

Local Happenings

Among those from Heppner taking in sessions of the Eastern Oregon Wheat league conference at Arlington last week were Joe Belanger, E. L. Morton, S. E. Notson, J. O. Turner, C. B. Cox, Glen Jones, J. L. Gault, Spencer Crawford and P. M. Gemmill. Of the more than 300 registered, upwards of 100 were from Morrow county, according to reports. Harvey Miller of Lexington was chairman of one of the three major committees.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Barratt and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Belanger motored to Canyon City Saturday morning, taking in sessions of the cattle and horse raisers' meeting and attending the annual banquet that evening. They report a large attendance and an enjoyable as well as a profitable time. Many Grant county folks are planning to attend the state woolgrowers meeting here in January, they report.

R. H. Steers was in from Hardman on Saturday and reports a lot of fog out his way. The ground is also frozen to an extent greater than at any time last winter. Mr. Steers has employment with the contractors on the Heppner-Spray road. The right of way is all cleared and work of grading has begun, to be pushed to completion rapidly with the prevalence of good weather conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph I. Campbell of Salem were Sunday night guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Turner. Mr. Campbell had business in circuit court here Monday morning as attorney for the State Industrial Accident commission. They departed before noon Monday for Corvallis where Mr. Campbell gives a lecture each Monday evening at 8:30 over radio station KOAC.

Bernie Gaunt returned this week from Montana where he had been since early in the summer. Reports of Bernie's passing were "greatly exaggerated," as Mark Twain said about such a report concerning himself, and Bernie's friends have been giving him the glad hand-shake. He has not been enjoying the best of health in recent months.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Piercy, former Heppner residents, visited the end of the week with Heppner friends from their home at The Dalles. They were accompanied by their daughters, Pauline and Virginia, and reported their son Kenneth has enlisted in Uncle Sam's navy and is now stationed in California.

Frank S. Parker and Geo. N. Peck, commissioners, and L. W. Briggs, treasurer, expect to be in Portland next Tuesday and Wednesday to attend the annual state convention of county commissioners and treasurers. Mr. Briggs expects to go to the city Monday and to return Thursday.

Dan Stalter expects to leave Monday for Portland to spend the holidays with his daughter and family, to return the first of the year in time for the annual meeting of Heppner Mining company, of which he is president.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Miller and children were in town Tuesday from the north-Lexington farm. Mr. Miller reports exceptionally good interest at the wheat meeting at Arlington which he attended last week end.

John J. Wightman and Mrs. Marvin Wightman left yesterday for Oakland, Ore., to attend the turkey show held there annually. Mrs. Wightman the younger contemplates going into the turkey business.

Julian Rauch was in town yesterday from the "Banana belt," reporting that section was ahead of Heppner in good weather. The fog has not been quite so dense there the last few days, he said.

License to wed was issued on December 5 at the clerk's office to Evelyn Olson and Robert Edward Montgomery, both young people of Ione. Mrs. Helen McClaskey was witness.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Dix went to Portland the first of the week to attend final rites for Mrs. Dix's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Young, held at Cedar Mills yesterday.

Ben Cox who has been confined to Heppner hospital for many weeks was able to go home the end of the week, his condition much improved.

Lakeview—Eighty-nine sheepmen of Lake county have sold 23,304 old ewes to the government drought relief service, for which they received a total of $46,068. Of this number of ewes 76 1/2 per cent were condemned on the ranches or range because of emaciation, and sheepmen of the county believe this project will conserve considerable forage and other feed for the better and younger stock, says County Agent Victor W. Johnson.

Soil Erosion Studies Conducted by College

Popular interest in soil erosion and the demand for trained workers in this field has resulted in one of the junior courses in the school of agriculture at Oregon State college being devoted almost exclusively to this subject for the coming term, announces W. L. Powers, dean of the soils department. The course deals with climate, vegetation and topography, the causes of erosion, and the various types and means of control. After the students have completed their training they will make an inspection trip over the new Columbia Basin erosion project. Some preliminary tests on erosion control are also being carried out on several of the eastern Oregon branch experiment stations. At Moro the use of fall wheat planted in the spring as an erosion prevention measure is being studied. At the Pendleton branch station the planting of certain grasses in draws where washing is likely to occur through wheat fields has been found advantageous. The grass adds to the pasture value of the stubble field following harvest.

