TUBERCULOSIS TEST MAY BE HELD HERE

Margaret Gillis, Nurse
with State Association,
Explains to Lions.

METHOD HELD SAFE

Skin-Testing Campaign to Assist in Controlling "White Plague"; Good Results Had.

Tuberculosis, the once dreaded "white plague," is preventable and long strides have been made toward its complete eradication in Oregon. Miss Margaret Gillis, nurse with the Oregon State Tuberculosis association, told the Heppner Lions club at its Monday luncheon. Constant vigilance and unceasing work have been the means of lowering Oregon's death rate from tuberculosis to the lowest rate in any of the states, Miss Gillis said.

Miss Gillis was in the county to make a check-up of the skin-testing campaign made for the Boardman and Irrigon communities last February, and explained the nature of this test which it hoped to carry out at Heppner for the rest of the county shortly after school opens in the fall. By this test the presence of tuberculosis in the individual is determined and steps prescribed where necessary.

The skin test by which tuberculosis is revealed is simple and safe, Miss Gillis said. It consists of injecting a clear serum between the layers of the skin in the front forearm just below the elbow. If positive reaction to the test is shown, a red spot appears where the serum is injected. Such reaction does not mean the presence of active tuberculosis, but does call for a further examination.

Positive reactors are asked to have x-ray pictures taken of the chest. These pictures reveal to a qualified doctor whether the reactor has an arrested case, and whether a further examination is necessary. Dr. Bellinger, head of the state tuberculosis hospitals and one of the outstanding authorities on tuberculosis, reads the x-ray pictures and himself does much of the follow up work. It was to prepare for a visit of Dr. Bellinger to the Irrigon and Boardman sections that Miss Gillis was here the first of the week.

If the x-ray pictures reveal cases where personal examination is deemed necessary, a capable chest specialist, such as Miss Gillis, is sent into the field to obtain histories of such cases to assist the examining physician in determining future treatment. If the nature of the case is such as to demand it, application is made for care at one of the state tuberculosis hospitals.

The state tuberculosis association has taken the lead in conducting the skin-test clinics, through which a number of active cases of tuberculosis have been uncovered and proper treatment given. The association provides the services of the nurse, and local physicians generally cooperate in giving the test and in taking the x-ray pictures, with no cost to the children examined except for the pictures. The service is made possible through the annual sale of Christmas Seals. Miss Gillis said that fine cooperation was had at Irrigon and Boardman, and the Lions gave assurance that good cooperation would be given if the tests are made here.

The matter of obtaining recognition for the Heppner-Spray road in the expenditures of federal road funds recently received by the state was also discussed by the club, and it was expected to use the club's influence in seeing that the cause was represented before the meeting of the state highway commission next Saturday.

NICKERSON-HAYES.

Miss Adele Nickerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Nickerson, was married on Sunday afternoon at All Saints' Episcopal church to Mr. Wm. C. Hayes of Etowah, Alabama. Rev. M. G. Tennyson, Episcopal minister, performed the ceremony in the presence of immediate members of the bride's family. Mrs. Hayes, a graduate of Heppner high school with the class of 1932, recently completed a beauty course in Portland and opened Adele's Beauty Shoppe here about a month ago. She is a popular member of Heppner's younger set. Mr. Hayes is a young engineer who came to Heppner recently as a member of the federal coast and geodetic surveying crew who have been at work in this vicinity. As soon as Mr. Hayes' work is completed here, the young couple expect to go to Washington, D. C. They have the well wishes of a host of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Noerenberg and two sons, spent Tuesday night with the C. W. Smith family. Mr. Noerenberg is a brother of Mrs. Smith, and owner of the Centralia Tribune, a weekly newspaper in Centralia, Wash., and during the past session of congress was secretary to Senator Dill. They were on their way from Washington, D. C., to Spokane to visit other relatives.

DAIRYING IS TOPIC AT GRANGE MEET

Field Day at Cool Farm Sunday
Well Attended; Cox and Smith
Speak on Program.

"All of the free ice cream you can eat" has been heard by many a boy and girl, however, it is our guess that last Sunday was one of the very few times that this has been a reality when W. C. Cox, manager of the Morrow County Creamery lived up to his promise and supplied free ice cream to all who attended the Willows grange annual picnic at the H. E. Cool farm near Ione.

