

LEXINGTON

By BEULAH NICHOLS

At the meeting of Lexington grange Saturday evening the following officers were elected for the coming year: Master, Orville Cutsforth; overseer, Norman Nelson; lecturer, Laura Rice; steward, E. A. Kelly; assistant steward, Merle Miller; chaplain, Alda Troedson; secretary, Lena Kelly; treasurer, R. B. Rice; gatekeeper, Foster Odom; Ceres, Frances Troedson; Pomona, Ellen Nelson; Flora, Jessie McCabe; lady assistant steward, Beulah Nichols; executive committee, George Peck, Harvey Bauman, Oral Scott.

This grange extended an invitation to all the other granges in the county to hold a joint installation in Lexington hall on Saturday evening, December 8th.

The grange, sponsors for the local Boy Scout troop, voted to present a silver loving cup to the Boy Scout who has the most outstanding record of achievement for the year. George Peck, Harry Dinges and Harry Schriever are on the Boy Scout committee.

Two members were given the obligations of the first and second degrees.

A special meeting of the grange will be held on Wednesday evening, November 21st, for the purpose of exemplifying the third and fourth degrees to a large class of candidates.

Proceeding the meeting an interesting program was presented by the lecturer, Laura Rice.

The annual Red Cross drive is under way in this city with Miss Dona E. Barnett as chairman of the local committee. Mrs. Elsie M. Beach and Mrs. Bertha Dinges are the other members of the committee. Lexington's quota this year is twenty-five members and the drive, which opened on Armistice day, will continue until Thanksgiving. The committee will be glad to have those desiring memberships to respond during this time as it is hoped that the response will be largely voluntary so that a house-to-house canvass will not be necessary. Those desiring memberships will probably be interested in knowing that fifty cents of each dollar received is retained by the local unit for work in this community.

Norman, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ruhl of this city, has received a bronze medal as an honorable mention award in the Sears, Roebuck & Co. national baby contest in which more than 1,000,000 baby pictures were entered. Georgina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted McMillan, also received an honorable mention award in this contest. The Home Economics club met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. A. Palmer with thirteen members and five visitors present.

Work was done on articles for the bazaar which will be held on Saturday, December 8th. The following committees will have charge of the arrangements for the bazaar: cooked foods, Emma Peck, Anne Miller and Hortense Martin; aprons, Emma White, Pearl Devine and Laura Rice; novelties, Anna Smouse, Bertha Nelson and Alda Troedson; linens, Myrtle Schriever, Margaret Miller and Pearl Gentry; candy, Alta Cutsforth, Beulah Nichols and Jessie McCabe; fortune telling, Bernice Bauman. Those present at the meeting were Mrs. L. A. Palmer, Mrs. Bertha Dinges, Mrs. Ethel Wilcox, Miss Muriel Patterson, Mrs. Myrtle Schriever, Miss Jessie McCabe, Mrs. Emma Peck, Mrs. Laura Scott, Mrs. Laura Rice, Mrs. Trina Parker, Mrs. Emma White, Miss Margaret Crawford, Mrs. Anna Smouse, Mrs. Geneva Palmer, Mrs. Clara Gillis, Mrs. Pearl Gentry, Mrs. Nancy McWaters and Mrs. Bertha Nelson. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George White on Thursday, November 22. This will be an all-day meeting with pot-luck dinner at noon. The Afghan which was made for the club is now on display at the county agent's office in Heppner.

The topics studied at the adult school Thursday night were citizenship and naturalization. On Monday night local governments and current events were studied. The class meets each Monday and Thursday evening at 7:30 at the school house. Anyone who wishes may attend.

Mrs. S. G. McMillan and Mrs. Vernon Munkers were hostesses on Thursday afternoon for a bridal shower at the McMillan home honoring Miss Ruth Luttrell, bride-elect. The guests included Minnie Leach, Opal Leach, Cora Warner, Lou Broadley, Anne Johnson, Laverne Henderson, Freda Slocum, Ruth McMillan, Millie Evans, Emma Evans, Nettie Davis, Ada Piper, Cecile Jackson, Margaret Leach, Mae Burchell, Mary McMurtry, Golda Leathers, Rhita Cutler, Kathryn Slocum, Pearl Shaw, Florence McMillan, Dona Barnett, Vera Whilcock and Marie Steagall. The hostesses served dainty refreshments at the close of a pleasant afternoon.

Herbert Williams, Dan Gillis and Ernest Tuller of Portland were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Gillis over the week end.

Mrs. Mae Burchell entertained a large number of her friends at a farewell party at her home Saturday night. Dancing and cards were enjoyed during the evening. The Burchell's expect to move to Heppner in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Densley of Richmond, niece and nephew of Mrs. J. E. Gentry, were guests at the Gentry home over Saturday night. The Densleys were on their way to Portland.

W. B. Tucker received the news Saturday of the death of his nephew,

Eternal Vigilance Required in Fight Against All of Childhood's Epidemics

Mother brings baby to the clinic where he is weighed and inspected for hidden defects by Red Cross nurse; the nurse on her daily rounds inspects a little boy who is "feeling badly."

DIPHTHERIA—that dread epidemic of childhood two decades ago—has almost been conquered, medical authorities inform us. Eternal vigilance still is practised against the disease, through immunization campaigns, and the world of medicine hopes that ultimately the dread plague will be as extinct as the yellow fever epidemics of the nineteenth century.

