounds to a draw. Both boys were active and clever.

Laverne Wright won a decision over Clayton Davis in their three rounds of boxing. Laverne had the advantage because of greater experience but Clayton holds terrific punches in either hand. If there ever was a real combat, such a one was staged by Finley Gibbs and Lee Shaw in their three-round boxing match. Flats flew from bell to bell without a let-up. Hard blows were eagerly taken in order to gain an opportunity to "sock" the other fellow.

Francis Nickerson and Don Allstott staged a grueling fifteen minutes to a draw. Both worked every hold possible but gained no falls. These boys will have to be re-matched in the future to settle their argument.

Albert Huff and Virgil Smith renewed hostilities with a terrific onslaught to settle the draw they got at the last smoker. Each was determined to mow the other down. The result was a draw for the two battered gladiators.

Shorty Peck and Garland Thompson set aside formal manners for the evening in an endeavor to pin each other's shoulders to the canvas. These two huskies kept the crowd in an uproar with their leg dives, wrist locks and airplane spins. Garland succeeded in winning the match with one fall. Shorty avers that there is another day coming. So be it.

The last match was a muscle-bending and bone-crushing contest by Bob Allstott and George Gillis. Bob's tremendous strength was too much for Gillis in the first round and he threw the teacher with a series of reverse headlocks. Gillis was more cautious the last round and slipped one over on Bob by pinning him with a short arm scissor. That was one hold the strong man could not break. It was voiced by several ardent fans that these two should meet again to settle affairs. The two declared their intent to continue at any time, at any place, and upon any provocation.

Several of the contestants were challenged for a bout in the next smoker. Bob Rogersons challenged Garland Thompson to a wrestling bout and Don Jones challenged Virgil Smith to a boxing match. The prospects are looking up to a bigger and better smoker about the middle of January.

Last but not least were the comic stunts by the Lexington Boy Scouts. The first of these was a contest called Chinese wrestling.

Two fighters were placed facing each other on a pole parallel to the floor and suspended by ropes. The object was for each to try to get his opponent off the pole by the use of pillows, hands and feet. Lee Shaw was judged the winner.

Another good comedy was the egg breaking contest. Keith Gentry and Bill Burrell were the winners of this event.

The Lexington smokers are growing in interest, fun and sport. The next smoker benefit to be held in January promises to be the best yet.

Elroy, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Myles Martin, had his left arm broken when he was thrown from a horse Friday morning. Laurel Leach has been chosen to sing the tenor solos in "The Messiah," with the choir of the Sunnyside Congregational church in Portland on Sunday evening, December 24th.

The Christmas program at the school on Wednesday evening was a very enjoyable one and was well attended. It consisted chiefly of solos, duets and choruses by Laurel

CORN & HOG PLAN MAY BRING $20,000

New Production Control Association to Affect 1000 Acres in Morrow County.

A potential income of $20,000 for producers of corn and hogs in Morrow county is offered through the second production control association to be organized in the county soon, announces C. W. Smith, county agent. The $20,000 represents the total amount of benefit payments should all corn and hog producers contract to reduce their production of these products by 20 to 30 percent for corn and 25 percent for hogs.

Mr. Smith is in receipt of bulletins from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration giving full details of the plan and the necessity for it. As in the case of wheat, the plan is intended to eliminate surpluses of corn and hogs which are depressing the market, and to establish the market prices of the commodities on the basis of a fair exchange value for commodities the farmer buys.

Mr. Smith was unable to say just how soon steps of organization are to be taken in this county, though it will be in the near future. In perfecting the organization an educational campaign will be conducted similar to that employed in putting across the wheat allotment plan.

While Morrow county does not figure largely in the production of corn and hogs, it is none the less the interest of raisers of these commodities to investigate the plan thoroughly, Mr. Smith said. It was estimated that 1000 acres are devoted to raising corn in this county, while many farms have hog broods, the operators of which should investigate the plan whether or not the hogs are raised for market.

More particulars of the plan are given in another article from the state college in this issue.

To help speed up the signing and acceptance of contracts, farmers are advised by the adjustment administration, (1) to attend all meetings concerned with the corn and hog project to learn the actual workings of the plan and to be entirely familiar with it; (2) to assemble definite figures on the acreage of various crops during 1932 and 1933 on the farm to be operated in 1934, and to determine the acreage taken out for woodlands, pastures, farm buildings, orchards, roads, and the like, so that account may be made for the total farm area; (3) to assemble definite information on number of litters farrowed by sows in 1932 and 1933, and on the disposal of hogs from these litters; also on the number of feeder pigs bought and sold in the 2-year base period (Dec. 1, 1931 to Dec. 1, 1932, and Dec. 1, 1932 to Dec. 1, 1933); (4) to be thinking about the fields which may be contracted to the government, and to determine as nearly as possible the average corn yield for this land during the past five years; (5) to obtain all the data possible on the yields and kind of crops planted the last five years on the lands expected to be leased; (6) to assemble information on uses made of the corn crop during the last two years (on the farm to be operated in 1934), whether for grain, silage, hogging-down, cash sale or other purposes; (7) to assemble all sales slips, farm records or other kinds of evidence to support claims as to corn and hog production before the county and community committees which must administer this plan locally; (8) to obtain this information for all farms or fields owned or operated; (9) to fill out as completely as possible the answers to all the questions asked on the farmer's work sheet, this sheet to be distributed soon.

