Official Paper for Morrow County

MEMBER OREGON STATE EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION

After the Election.

THERE was probably more real rejoicing over the defeat of Upton Sinclair for governor of California than in any other single feature of the nation-wide voting last Tuesday. The race of Sinclair was watched with interest everywhere as it signified the outstanding fight for a drastically different form of government from that which is now in vogue the country over. That California was unwilling to support Sinclair's proposed experiment showed a predominance of sound thinking in that state, and that the news was acclaimed with general rejoicing is indicative that the nation as a whole is not yet ready to depart from those principles which have made the United States the most enlightened, most prosperous nation on the face of the globe.

That the nation as a whole gave President Roosevelt the greatest support any president has had since the time of Washington is not alarming to this newspaper. It will give the president free rein for the next two years in working out the program already adopted. So far the president has shown little inclination to deviate from tested governmental procedure in using the unlimited powers entrusted to him. In following that course he has gained the confidence of the American people, as so largely reflected in Tuesday's election. That the government's huge spending campaign also had a large effect in the voting, would be hard to deny. When the time comes for tightening the government purse strings, as it inevitably will, there will probably be a different reaction.

Those who see in the New Deal's victory an easy livelihood for themselves for the next two years thru government paternalism are likely to be disappointed. Already indications are shown that gratuitous government gifts are slackening. Such prosperity as will be had for the next two years will come largely through the application of the efforts of each and every individual throughout the nation, just as it has in the past.

The result of Tuesday's election is encouraging, in that it shows general confidence in the government. Such confidence is essential for people to have faith in the future returns from their capital and and from their labor. It is to be hoped that the wise application of both capital and labor will bring about a greater degree of general prosperity than has yet been experienced in the New Deal.

Emergency Small Grain Loans Until Nov. 15th

Farmers in 17 Oregon counties and in 5 counties in Washington may now obtain emergency loans to purchase winter seed oats in addition to winter seed wheat, rye or barley, according to the Farm Credit administration. The time for receiving applications in such counties has been extended to the close of business November 15, 1934.

Where late grain crops may still be undertaken farmers unable to obtain credit from other sources may apply to the local emergency crop and feed loan committee in their respective counties. The loans are made from the crop loan appropriation approved February 23, 1934, and secured by liens on the crops to be grown.

Since the loans are made from appropriated funds for emergency purposes they are handled only by the emergency crop and feed loan offices and not by any of the permanent financing institutions under the Farm Credit administration.

The loans are available in the following counties:

Oregon—Benton, Morrow, Sherman, Gilliam, Wasco, Jefferson, Wheeler, Umatilla, Polk, Marion, Linn, Lane, Clackamas, Yamhill, Washington, Multnomah, Columbia.

Washington—Clark, Skamania, Walla Walla, Spokane, Stevens.
