The trade of that day was responsible for large cargoes passing through Heppner stores destined for points inland, making a handsome business for several large stores here, and resulting besides in a wide circle of friendships for Heppner people with folk throughout the far-flung trade area.

Time has wrought many changes in the old relationship which Hepp-ner held to the inland. A better route to the outside world was for a time afforded the interior people by way of the John Day highway, and with better, all-year travel con-ditions, and the faster transportation afforded by motor vehicles, the

The spider builds its nest in dimly lighted places, generally in old toilets, garages and other out buildings. rough, coarse, irregular web is found under floors, in corners, between rafters, but especially under the floors of toilets, sheds, barns,

The black widow spider appears to cover the ground more quickly than the ordinary type of spider. It is apt to be aggressive and frequently attacks before it has been provoked to do so. The over-sized oison apparatus of the black widw spider makes it the most danerous of spiders.