How to get better prices for butter and increase the consumption were the topics discussed by Mr. Cox and by C. W. Smith, county agent. It was brought out that the butter made in Oregon would be worth three-quarters of a million dollars more per year at present quotations if it were all sold on the basis of official wholesale quotations for 92 score butter, than if it were all sold on the basis of 89 score quotations. When higher prices are received by the creamery it naturally can distribute more back to the producers. The producer of the butter fat and the butter maker must work hand in hand in making good butter. The producer's part is to furnish good cream to the creamery and the butter maker must apply his knowledge and skill in making the highest quality butter possible from the cream. The buttermaker cannot be expected to make high quality butter that will bring top price unless he has good materials to work with. Cleanliness of the cows and the milk and the various utensils as well as prompt cooling of the milk are fundamental if good butter is to be made.

Dairy utensils used should be scrubbed with hot water containing soda washing powders and not soap which is ordinarily used by the housewife.

Cardinal points to be observed in producing cream from which high quality butter can be made are: Strong-flavored feeds should not be fed to cows shortly before milking; keep healthy cows; keep cows clean; wipe udders with a clean, damp cloth before milking; screen the barn and milk house; the milkers' hands should be washed and dried by a clean towel before milking; use clean, sterile utensils; wash and sterilize the separator twice daily; cool the cream promptly by setting can in flowing water; cover the cream cans with a clean towel to keep out foreign objects; keep the cream at a temperature below 50 F. if possible; use well-tinned, sanitary utensils; keep the cream in a pure atmosphere; keep the utensils in a clean, well-ventilated place; the cream should contain 32 to 35 percent fat; and deliver the cream to the creamery before it turns sour.

Members of the 4-H clubs of the Ione district contributed several numbers to the program and horse shoe pitching was the main sport of the day. A good crowd of strangers and their friends was present.

Ill Luck Trails Family of Local Farm Operator

A streak of ill luck seems to be trailing the family of A. W. Gammell of this city. On Sunday, while hauling hay in from the field, Mr. Gammell was run over by the loaded wagon and his left leg broken. The injury was between the ankle and knee, both bones being broken twice. His injuries were promptly cared for by a physician and he is getting along as well as could be expected.

In the latter part of March the infant daughter of Edna Piatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gammell, who resides in California, died. On the 13th day of June her husband was killed in a truck accident and Edna is now bereft of both child and husband. A letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Gammell on Tuesday contained the information that their son, Floyd, was at the Veterans hospital in Walla Walla and was to be operated on that day for appendicitis. Truly troubles are not coming singly to this family.

REPUBLICANS ORGANIZE.

The republican central committee for Morrow county met at the court house in Heppner last Saturday and perfected its organization for the fall political campaign. S. E. Notson was made chairman, C. J. D. Bauman, secretary; Guy L. Barlow, W. W. Luckman, L. L. Beach, Henry E. Peterson and Walter W. Luckman, members of the nominating committee; C. J. D. Bauman, state central committeeman, and A. C. Houghton, congressional committeeman.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Huston enjoyed a visit over the week end from W. W. Stewart and Mrs. Loretta Davis, brother and sister of Mrs. Huston who were here from their homes in Albany. Mrs. Ada Bloom, another sister of Mrs. Huston, had been a guest in the Huston home for a week. They returned home on Sunday via Heppner-Spray road and McKenzie pass and were accompanied as far as the mouth of Service creek by Mr. and Mrs. Huston and the party enjoyed dinner together there before separating. Mr. and Mrs. Huston returned home through Condon and Arlington.

Jack Terry, Former Rodeo Star, Meets Near Death

Jack Terry, who followed blacksmithing here for several years and who won the bucking championship for two years at the Heppner Rodeo, was terribly injured on Decoration Day when the boom of a derrick he was moving at his home near Stockton, Cal., hit a high tension electric line, sending 7000 volts through his body, according to word received by friends here. He is at Room 105, St. Joseph's hospital, Stockton, receiving the best of care, but will not be able to walk for at least four months.

Doctors call Jack the "Miracle Man" for being still alive after taking the high voltage which burned his feet and hands to the bone. He underwent an operation on the 19th for the removal of the dead flesh from the feet, which left little of the feet but bone. The doctor was afraid for a time he would lose the right foot, but was encouraged as the poison drained from Jack's system. Skin grafting on the feet was to be started Saturday. It is likely Jack's buckaroo days will be over, even though recovery is complete. Meantime his Heppner friends will be pulling for him strong.

SPRAY ROAD GAP MAY BE CLOSED

Tentative Allocation of Federal Funds Gives Local Road Funds to Finish Grade and Surface.