Wool Position Strong Reports Local Grower

That wool now holds the strongest position at any time since the recent decline with prospects bright for still further improvement of the coming year is the report of J. G. Barratt who returned yesterday from Portland where he attended a meeting of the Pacific Cooperative Woolgrowers association.

"All indications point to increasing prices during the first six months of next year. Prices are now on the upgrade, and the monetary situation is reacting especially favorably to the woolgrower," said Mr. Barratt, who added that competition will be keen among buyers for domestic wools.

The Pacific cooperative has announced that it will be in a position after the first of the year to make shearing advances on the basis of a dollar or more a fleece.

Indicating the recent price trend, Mr. Barratt said a late sale of their wool netted 27 cents a pound. California wools sold recently netted as high as 31 cents, he said.

CANTATA WELL PRESENTED.

The Christmas cantata, "The Angel and the Star," was presented at the Christian church Sunday evening to a fair sized audience. The arrangement is for female voices only, and 15 women and young ladies of the church participated, giving the cantata in a beautiful manner, with Mrs. Barbara England directing and Mrs. J. O. Turner at the piano. Solo parts were well sustained by Mrs. England, Mrs. John Turner, Mrs. Raymond Ferguson, Mrs. Crockett Sproula and Mrs. Hubert Gailey, and the entire choir made a nice appearance in their vestments. The rendition of the cantata was well received by the audience, many of whom expressed a little disappointment that the composition was not longer. We understand that the cantata is to be repeated in large part at the morning worship hour as an adjunct to the Christmas sermon by Pastor Benton on next Sunday.

Little Bobby Jones had to have his right arm done in splints Tuesday evening as a result of a fall he received at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Jones. No bones were broken, but the ligaments were torn.

LIONS CLUB ACTS ON BANK MATTER

Committee Organizes Meeting to Welcome First National Officials; Turner Talks.

In response to word of the proposed visit of E. B. MacNaughton, president, and J. H. Mackie, vice-president of the First National Bank of Portland, the Lions club Monday appointed a committee which arranged for the mass meeting and spread the word that resulted in a large group of representative Morrow county farmers and business men being present at the Elks hall to greet the bank officials. Members of the committee were C. W. Smith, L. E. Dick, Gay M. Anderson, Frank W. Turner and J. O. Turner.

The club was favored by a short review of some of the main legislation passed at the special session, given by J. O. Turner, the county's representative. Limited time permitted Mr. Turner to give but a few of the highlights of the Knox liquor plan, the sales tax, and the truck and bus bill.

Because of the great amount of explanation already disseminated on the first two measures, Mr. Turner touched them lightly, stressing more the importance of the revision of the truck and bus law which gives relief to the farmer by permitting him to haul his products by truck at the car license fee of $5.

Earl Thomson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Thomson, home from the University of Oregon for the Christmas vacation, gave a short and stirring talk depicting the university angle in the fight launched to remove W. J. Kerr from the chancellorship of higher education.

Mrs. Margaret Jones Was Morrow Pioneer

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Jones were held at All Saints Episcopal here yesterday afternoon at 2:30, with interment following in Masonic cemetery where other members of the family are buried. The remains arrived from Portland on the train yesterday morning and were taken in charge by Case Memorial mortuary. Mrs. Jones died at her home in Portland on Sunday, Dec. 15. Rev. John Dawson, rector of Church of the Good Shepherd of Portland, delivered the sermon and conducted the ritualistic services of the church of which Mrs. Jones had been a lifelong member.

Mrs. Jones was a pioneer resident of the Heppner community. She was a native of England, born at Preston, Dec. 28, 1854. She came to America with her parents when a young girl, and at the age of 19 came to Pendleton to make her home with a sister there. Her maiden name was Margaret Tompkins. She was married to Henry Jones at Pendleton on Dec. 12, 1880, and came to live on the ranch near Lena in this county. Mr. Jones died several years ago, and of her family she is survived by two children, Mrs. Stella Bailey and William H. Jones of Portland.

Wool Position Strong Reports Local Grower

That wool now holds the strongest position at any time since the recent decline with prospects bright for still further improvement of the coming year is the report of J. G. Barratt who returned yesterday from Portland where he attended a meeting of the Pacific Cooperative Woolgrowers association.

"All indications point to increasing prices during the first six months of next year. Prices are now on the upgrade, and the monetary situation is reacting especially favorably to the woolgrower," said Mr. Barratt, who added that competition will be keen among buyers for domestic wools.

The Pacific cooperative has announced that it will be in a position after the first of the year to make shearing advances on the basis of a dollar or more a fleece.