The American Red Cross played a major part in the eradication of both. As long ago as the 1880s a young Red Cross nurse—Jane Delano—led a corps of women nurses in the battles against yellow fever in the South. Today she is revered as America's Florence Nightingale, both because of her early exploits and because of her outstanding leadership as a World War nurse—a cause in which she sacrificed her life.

Red Cross nurses by the thousands have worked in the diphtheria eradication campaigns through assisting doctors in giving immunizations to school children. They first entered this work twenty years ago and still are carrying on in many hundreds of communities.

Epidemics of measles, whooping cough, scarlet fever and other illnesses considered minor evils by many still sweep our schools. Public health authorities and the nurse know that these should not be permitted, because any or all may leave weaknesses. The nurse is alert against infantile paralysis, which annually presents a problem in some section of the country. Against all of these the healthy, well-nourished child stands the best chance.

Child health preservation is a major program of the American Red Cross. How important the work of the nurse is in this respect may be judged from the fact that during the last twelve-month period Red Cross nurses inspected 629,000 school children and of this number found 261,000 with physical defects of varying degrees which had to be corrected if normal health were to be maintained.

Following the World War the Red Cross undertook the task of showing rural communities and smaller cities the value of the visiting nurse—a lesson already appreciated by many larger cities. Hundreds of nursing services were established and proved their value to the taxpayers, thus becoming publicly supported institutions. Many services continued under the auspices of the Red Cross, and today there are more than 750 Red Cross nurses still making their daily rounds carrying their vital knowledge of good health habits to mothers and children.

During the past year these nurses made more than a million visits to or in behalf of the sick. There is still a broad field where the public health nurse is unknown. That there is no more appealing service to which funds may be devoted was illustrated a few months ago when Will Rogers, the noted comedian, desiring to do some public service—but not for public acclaim—gave the Red Cross $25,000 with which to send public health nurses into communities without funds for this purpose.

One of the most effective weapons against the inevitable toll of childhood's ills and epidemics which the depression-years are visiting upon the country, is wielded by the Red Cross nurse in her constant visits in the communities where she is employed. The work of these Red Cross nurses is supported through the annual roll call for members Armistice Day to Thanksgiving. Every man and woman who joins is aiding in the campaign to keep children healthy.

Those present were Myrtle Schriever, Beulah Nichols, W. D. Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Marquardt.

Earl Warner, Ralph Jackson and Clarence Carmichael were each successful in getting an elk on their hunting trip last week. The young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Majeski is very ill with pneumonia. She is being cared for at the home of Mrs. Maggie Hunt in Heppner.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hunt returned from Portland Sunday evening.

Clarence Bauman, Morrow county sheriff, was a business visitor in this city Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cobb of Spokane were visitors at the R. B. Rice home last week.

Guests of Miss Nellie Doney last week were her father, J. C. Doney, and her sister, Mrs. John L. Garrett, of San Diego, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Miller motored to Portland Thursday.

Mrs. Mae Burchell was a business visitor in Pendleton Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. George McMillan of Cherryville spent last week with relatives in Lexington. On their return home they were accompanied by their niece, Miss Naomi McMillan who spent the week end in Portland. Miss Naomi returned to her home here Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Myles Martin spent the week end with relatives in Moro.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Palmer and Mrs. Laura Scott were called to Farmington, Wash., Monday by the death of Milo Palmer, brother-in-law of Mrs. Scott and uncle of Mr. Palmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKinney and son of Portland were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Saling last week. Mrs. McKinney is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Saling.

W. D. Campbell spent the week end in Beaverton. When he returned home Monday evening he was accompanied by Mrs. Campbell and their baby daughter.

H. E. Albert and Mr. Lewis, commercial and district managers of the Railway Express, of Portland called on the local express agent Friday.

U. of O. Experts Talk Over Station KOAC

University of Oregon, Eugene, Nov. 14.—Faculty and staff members of the University of Oregon will take a prominent part in the radio programs to be broadcast during the next two months from station KOAC at Corvallis, according to an announcement sent here by Alfred Powers, dean and director of general extension for the state system of higher education.

An expert interpretation of international events and trends will be given each Wednesday night at 7:30 by Dr. Victor P. Morris, professor of economics here. He is regarded as an authority in his field, and is a brilliant orator. The series of talks on municipal affairs, given each evening at 7:55 under the direction of Herman Kehrl, director of the university bureau of municipal service, will bring before the people of Oregon a number of outstanding civic officials and leaders.

On Thursdays at 8:15 the school of law of the university conducts a series of talks on "Law in Modern Society." Dr. Warren D. Smith, professor of geology and geography here, will talk on "Glimpses of the Scenic Treasure House of Oregon," on alternate Thursdays at 8:40 p. m.

Have You Appreciated Reading The Heppner Gazette Times

WE HOPE YOU HAVE. It has been our endeavor to keep the paper as readable and interesting as possible through the past months of trying financial stringency. The condition of the times has made it impossible to keep the paper up to the standard to which we would have liked to keep it. The paper has not reflected all the business and social life of the community—but it has attempted at all times to keep before its readers those things of vital local interest and importance which it was possible for it to present.

In these trying months we have shared with our readers the necessity of curtailing expenses to a minimum in an attempt to keep things going. We have been called upon to extend credit in so many instances that we practically have been forced from a "pay-in-advance" basis for payment of subscriptions. We have been glad to comply with the request to "keep the paper going," although to do so has strained our own credit.

It would be greatly appreciated if those who can now do so, would take care of their subscription arrearage and make their desires known as to receiving the paper in the future. We have no desire to "force" the paper upon anyone, but continued acceptance can only mean to us recognition by the subscriber of his obligation.
