Shovel, Axe and Bucket Requirement Effective

A shovel, axe and one-gallon water container must be included in the equipment of campers entering the national forests of Oregon and Washington by pack train, automobile, or other vehicle, if they wish to obtain a campfire permit, according to Regional Forester C. J. Buck, Portland, Oregon.

Campfire permits can be obtained free of cost at any ranger station and are required where campfires are to be built at any place other than designated campgrounds.

"This regulation has been in effect for the past two years, from July 1 to September 30. Forest users as a whole have cooperated excellently in carrying out this requirement and it has proved to be a definite factor in curtailing man-caused forest fires," said Mr. Buck.

Enrollment Large at 1934 Summer Session

Eugene, Ore.—Enrollment at the University of Oregon summer session neared the 600 mark at the end of the second week, when the total climbed to 576. Since there is no penalty for late registrations, several students are expected to complete registration in the near future.

This is a marked increase over the total of last summer, when the number reached 450. Other state institutions holding summer sessions also show an increase, it is stated. With 590 students enrolled early in the Portland session, special and regular student late enrollments are expected to bring this total to 800.

Growing interest in specialized fields of education, especially those concerned with teaching children with learning difficulties, is indicated at Eugene, where the class in psychology of typical children under Dr. B. W. DeBusk leads all others with an enrollment of 60. Two other courses, one in secondary education and the other in educational psychology, have 46 members each.

68 YEARS ... a yardstick of confidence

68 years of continued growth in Oregon and with Oregon is the best measure of the position The First National Bank of Portland fills in the state today.

Organized in the early days when Heppner was a frontier settlement, this bank has always been closely linked with the progress of Oregon. In 1865 Heppner pioneers traveled days in covered wagons or on horseback to do business with The First National Bank of Portland, then the only national bank in the Northwest.

We invite you to come in and get better acquainted with our local representatives. Whether you do business with The First National Bank or not, we would like to know you better and to have you better acquainted with us.
