

Local Happenings

Charles Becket, in town Sunday from the Eight Mile farm, reported harvest finished with an average yield of 12 bushels. Though the yield is much lighter than normal, it is considered good for the season. Floy Adams of Hardman entered the veterans hospital at Walla Walla the last of the week for treatment. Mr. Adams has suffered ill health since being hurt in a combine accident last fall.

C. J. D. Bauman and S. E. Notson returned on Tuesday from Portland. The sheriff was in the city attending the meeting of the state central committee of Oregon republicans, while the district attorney was looking after some legal matters. Incidentally, he took in the republican meeting also and witnessed the proceedings as that body went into action for a new set up.

Feeling pretty good over the victory of last week, W. O. Dix issued a challenge to all comers for a series of six croquet games. Tom Humphreys accepted the challenge for Monday evening and laid the challenge in the shade, playing the game on the Stanley Minor court. Whether the challenge still stands, we have not been informed, but other battles are in prospect.

Mrs. O. T. Ferguson left yesterday for the home near Gold Beach after visiting here for several weeks. She was accompanied by her grandson, Dickie Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ferguson. Mr. Ferguson will remain here for a time to look after business interests.

Mrs. Joel R. Benton was taken to Portland on Thursday last in the Phelps ambulance, and is now under the care of a physician in the city. Mrs. Benton has been ill for some time, but from latest reports she is improving. Mr. Benton is in Portland with his wife.

Walter Bray was in town Monday from the farm down Umatilla way, bringing over some choice peaches for disposal on the local market. He reported the peach crop as fair in his vicinity. He usually has a large quantity of melons, but the crop this year was poor.

Mrs. Lucy E. Rodgers returned home Monday evening after spending two weeks at Salem and Portland attending educators' meetings. She accompanied Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McNamer who motored to Portland Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Bleakman were visitors last week at the home of Mr. Bleakman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bleakman. They have been near Yakima where Mr. Bleakman has a position on highway work.

Leonard Carlson was a visitor in the city Tuesday from the Gooseberry farm. He reported harvest finished with an average of 12 bushels to the acre, one field of 100 acres going 14 bushels.

J. O. Turner finished with the combining of his wheat on the farm north of Swaggart buttes Wednesday, and reports a fair yield for this season, the grain going about 8 bushels to the acre.

Harlan J. Devin writes this paper that he is nicely situated at Condon and likes his place with the Safeway store there well, as he is beginning to make the acquaintance of the Condon folks.

Eel Musgrave was here from his Rhea creek ranch Wednesday. He raised some wheat on his place this season but the yield was light. Other crops, however, will be pretty good.

For sale or trade—One International hay loader in good condition, only slightly used. Will sell very reasonably or trade for what I can use. E. H. French, Hardman, 20-23

Lee Reaney of Salem was a visitor in Heppner on Saturday, looking after some business affairs. He is also visiting with friends and relatives at Lexington, his old home.

Fred Rood of Hillsboro and Fred Deshon of Portland, executors of the estate of the late Fannie Rood, were at Heppner Saturday on matters of business of the estate.

Dan Doherty and Barney McDevitt were visitors in town from Juniper canyon Saturday. It was showering some when they left home but the rain was light.

R. V. Jones was here Friday from Irrigon. He is now inspector under the code for watermelon producers of this district, and was here interviewing merchants.

Mrs. James G. Thomson, Jr., has returned home from Portland where she underwent an operation for appendicitis. She is convalescing quite nicely at present.

Ellis Thomson departed for Eugene Wednesday and will remain over the week end, taking in the Oregon Trail celebration and pageant.

Henry Smouse was in the city Monday from the north lone district. Harvest out his way is well over, with yields generally light.

Oregon Poultrymen Seek Aid in Disease Control

Oregon poultrymen have decided to wage a determined fight if necessary, first to get federal assistance in the working out of control of the disease coccidiosis, and then to convince state and national authorities of the importance of the poultry industry in research and other governmental programs.

This was decided at the eleventh annual convention just held at Oregon State college where plans were laid and money appropriated to this end by the Oregon Poultrymen's association which holds its annual meeting each year in connection with the convention.

Fred H. Cockell of Milwaukie reported on the progress so far toward getting a federal appropriation to center a national research project in coccidiosis control here in Oregon with Dr. W. T. Johnson, poultry pathologist at O. S. C., in charge. He said he finds that Dr. Johnson is unquestionably the outstanding authority in this country on this national problem, but that with the discontinuance of the state funds for this work the research is languishing.

Close to 300 men and women attended the one-day convention this year and heard a program crowded with educational addresses on production, disease control, and marketing.

Prospects are good for better price conditions for the coming six months or a year in eastern markets, according to H. E. Shackleton, assistant manager of the Pacific Egg Producers of New York, in charge of sales agency handling west coast eggs through the several cooperative concerns. He said western growers can maintain or even increase their present favorable differential over eastern producers if they will keep "one jump ahead" in their breeding, feeding and general production and standardization program as developed by their college and association leaders.

Morris Christiansen of McCoy was elected president for next year. L. E. Babe, McMinnville, vice-president, and F. L. Knowlton, Corvallis, secretary. Directors are Monroe Nance, Roseburg, and Mrs. W. H. Thompson, Canby.

MEDFORD FOLKS VISIT.

The came north by way of Crater Lake where they enjoyed a visit with a daughter and Mrs. Gladys Conder, both of whom are employed at the lake resort. Mr. Young is head janitor of Medford schools.

Picnic Pointers Given By Recreation Leader

No activity is more conducive to good fellowship and healthful recreation than a picnic, and almost any Oregon community can profit from at least one community picnic during the summer, says Miss Gertrude Skow, home demonstration agent at large, and author of a monthly recreation bulletin issued by the home economics division of the Oregon Extension service. The most recent of these publications, which is free on request, contains suggested programs, planning details, games and other entertainment features helpful to those in charge of a community picnic or for a smaller group.

For an all-day community outing, Miss Skow suggests the following order of events: Entertainment for the early arrivals, games before dinner, dinner, community singing, address, mixed games, and contests. It is usually best, she says, for the one in charge to appoint committees to care for entertainment, refreshments, grounds, attendance, clean-up, and probably another to be responsible for the entire program of the day.

A band or an orchestra is always enjoyed, but lengthy speaking or literary programs are to be avoided. It is well to plan for the entertainment and supervision of young children, including, if possible, a sand box with cups and dishes, and someone to teach them singing and games.

CANADA EASES DUTIES.
Ottawa, Canada, July 18.—An announcement of considerable interest to those contemplating a Canadian vacation is the recent modifying of the customs regulations on tourists' outfits. Outboard motors, tents, and camp equipment, on which a deposit has been required in the past, are now included with the articles that may be admitted free of either duty or deposit. Other articles in this class are guns and rifles, fishing tackle, golf clubs, tennis rackets and cameras. Complete information on such matters is contained in a leaflet "How to Enter Canada," issued by the National Parks of Canada, Department of the Interior, here.