Tentative allocation of federal secondary highway funds by the Oregon State Highway commission calls for $35,000 for completion of the Heppner-Spray road, according to information received in Heppner this morning. The amount of $35,000 is based upon estimates by the engineers of the commission, and it is expected would be sufficient to complete the grade and surfacing of the road.

Final decision on the allocation of funds will be made by the commission at its meeting in Portland next Monday, and it is expected there will be a delegation from Heppner present to urge the completion of the road. In line with the recently announced policy of the commission to use the allotment of federal money to complete roads now nearly finished before starting new projects, it is believed the Heppner-Spray road will receive favorable consideration of the road body. In case the tentative allocation is made officially it is expected the contracts for grading and surfacing will be awarded immediately and work will be started within a few weeks.

Tales of Old Times

BY J. W. REDINGTON
pioneer editor of the "Gazette" writing from National Military Home, California.

Uncle Charlie Wallace had a happy, hospitable home up on Balm Fork, and he and his good wife, Aunt Abigail, always welcomed us when we dropped in to stay all night, on our way to hunt bear up in the Blue Mountains. One night as we sat around in the big front room, and the conversation rather slowed up, Judge Dutton asked Uncle Charlie how many cows he had now.

"We-e-e, let's see," said Charlie. "I sold ten cows to Professor Kennedy, ten to Will Morrow, three to Butcher Bill, and one to John Redington, five to Tom Quaid, two to Bill Leezer, and—let's see, some to somebody else, and—well, I can't remember. But the books will show."

And Aunt Abigail, the good wife, chimed in with:

"Why, Charles, you know that you never kept a book in your life! So, we let it go at that, and Jim Fuller changed the subject."

"Don't shoot the squaws, boys," said Captain English, as the battle raged among the lodges of the hostile Nez Percés at the Big Hole battle. Just then a big squaw raised the flap of a lodge and took a pot shot at the Captain. She shot high, so that the bullet went through the hat instead of lower down.

Professor Kennedy, phenologist, came to our town and gave free lectures but charged $5 for an examination and a chart of your head bumps. He figured out that my bumps showed special talent for engineering and sizing up distances—for instance, I could walk right over to a window sill and put my finger on the exact center. I insisted on trying it, and he said there! You struck it exactly! But I also insisted on testing it with a tape measure, and found I was seven inches off. But the rest of the bumps were bumpious, and I must have consulted that chart as much as three or four times. And where is it now? Yes, where?

Demurrers filed in the cases of the state vs. Gay M. Anderson, county clerk, charged with larceny of public funds, and the state vs. W. G. McCarty, R. W. Turner, R. A. Thompson, R. I. Thompson and C. N. Jones, directors of Heppner Farmers Elevator, charged with illegal operation of a public warehouse, will be heard before Judge Knowles, circuit judge for Union county, at La Grande next Saturday. Frank J. Lonergan of Portland will argue the Anderson demurrer, while J. J. Nys, J. O. Turner and P. W. Mahoney, local attorneys, will represent the elevator directors. Francis Wade, assistant attorney general, will represent the state in both cases.

Would Learn Story of Doughboy and Dollar Bill

What kind of a story could this dollar bill tell, had it the power of speech?

J. D. Cash, J. C. Penney Co. manager and an active member in the local post American Legion, has the bill, taken in the regular channel of trade at his store this week. It is one of the large, old-time issue bills which circulated before Uncle Sam started to conserve paper by issuing the later, more petite size. Written with ink on its back is the inscription, "Samaur, France—R. E. LaGreve, 309 Residence, Albany, Ga.—Sept. 6, 1918."

No doubt R. E. LaGreve was an American doughboy in Saurmur, France on Sept. 6, 1918, a little more than two months before the armistice was signed. As to the circumstances under which the bill was inscribed, one may only guess until the story is learned, as Mr. Cash hopes it will be when he puts the American Legion Monthly on its trail.

BIG G. O. P. PICNIC SLATED FOR 8TH

20,000 Republicans From Over State Expected to Attend Affair at Jantzen Beach, Portland.

Portland, June 27.—(Special)—If the advance sale of tickets is any criterion, at least 20,000 Republicans from all parts of Oregon will be in attendance at the Republican club's state-wide picnic at Jantzen Beach park in Portland, Sunday, July 8.

According to officials of the outing, reservations for tickets have been received from all sections of the state and a large throng of party members, residing outside of Portland, is expected to be among those present.