Editorial
It seems as though there are a large number of "clicks" in this high school. Groups of students go around together and have little or nothing to do with other students. This may be all right in some cases outside of school, but in school everyone should work together and go as one "click." When there are any business affairs in the school, no matter what they are, students will not stand up for their own rights. They let others influence them. If one member of a "click" has a point against a measure that may be of value, all other members of the "click" will follow.
What we need in this student body is students who can fight for themselves and say and do what they want to—not use the ideas and influence of someone else. One of the best ways to gain this is to cut out all "clicks" during matters concerning the student body. Let's see if we can't get an organization that is unified—not run by several smaller organizations.

Assembly
The freshman class gave a program Friday, December 7th, for the benefit of the student body. The first number was "Red Wing" played by Jesse Tinsley on a harmonica. Scott McMurdy then gave a mock violin solo, assisted by Ruth Green. The third number of entertainment was the correction of English errors of various members of the student body and faculty. This was portrayed by Alice Latourell as teacher and other members of the class, in a comical way.
Mr. Winter presented football letters to the boys who earned them this season. He joked with them and told comical stories about each showing his good comradeship with the boys. Those receiving letters were Ray Coblantz, Ray Drake,

Mr. Bloom talked a few minutes on the respect and admiration for the coach by the student body.

Dont's for Girls
Don't be a chisler
Or pretend to be Mae West;
Don't make a date and break it
If another fellow seems the best.
Don't look out the window
And watch the cars pass;
Don't forget to look in the mirror
Before you go to class.
Don't be too innocent
Or act like a two-year-old;
Don't become conceited
And don't become too bold.
Don't think you are the only fish
That is swimming around in the pond—
If you do you'll lose your boy friend
To some brunette or blond.
When your boy friend takes you home
And goes off singing a song,
Don't go for a ride with another boy
As soon as he has gone.
This advice is meant for you
And if you are very smart,
You will copy it off, or better still
You will learn to say it by heart.

Grade News
The eighth grade attended two naturalization examinations at the court house Monday morning. Mrs. Merle Becket is teaching the second and third grades in place of Mrs. Dix, who is absent because of the death of her mother. Each grade teacher plans to have the children in her room draw names for presents for a class Christmas tree.
Pauline Rasmussen of the first grade has returned to school this week.

Rodger Conner, Dick Kinne, Eldon Tucker, R. D. Allstott and Bob Van Schoelack of the first grade are absent with chicken pox.

From "The Patsy"
Patricia: But I've got to admit one thing: if it wasn't for you our family tree would certainly die.
Grace: What do you mean by that?
Patricia: You're the sap!
Patricia: And even if I didn't love him, I'd marry him just to save him from you.
Grace: You go to hell—
Patricia: You run your own errands.

Sports
Heppner stole all the bacon away from Ione Saturday night, capturing all three of the basketball games played.
In the first of the series of three games the Heppner high school second team easily outscored the Ione freshman team. The game ended with the score 14-7.
The second game was between the two high school varsity teams. After many hard fought attacks the half ended 7-1 in favor of Heppner. In the last half Ione staged a determined comeback, but Heppner refused to yield. The final score was 17-9 in favor of Heppner high school.
In the last game the Heppner town team easily outclassed the Ione graduates to win by a score of 17-7.

Student Council Meeting
A student council meeting was held last Thursday, December 6. The council voted on and passed that the amendment concerning a cup for the most active club be left as it is. An editorial staff for the High School Annual was picked by Ed Dick, editor-in-chief. The following are the students chosen: manager, Chet Christenson; boys' sports, Louis Gilliam; girls' sports, Ethyl Hughes; social activities, Jessie French; news, Don Drake; art, Irene Kilkenny; alumni, Frances Rugg; jokes, Donald Turner.

A cantata, "Evangeline," based on the famous poem of that name by H. W. Longfellow, is to be given December 21 by the girls' glee club, under the supervision of Miss Brownson. To complete the evening, a one-act play entitled "The Tree," under the direction of Mr. Evans, is to be presented by the public speaking class.

Notice
Next Saturday Heppner journeys to Pendleton where they will share a double-header with Echo against Pendleton high school. They will have a fair chance of victory since many of Pendleton's best men are lost by graduation. Heppner always managed to draw a good crowd out of town during the football games. Let's do the same in basketball.
Don't forget: Saturday.

Junior Play
The junior class play, "The Patsy," has been postponed until Friday, December 14, due to the illness of Howard Bryant. On account of this delay the other members of the cast are looking forward to making it a bigger success.

William McRoberts, who was appointed general manager, is also afflicted with the epidemic.
"The Patsy" is enacted by nine members of the junior class of Heppner high school. It is a rollicking comedy of three acts which you will enjoy.

Chicken Pox
Chicken pox is all the rage; it's got "The Patsy" on the page; All the cast is catching it. While the students wonder why Mr. Evans wants to cry.
