The Thirteenth Rodeo.

THIS afternoon will see the opening of Heppner's thirteenth consecutive annual Rodeo.
C. W. McNamer, L. V. Gentry and Chas. H. Latourell were the original incorporators of the association which staged the first show in 1921. Their vision and efforts resulted in the continuance and enlargement of Heppner's show, which has come to take its place among the popular shows in its class throughout the west.

None of the original incorporators is now connected with the show. Mr. McNamer who served as president constantly up to last year, has retired in favor of younger blood, though his interest has slackened only to the degree of giving up active management. Such, too, is the case of Mr. Latourell, who served on the board of directors throughout the time Mr. McNamer was president. Mr. Gentry has been called to the beyond, but in spirit he will ever be a part of the Rodeo. His was a large part in making the Rodeo by making possible the obtaining of the ground where the Rodeo is staged.

These men made the Rodeo possible. Today, tomorrow and Saturday will see the enlargement of their efforts resulting from the lessons learned each year in staging the show.

While mainly entertaining in purpose, the Rodeo is not without its virtue. Through rodeos, round-ups and cowboy conventions are preserved the sports and customs of the Old West—the things closely connected with the history of the development of Heppner and of Morrow county. The glamour and romance of former days is reflected for a time in the minds of the people who had a part in that development and preserved for oncoming generations.

It was a wild, adventurous spirit that claimed the west for civilization. And a wild, adventurous spirit still prevails among the men and women of the range lands where roam the cattle herds of today. It's the spirit of typical western America that pervades Heppner this Rodeo time.

BOARDMAN

By RACHEL J. BARLOW

This community has been saddened by the tragedy which occurred Thursday and was the cause of the death of Edward Compton, eighteen year old local boy, who passed away early Monday morning at the Pendleton hospital.

Late Thursday afternoon Edward and a friend from Umatilla were riding in the Compton motor boat on the Columbia river when the flywheel exploded throwing pieces of steel toward Edward who was nearest the motor. He was struck in the left leg above the knee by the flying pieces, tearing a very large hole in his leg, shattering several inches of the bone and cracking the knee; also his left thumb was cut off. His friend's right hand was badly mangled but he took off his shirt and used it as a tourniquet on Edward's leg and then rowed for shore near Coyote and ran for help. Men on the section were just quitting work and they carried Edward from the boat and Arthur Allen took him to Pendleton in his car. After arriving at the hospital it was nearly an hour before any doctor could be reached.

Although he was very weak from loss of blood and from the shock he was in good spirits at all times. But on Saturday evening blood poisoning set in his leg and it was necessary to amputate it, and he passed away at 2 a. m. Monday. His father, L. W. Compton, and sisters Dorothy and Virginia were with him. His mother who was in Los Angeles at the time of the accident arrived in Pendleton shortly after his death. Funeral services were held Wednesday in Umatilla at the Catholic church and interment was in Pendleton.

Edward would have been a senior in high school this year and was a leader among his friends, and will be greatly missed by all. He has lived in this community for over three years.

The community extends their deepest sympathy to the bereft family.
A large crowd of local and out of town folks attended the North Morrow County fair here last Friday and Saturday. Many exhibits were on display in all the divisions and much interest was especially shown in the horses. The checks will be ready for winners in a few days. Boardman people please ask for them at the Red & White store. The out of town checks will be mailed.

Mr. and Mrs. George Blayden enjoyed a motor trip last week with Mrs. Talbot of Calexico, Mrs. Anderson of New Plymouth and Louis Blayden of Vale. They visited in St. Joe, Walla Walla, Spokane and several other places. After their return to Boardman Mrs. Anderson and Louis Blayden returned to their respective homes; Mrs. Talbot accompanied the former.

Mrs. Leslie Packard has been elected as manager of the school cafeteria for the coming year.
Elmer Tyler received a badly cut hand last week while working. A piece of glass cut a large gash in the palm of his hand near his thumb. He was taken to Hermiston for medical aid where it was clamped shut.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman Messenger and family of Condon spent the week end here visiting at the J. F. Barlow and E. T. Messenger homes.
Mrs. Pearl McConkie and Art Madden motored to Meacham Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ingles returned to their home here Monday and are getting things in readiness for school which will open Monday, Sept. 3. Mr. and Mrs. Ingles have been attending the university at Eugene this summer.

Ruth King returned home last Thursday from the coast where she has spent the summer with relatives. Ruth has regained her health and will attend school here this year.

Reed La Londe visited for several days here last week with his brothers, Jack and Bill.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Johnson and Delbert of Wasco spent last Saturday in Boardman.

Miss Gladys Wilson of John Day is spending her vacation here at the home of her parents. Imogene Wilson who has been working at John Day this summer returned home with her and will remain here for school.

