and now baseball and tennis are the order of the day. An all school tournament for the boys and the girls is being played off in tennis. The boys take their turn at the net during the noon hour and the girls during activity period. At this time also the boys are busy on the baseball diamond.

On Sunday afternoon at two o'clock private funeral services were held at the P. J. Linn home for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Linn who died at Heppner last Friday afternoon. The baby, Glenn Edward, was taken ill when about a week old and passed away just nineteen days after his birth. Interment was made in the I. O. O. F. cemetery. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the young parents in their loss. Mrs. Aisdorf of Fort Rock, Ore., mother of Mrs. Linn, Clyde Carrick of Boardman, her brother, and Mr. and Mrs. Helms of Richmond, her sister and brother-in-law, arrived in Ione on Sunday morning for the funeral services, returning to their homes Sunday evening.

Elmer Griffith went to Portland on business Tuesday morning. Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Hagwood have moved to the Rood Estate ranch formerly operated by Chas. Christopherson.

Rev. Wiley of Condon will preach at the Congregational church next Sunday evening, March 25.

Henry Clark is giving the office building of J. E. Swanson a coat of paint which improves its appearance greatly.

The March social meeting of the Women's Topic club was held at the farm home of Mrs. Edward Rietmann last Saturday afternoon. Bridge was the diversion of the afternoon with high score won by Mrs. Bert Mason and low by Mrs. W. A. Wilcox. A delicious pineapple cheese salad with wafers and coffee were served at the close of the play. Those present were Mrs. George Tucker, Mrs. H. D. McCurdy, Mrs. Carl Feldman, Mrs. Bert Mason, Mrs. Roy Feeley, Mrs. Clyde Denny, Mrs. W. A. Wilcox, Mrs. Earl Blake, Mrs. Walter Corley, Mrs. C. W. Swanson, Mrs. niez Freeland, Mrs. Omar Rietmann, Mrs. M. E. Cotter, Mrs. Henry George, Miss Kathryn Feldman and Miss Norma Swanson.

J. E. Swanson drove to Milton-Freewater on Tuesday to choose some shrubs, trees, etc. for planting on the grounds around his home and also at his place of business.

Grant Conway, a student at the University of Oregon, is spending Easter vacation with his sister, Mrs. Hugh Smith.

Other students who are at home for the holiday are Norman Swanson of U. of O. who arrived Saturday and Miss Clara Nelson of O. S. C.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Cotter arrived home Thursday evening from a visit of three months at Austin, Minn., with the mother and other relatives of Mr. Cotter. They report extremely cold weather in that part of the country with very little snow. The coldest weather was around Christmas time when the temperature hovered around 20 below zero. When they started home it was only 8 degrees above so the warm spring days we have been having are quite a treat to them. They report stock to be suffering for lack of feed in the Dakotas because of the severe winter conditions. Mr. and Mrs. Cotter state that the health of Mr. Cotter's mother, whose condition called them East, is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Eubanks have taken an apartment in the Harris building.

The Christian Endeavor society had a St. Patrick's party in the basement of the Christian church last Friday evening. Twenty-two young people were present to enjoy the games arranged by Miss Margaret Ely and Miss Helen Grabbill. Most of the games were flavored with a St. Patrick idea. Ice cream and cake were served at the end of the fun.

Mrs. P. C. Peterson had the misfortune to break one of her legs just above the ankle when she took a bad fall while doing her chores on the ranch Monday evening.

Mrs. Maude Farris went to The Dalles Sunday morning to have some dental work done. While there she heard that E. Holmquist had died there during the preceding week. The cause of his death was not learned. Mr. Holmquist will be remembered by everyone here as "Swede Ed," having been employed in and near Ione in various capacities during the last twenty years or so. He has made his headquarters in The Dalles for several years but usually came back to this country for a few weeks each spring to work in lambing camps.

Mrs. Barnes of The Dalles was a Tuesday visitor at the home of her cousin, Mrs. H. O. Ely.

George Blake of Alderdale, Wn., was in Ione for a short time Monday. Mr. Blake is a cousin of Willard Blake and operates a sheep ranch in the Bickleton country. He was over this way looking for lambs.

