

Local Happenings

Billy and David Hynd were visited in Heppner Monday. The Hynd brothers have finished with the shearing of their flocks and will this week begin trailing the sheep to the summer ranges. They will take six bands into the high country, two going to the Freezout ranch, two to Ukiah and two into the higher mountains. The boys stated that their wool had all gone out to Portland, but that they had heard nothing from it, the longshoremen's strike in the city holding up the delivery at the terminal there. Hynd brothers will also summer their cattle at the Ukiah ranch, the bands having been delivered there the past week.

James M. Burgess, formerly superintendent of Heppner schools, has been elected as superintendent of McLaughlin high school at Milton-Freewater. He was with the Heppner schools for a little over three years, resigning his position here to go into the office of the state superintendent at Salem where he has had supervision of the high school department. We congratulate Mr. Burgess upon his securing the headship of the big school at Milton.

Mrs. Clara Beamer had the misfortune of driving her newly purchased automobile into the creek in front of her home Saturday. In making a turn in the street she had to drive near the bank and failed to keep proper control, when the car went over the bank some ten feet or more to the creek bottom. No damage was done to the machine and Mrs. Beamer escaped uninjured. It took the wrecker some little time to get the car out of the ditch, however.

George McDuffee is home this week from a journey into Baker and Grant counties, and over that way found more interest being taken in the primary election that has been apparent here. He was impressed by the sentiment for Loneragan, at any rate his candidacy seemed to be more prominent than any of the others.

J. Logie Richardson, local abstractor, was in Portland over the week end, returning to Heppner Monday. He reports that the strike of dock workers on the Portland waterfront is creating a very serious situation in the shipping at that port. Mr. and Mrs. Jason Biddle were Rhea creek residents shopping in Heppner on Saturday. Mr. Biddle is well convinced that some more good showers of rain are needed in his locality to insure a respectable yield of grain.

HARDMAN

By LUCILLE FARRENS

Our town was practically deserted last Sunday with most everyone gone to hear in person the Arizona Wranglers. About sixty-five from here attended. All were high in their praise of the Wranglers that they had heard over the air so much.

THE Hehisch

Published by the Journalism Class of HEPPNER HIGH SCHOOL.

STAFF
Editor—Francis Nickerson
Reporters: Evin Perilberg, Louis Gilliam, Bill Schwarz, Jennie Swendig, Francis Rugg.

Editorial
This is the last issue of the Hehisch for this school year. The custom of publishing the Hehisch in the Gazette Times was started two years ago. Prior to that time the high school paper was printed on mimeograph sheets every other week, or a mimeographed annual was published every year and contained all the important events of the school season. However, two years ago, the Gazette Times offered to run the Hehisch or a column with each weekly issue.

The publishing of this paper is for the purpose of giving the members of the junior English class, which is a class in journalism, an opportunity for practical work. The members of the junior English class appreciate the opportunity given them by the Gazette Times to publish currently the school news and to gain practical experience obtained through publishing the Hehisch.

Banquet Given
The dining room of the Christian church was transformed by the junior class, last Saturday evening, into a dining room of a trans-oceanic steamer. A steamer that was to carry the seniors out into the sea of Life.

The color scheme of the affair was blue and white, junior class colors. Blue and white sailor-boy place cards and a small blue ship at every place corresponded perfectly with the senior class motto, "Sail on."

Interesting talks were presented by members of the faculty, the school board, the student body, and the honor guests.

Wins Contest
Paul McCarty won the eighth grade oratorical contest, an annual event, sponsored by the American Legion, last Friday, with his well directed discussion of National Recovery before the high school and seventh and eighth grade assemblies. Robert Baker's oration on "The President's NRA" won second place. James Moyer and Vernon Knowles were the other contestants. The awards will be presented along with the awards to the winners of the girls' essay contest which is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, at the eighth grade graduation exercises, May 22nd.

Benzine Ring News
Tonight (Thursday) the Benzine Ring will celebrate its last meeting by a scientific picnic. Each member is requested to bring a guest.

Members of the Benzine Ring assembled in their hall of mystery last Thursday night to explore a few of the mysteries in science. Expansion of metals in relation to temperature was demonstrated by the physics department. The chemistry department analyzed a test tube of milk, producing fat and sugar. After the experiments, the club went on an imaginary journey illustrated by slides of physical geography, which closed the evening's program.

To the Benzine Ring: Why does a dog bark at the moon? Curious Student.

To the Curious Student: if your mental faculties equalled the dog's, you'd bark at the moon, too.

Picnic to be Held
The annual student body picnic will be held next Tuesday at Kelly prairie. Francis Nickerson, student body president, announced before the assembly last Monday. Committees to arrange for food, games and transportation were appointed for the picnic.

Class News
The civics class has completed the text and is now reviewing for examinations.

The American History class has finished the book and is now reviewing. For their term projects, several of the students have given oral reports on various historical events.