Marvin Ransier returned home last week from Echo where he has worked this summer. He plans to attend Pacific university at Forest Grove this fall.

Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Thomas and family returned home Wednesday from Waverly, Wash., where they spent their vacation at the home of Rev. Thomas' mother.

Eldon Wilson of La Grande spent Friday here with friends. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brown and Mabel returned with him and went on to Walla Walla where they enjoyed a few days camping.

T. E. Broyles and son-in-law of Colfax were Boardman visitors for several days last week. Mr. Broyles said the hard winds during the summer shattered out at least a third of the wheat, but reported that his made 25 bushels to the acre.

Miss Katherine Brown returned home Saturday from the University Educational tour. She was picked up June 13 at Pendleton and met the other crowd in Chicago at the World fair. From there they toured west in large busses, stopping at national parks and places of interest. After reaching Seattle they went south to Los Angeles and on to Fort Worth, Texas, there the tour ended. Miss Brown reported having a fine time and enjoying it all immensely.

IRRIGION

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Flamery and daughter Meredith and Mr. and Mrs. Burg of Yamhill visited the Warner families Monday as they were returning home from Idaho where they had been visiting relatives.
Otto Elsie who has been visiting in Portland returned this week, accompanied by his sister.

Mrs. Otto Barnes and daughter have gone for a visit with relatives in Idaho. Mr. Barnes is enjoying a visit with his son from Tillamook.

Due to the early season the North Morrow County fair which was held Friday and Saturday was not favored with many exhibits from the Irrigon section. Melon season being at its height the majority of those usually exhibiting were compelled to care for their stands. According to reports the fair was a huge success. Mrs. Fred Reiks carried off first prize for the individual farm booth.

James Warner who has been visiting relatives in Seattle is home again.
Mr. and Mrs. Jess Oliver and daughter Ethel who have been visiting at Chevalier, Wn., returned Thursday night.

W. C. Isom, and is being cared for by Mrs. Strader. Funeral services were held for the little one Tuesday at the cemetery. Rev. Payne of Hermiston officiating.
A 7½-lb. boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lamoreaux Thursday, August 23, at the home of Mrs. Emery Shell who is caring for her.

Diet of Oregon Trout Discussed in Bulletin

The bulk of the diet of cutthroat, rainbow and eastern brook trout found in Oregon streams and lakes consists of animal matter, and while they evidently prefer insects such as mayflies, stoneflies, caddisflies, midges and blackflies, they are known to eat crustaceans, spiders, water-mites, molluscs, fish, fish eggs, and occasionally earthworms, free-living nematodes, leeches, millipedes, centipedes, scorpions, frogs, snakes, birds and small mammals.

This fact, together with a great deal of detailed information on the eating habits of various kinds and sizes of Oregon trout, is contained in "A Preliminary Survey of the Food of Oregon Trout," a bulletin just issued by the Oregon State college experiment station. This publication is in the nature of a progress report on cooperative investigations undertaken by the station at the request of the Oregon State Game commission. It presents, however, basic knowledge valuable to sportsmen and to the game commission alike, leading to an ultimate study of the productivity of Oregon streams and lakes.

The survey so far has brought out, for instance, the fact that naturally selected food varies with the size of fish as well as the kind, indicating that hatchery reared fish of different sizes should be liberated in places along streams and in the parts of lakes where their natural food is present.

Although the major portion of the fish food investigations so far have been restricted to laboratory analyses of fish stomach contents, partial stream and lake surveys of fish foods in several sections of the state have been made, the bulletin says.

While these surveys were incomplete they nevertheless indicated that the amounts and kinds of fish food organisms vary greatly between different waterways. Some streams and lakes are so sparsely populated with fish food organisms that the planting of additional fish would be an unwise procedure. The majority of the waterways investigated, however, appear to have ample food organisms present. Fish food organisms were also found to vary in amounts and kinds along the courses of waterways.

Copies of the new publication may be obtained upon request from Oregon State college.

O.S.C. GRAD GETS POST.

An agricultural graduate of Oregon State college of this year has just been appointed to a position at the government experiment station in the Virgin Islands, part of the West Indies. Robert Nichols, who was graduated last June, will be horticulturist in the experiment station at Christiansted on St. Croix Island. His beginning salary will be $2800 a year, according to word received by G. R. Hyslop, who was his major professor at O. S. C.

Dallas—Many Polk county orchardists are convinced that the best time to plant cover crops is before the fall rains start, says County Agent J. R. Beck, as they have found that they get the best growth by seeding late in August. The cheapness of vetch seed this year offers an excellent opportunity for making use of this green manure crop, Mr. Beck says. The cost of a vetch cover crop will be less than $1 per acre, he believes, and in some cases not more than 75 cents if the seed is purchased before it is cleaned.