OREGON BEAUTIES INSPIRE SKETCHES

The Coast

A trip down or up the coast highway offers marine scenery unsurpassed by any other section of the world for an equal distance. The continuous roll of the surf as it pounds away at the shore has a never ending fascination. In places the forest comes down to meet the sea. Everywhere the green of fern, grass or shrubbery. Rhododendron abounds all along the route and Scotch brome, a pest, but a beautiful one, grows in profusion. Where the road cuts thru sand dunes the highway department has seeded the slopes to hollard grass. This grass planted as bunches in rows somehow reminds one of soldiers all standing at attention. Beaches in-vitingly displayed and washed to a snowy whiteness twice daily induces a strong desire to linger at a white and hunt agates or sea shells.

In places hundreds of sea lions are industriously fishing and trying to drown the roar of the surf with their bellowing. I was fortunate in that the day I visited sea lion caves there were perhaps more than two hundred in the cave, all talking at once and no one listening to the other fellow. I thought at first it was a ladies' aid meeting but the guide pointed out several bulls, each surrounded by his harem. We got up to within forty or fifty feet of the closest and I would judge that the bulls were about ten feet in length and would weigh something in excess of a ton, though the guide informed me that bulls have been known to achieve a weight of 7500 pounds. There was one visitor from California, easily distinguished by the fact that California sea lions are black while Oregon has the cream colored variety.

Marshfield on Coos Bay is now the main coast city as it is the headquarters for a large lumbering industry. Just a few miles to the east, at Coquille, is in my opinion the beauty spot of Oregon. Many madrona trees and an occasional redwood can be seen here but the dominant note of charm lies in the multitude of myrtle. February 25th strawberries, blackberries and apple trees were in bloom in this section. I had the good fortune to cross the coast range at several places and was much interested in the distinct cleavage between vegetative and timber types on the two sides of the mountains, for the coast range is nothing like the Cascades for altitude and a mountain pass in the coast range will often be under two thousand feet. The coast is lined with towns and resorts. The two main towns between Coos Bay and Astoria are Newport and Waldport; however, in the main the towns and beach resorts are unimpressive if not outright depressive and subtract from rather than enhance the beauties of the drive.

Oregon timbermen have done all they could to make the coast region resemble what hell may be like when it cools off a little. After cremating 25 to 40 per cent of the timber, fire has been allowed to complete the devastation. There is one bright spot, in that most of the land is supporting a fair to good crop of reproduction and should fire be kept out, we will have another crop between two and four hundred years from now.

Trips inland are worth while. The Three Rivers country is noted for its fishing. Tillamook, the Denmark of America, is famous for its cheese. Vast meadows support herds of Holstein, Guernsey and other breeds of bossies. Folks here speak of "so many cows to the acre of land," which to an east sider sounds odd, for here it takes a right good number of acres to support a cow. While poor "Lo" seems to be gone entirely from the land he left the paleface a rich legacy of Indian nomenclature for all geographic features of the country from Tillamook north to the Columbia.

Just south of Astoria is a rich agricultural country, which gives the impression of a section of the Netherlands. Much of the land is dyked and considerable areas are in bulb crops for the cut flower markets. Only the windmills, wooden shoes and baggy breeches are needed to complete the picture.

Easter tide.

At the near approach of Easter-tide, when is especially remembered the triumphant overcoming of death by the Lord Christ, in His glorious resurrection it seems timely to pay close attention to the drawing near of the instrument of not only death, but also the symbol of life; the assurance of every sinner's safety for eternity, if the sinner will accept and avail himself or herself of the provision made, the Cross, whereon the Prince of Glory died. And so, on the coming Lord's Day and for the evening service, special attention is to be given to the events preceding Easter, resurrection day, and the topic for the evening sermon will be "THE ADJACENT CROSS." For the morning sermon the topic will be the question of many diverse opinions, "CHRIST'S SECOND COMING."

If you have not a Church home, we invite you to come and worship with us; you are welcome to come and test the invitation of this friendly church.

Remember the Passion Week Union services in the Methodist church beginning Monday, March 26, and continuing each evening at 7:30 o'clock until Friday. Do not miss any of these services.
