Official Paper for Morrow County. MEMBER OREGON STATE ASSOCIATION OF EDITORS.

SCIENTIFIC SYSTEM OF FIGURING.

WE ARE again indebted to Mr. R. E. Harbison of Cottage Grove for submitting an editorial with the above caption taken from the Eugene Morning News, an estimable newspaper whose managing editor, John W. Anderson, is one of the leading young journalistic lights of the state.

While this newspaper has always been republican minded, it has felt kindly toward the attempts of President Roosevelt and his brain trust to improve conditions, and there may yet be found some median at which man-made and God-made laws may meet to keep the country on a more even keel, economically.

Here's what the Eugene News editor has to say about it: "What we are pleased to call 'hard times' is essentially a term for a group of conditions included in a cycle starting with overproduction and a slowing down of consumption, with the attendant loss of gainful employment due to both of these factors."

For many centuries these periods of depression recurred. They came centuries before we had as many economic experts as we have today, and before the arrival of the age of machinery and the other factors which have been blamed within the past four years, for overproduction.

Economic experts can, at best, analyze what has happened and suggest a cure for the future. Machinery can translate into a complex article, incorporating many materials, only what nature has produced. When production has been abundant the cost has declined and vice versa.

Such theories as to the cause of "hard times" are pretty well established in the minds of the public and yet, knowing these facts, we still meet with the regular cycle of depression throughout the world. In every such period we hear of a famine or a surfeit of grains and other crops produced from the soil. At one time crops are grown so abundantly that the farmer cannot sell his grains for enough to purchase other necessities of life. At other times his crops are so poor that he again cannot purchase necessities—two situations resulting from two opposite causes.

Such periods have been known to us during many centuries, and yet no satisfactory solution has been found for them, even with our scientific and complex system of determining everything. One thing our scientific system hasn't been able to determine is why the farmer did not share in our last period of prosperity. During the war he was relatively as prosperous as anybody. He felt so prosperous, in fact, that he expanded far beyond his means and adopted production and business methods which have since proved ruinously elaborate. Wiser farmers have been able, by judiciously trimming, to manage in spite of the low prices that caught many of their fellows. The wisest farmers were those who earned the scorn of their neighbors by sticking to the frugal farm policies of the pre-war days. They have had less mortgage trouble and it has not been necessary for them to go through the painful scaling-down process. However, they did not enjoy the benefits of higher living standards and they contributed much less to the flow of loose money.

HARDMAN By LUCILLE FARRENS

This place was practically deserted on the Fourth, most of the people motoring to nearby towns for celebrations. Quite a number went to Ukiah and among these were Roy Ashbaugh and family, Clair Ashbaugh and family, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Johnson, Bud and Lola Cannon, Gladys Lovgren, Gus and Elmer Steers, Charlotte and Forest Adams, Raymond Blahm, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lovgren, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Leathers and Junior, Ed McDaniel, Delsie and Pat Bleakman, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Johnson and Rita Dell and Miss Zetta Bleakman enjoyed a motor trip to Blue Mountain springs. The evening of July 4th several enjoyed the water, going over in the B. H. Bleakman car were Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Bleakman, Mrs. Raymond MacDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Steers, Ted Burnside, Lucille Farrens and Leon Chapin. Most of those who kept the home fires burning enjoyed family gatherings and dinners. Mr. and Mrs. Wes Stevens and family, Mr. and Mrs. Irl Clary and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Adams enjoyed a bountiful dinner and pleasant gathering at the Stevens home. Mr. and Mrs. Buck Adams had as their guests their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Burnside.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Johnson came over from Kinzua Sunday for a short visit with friends, being dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leathers. Mr. and Mrs. Carey Hastings and daughter Yvonne arrived home the middle of last week from Browning, Montana, where he was employed with a shearing crew.

Pirl Howell was in our city Sunday talking car sales. Miss Nora Bleakman was visiting her aunt, Mrs. C. H. McDaniel, last week.

Orin McDaniel was a caller in town Sunday. Harold Stevens spent Sunday with the home folks.

Mrs. B. H. Bleakman, C. H. McDaniel and Frank McDaniel received a telegram Sunday night announcing the serious illness of their mother, Mrs. Lydia McDaniel of Spirit Lake, Idaho.

Estin Stevens and Ad Inskeep spent Sunday with home folks from the Emert ranch near Ione. They report that during the week the Emerts lost their combine by fire while the machine was in operation in the wheat field, and twenty acres of grain was also destroyed. Men and horses on the combine escaped injury.

LaVerne Adams, aged four, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Adams, barely escaped fatal injury when he ran in front of a passing car on the highway Sunday afternoon. The little fellow was with his sister, Mrs. Ted Burnside, on the street when he ran out in front of the car. The quick action of the driver kept the machine from striking the lad, but the escape was a narrow one.

Mrs. Blaine Chapel is now domiciled in her rooms in the hotel building. Floyd Adams was taken to the hospital in Heppner Sunday afternoon, ill with an attack of appendicitis. He was in the mountains with his sheep at the time, getting the lambs separated for shipment. He is improved at this time, an operation being considered unnecessary.