The picnic is the first move of a concerted campaign by Republican leaders to revive interest and create harmony and unity within the party ranks. Britt Nedry, president of the Oregon Republican clubs, left Portland today for a tour of the western sector of the state to stimulate interest in the forthcoming affair and to assist in organizing Republican club chapters in the various towns. He planned to visit all communities in the Willamette valley, southern Oregon, and coastal districts before returning to Portland.

The picnic program committee has scheduled a long list of events for the entertainment of the visitors. The honored guests for the occasion will be Oregon's delegation in congress and leading party nominees. All will be introduced and will deliver brief talks.

"If success is to be obtained in the general election, the party must be marshalled into an undivided army," Mr. Nedry stated at a recent meeting of Republican leaders. "We hope to accomplish this by means of forming chapters throughout the state and are holding the picnic for the purpose of launching our organizing drive. Every Republican who is able should attend this fronting, and observe at first hand the men who aspire to bear the party standards in the coming election."

Ralph Hamilton, former speaker of the Oregon House, is general chairman of the executive committee in charge of the picnic and Sam Wilderman and John H. Hall are serving as vice-chairmen. State Senator F. M. Francisovich of Astoria will be master of ceremonies.

James Hart Dies Suddenly At Los Angeles Yesterday

The news was received by the relatives at Heppner early this morning announcing the sudden death at Los Angeles, about 4:00 o'clock p. m. Wednesday, of James Hart, brother of Mrs. Melissa Marlett and Mrs. Ellen Schwarz. His death was doubtless caused by a heart attack, as for some years past Mr. Hart has been afflicted with heart trouble.

Definite arrangements for the funeral had not been made as we go to press, but the relatives here expect that the body will be brought to Heppner for interment. Mr. Hart was long a resident of this community and engaged in business here for many years. He grew up here and was a graduate from the local high school. For the past twenty-five years he has followed the hotel business, having worked for Phil Metchan of the Imperial hotel in Portland, as steward, later going to Longview, Wash., where he held a similar position with the Monticello hotel, and during the past several years he has been with the Roosevelt hotel at Hollywood, which is under the management of the same man for whom Mr. Hart worked at Longview. At the time of the opening of the Hotel Heppner, Mr. Hart was in charge, and his management of the new hostelry proved his ability as a hotel man. The many friends of Mr. Hart here will be grieved to learn of his demise.

WHEAT SURVEY TO BE FINISHED BY JULY 16

Work of Field Crews in This County Drawing to a Close.

AERIAL SURVEY OUT

Allotment Acreages Generally Running Under Farmers' Estimates; Reduction Placed at 15 Pct.

The wheat allotment acreage survey for Morrow county is being rapidly closed up, and it is expected that by July 16th all farm areas under production control will have been measured, according to reports coming from the office of the Morrow County Wheat Production Control association. Nine field crews are measuring the land and the acreages are being computed in the production control office. Farmers are asked to come to the office and fill out the certificates of compliance. It would be well for each grower to wait five or six days after the farm supervisor visits his ranch before calling to fill the compliance certificates, in order to be sure that his acreage figures have been completed.

Most of the acreages are running under the farmers' estimates. From the acreages that have been figured, it looks as though there has been more than a fifteen percent reduction throughout the entire county. Most of the estimates as given in by the farmers are fairly accurate and show that they had a very good idea as to the number of acres their fields contained.

Contrary to newspaper reports Morrow county is not going to use the aerial method of measuring the wheat lands, due to the fact that so many of the farmers started their harvesting operations before authorization was given by the office of the Wheat Section in Washington that the aerial survey would be permitted.

Owners' proof of compliance have been sent to landowners who live outside of the county and it is hoped that these will be returned in time so that clearance sheets can be sent to Washington, D. C., by July 25.

N. C. Donaldson, state wheat agent, is now on the job assisting the association officials in the mid-Columbia territory in interpreting the rulings as laid down by the Washington office.

Morrow Grain Growers Lease Local Warehouse

Heppner Farmers Elevator company warehouse in this city was this week leased to Morrow County Grain Growers, Inc., the papers in the transaction being passed Wednesday.

J. E. Swanson will be manager of the local institution along with the other property of the association, with a local man in charge here. Announcement has not yet been made as to whom the local manager will be. It is understood that all lease money will be turned into the hands of the trustees for the benefit of the creditors of the Farmers Elevator company.

The warehouse and elevator property has been operated the past year by Ralph Jackson of Lexington with Warren Blakely as the resident manager.
