For Mrs. New Homemaker, however, here are the complete direc-tions, with all the wrinkles, prepared by Miss Lucy Case, home economics specialist at Oregon

State college. First, select a plump, well-fattened turkey. A young bird has a more flexible breast bone, softer smoother legs and feet, pin feathors, few hairs, and short, sharp claws. About Thanksgiving time young toms weigh 12 to 16 pounds and old toms 16 to 30 pounds, while young hens weigh 7 to 12 pounds and old ones 10 to 15 pounds. Scrub the outside of the bird with a wet cloth and a little soda, soap or cornmeal and rinse under run-Mr. and Mrs. George Tucker and daughter of Echo were week-end with a wet cloth. New Forest Conference Discusses Grazing Plans The keynote of the U.S. forest service conference recently held at Ogden, Utah, was a closer coordination of the national forests with the social and economic program of the nation, the states, and the local communities, according to regional forester C. J. Buck, who returned to his office at Portland on November 15. Foresters from the ten national forest regions of the United States and Alaska were in attendance at the conference, which was called primarily to discuss the use of the national forests' forage resources No radical changes in policy are contemplated, according to Buck, but the conference reached the definite conclusion that on account of the continued drouth, some reductions in numbers of livestock on the national forest ranges must be made to safeguard the forage resources and to protect valuable watersheds. Also. the conference was of the opinion that in the more favorable agricultural sections some adjust-ments in the distribution of the grazing privileges should be made. Such action would insure that the national forest ranges would contribute more fully under the changed economic conditions to the primary forest service ob-jective that the national forests shall make the greatest possible contribution to the maintenance of homes and sound communities consistent with the permanence A thorough exploration of the ossibilities of cooperative game management on the national forests was made with the objective of development of the game and

You don't have to give the child "a double dose" a day or two later.

Can constipation be safely relieved in children? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say many mothers who have followed this sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Give the dose you find suited to the system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose, if repeated, until the bowels are mov-ing naturally without aid.

An approved liquid laxative (one that is widely used for children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. The mild laxative action of this excellent preparation is the best form of help for children — and grown-ups too. The dose can be regulated for any age or need. age or need
