Pine for newsprint

Since wood-pulp paper was first made in my home town of Stockbridge, Mass., sixty years ago, it has been believed that only spruce, fir and hemlock fibers were suitable.

All the time there were millions of acres of fast-growing "slash" pine on the sandy lands of Georgia, Alabama and Florida, mostly going to waste.

Power man made

People think of Boulder Dam and Muscle Shoals as the great sources of enormous power. But the other day there was completed in Brooklyn the largest single power unit in the world.

It is a false notion that water-power is either plentiful or cheap. C. P. Steinmetz, great electrical engineer, once said to me that if every drop of water that falls on the surface of the United States were to generate power all the way from the mountain-tops to the sea.

Any water-power project except the very largest, and few of those, takes so much capital investment that the interest on the capital alone amounts, often, to more than fuel would have cost for a steam plant of equal power.

Knees . . . in automobiles

Some of the new 1934 automobiles will have a new sort of front wheel suspension, which some bright press agent has described as "putting knees on the car's front legs."

Talkies there's hope

The two most popular "talkies" that the American motion picture people have produced in a year are "Little Women" and "Three Little Pigs." Artistically, the best motion picture that I have seen, is "Henry the Eighth," an English film.

Radio . . . something new

Something new in radio music is promised soon. Nobody who listens to a great orchestra over the radio today gets the music as it sounds to those in the room with actual players.

Sweet potato production in Oregon may seem strange, but A. G. E. Bouquet, professor of vegetable crops at Oregon State college, is authority for the statement that it is entirely practical in certain localities and under certain conditions.

Oregon Now Grows Sweet Potatoes in Some Districts

Sweet potato production in Oregon may seem strange, but A. G. E. Bouquet, professor of vegetable crops at Oregon State college, is authority for the statement that it is entirely practical in certain localities and under certain conditions.

Professor Bouquet has raised sweet potatoes of high quality on the experiment station farm at Corvallis. On the basis of his tests and the experience of some other growers he has prepared a circular on sweet potato culture in Oregon.

LOCAL STUDENT SELECTED.

Oregon State College, Corvallis, Dec. 20.—Charles McMurdock of Heppner, freshman in physical science at Oregon State college, has recently been selected by Dr. M. Ellwood Smith, dean of lower division, to be on the student council for lower division of arts and sciences.

WINTER TERM BEGINS JAN. 2.

Eugene.—The second or winter term of the University of Oregon will open Tuesday, January 2, it was announced here by Dr. Earl M. Pallette, registrar. All classes will begin on Wednesday, January 3, when all students are expected to be on the campus.

John Brosnan of Lena was looking after business here on Tuesday. Aside from the big blow of this week, the winter has been ideal out here.

The Book

the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures.

By BRUCE BARTON

Genesis and Geology

The higher animals are evolved or created, whichever term suits you better. And last of all, man. His place at the top of the pyramid of creation is the same in both Genesis and geology.

So we have man and woman launched forth upon a brand-new planet. Science locates the beginnings of human life in the fertile and fragrant valley of the Euphrates. Genesis is more specific, naming the beautiful spot the "Garden of Eden," and identifying the first couple as Adam and Eve.

A lecturer on woman suffrage once challenged her audience with the oratorical question, "Where, I ask you, where would man be today if it were not for woman?"

"Cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life; Thorns also and thistles shall it bring forth to thee."

Employment Fund to Aid U. of O. Students

Eugene.—A fund of $600, made available to the University of Oregon from money collected last year for the state-wide relief fund, will be used to finance projects here which will provide employment for a number of students.

to students who must earn money with which to pay registration fees next term, it was stated. Students will be given only enough work to earn the amount they actually need for fees, so that as many students as possible may be aided, it is pointed out.
